Rollbacks In Prices Of Some Items Planned, DiSalle Says

Officials Struggle To Tailor Controls To Fit Conditions; New Orders Awaited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Price Chief Michael DiSalle said tonight that "substantial rollbacks" in the prices of a number of items will be ordered as soon as his agency can get around to it.

These rollbacks would cut prices of items affected below current levels, at which they were frozen by last Friday's price order.

"Those people who should be rolled back will be rolled back," DiSalle said. "We'll get to them just as soon as we have the time."

DiSalle said he hoped to achieve "substantial rollbacks by tailored regulations in individual fields," which he didn't name.

He said further regulations would set ceilings for farm products — although any curbs here will be limited by the Defense Production Act of 1950, which says farm prices can't be fixed below parity level.

The Price Administrator said he hopes that "before long" controls can be put on fresh fruit and vegetables and on fish and other sea foods.

DiSalle Sees No Rationing

DiSalle spoke in a recorded interview over the Mutual Broadcasting System as government officials struggled to speed up a series of new control orders intended to cut down confusion and hardships caused by the wage-price freeze.

These orders are expected to start coming out tomorrow or Tuesday.

DiSalle said he saw no prospect that consumer goods would be rationed in the near future — if at all.

And he declared that the government will crack down severely on any black marketing that may result from the new controls.

"I want to warn people who are thinking about going into black markets that not only the seller but the buyer is subject to severe penalties and we are really going to give it to them," DiSalle said.

Throughout the country the Office of Price Stabilization prepared to open 13 regional offices and 42 district offices tomorrow with skeleton staffs obviously not big enough to handle thousands of inquiries.

Appeal For Patience

Price and wage officials appealed to the public for patience. They said the fastest way to cure injustices will be to issue new orders rather than to deal with individual cases.

Cyrus S. Ching, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, told one labor leader: "When a freeze is issued it lowers the temperature all around. In such a cold situation it's advisable to keep your shirt on."

Ching's board was preparing an order listing some groups of employes who will be exempt from the wage freeze. These groups will probably include federal, state, and city employes, and the employes of very small firms.

Rent Chief Urges Speedy Enactment Of Tough Controls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The nation's rent control chief said today rents are rising rapidly and he is powerless to stop them. He called for fast enactment of "very tough" rent controls to match the price-wage freeze.

Woods has sent recommendations for a new rent law to the Office of Defense Mobilization headed by Charles E. Wilson.

Woods declined to tell what his recommendations are, but judging by his past statements and other indications, it seemed probable that he is recommending:

1. Authority for the government to restore rent controls wherever it thinks they are needed.
2. Elimination of the "local option" provision under which many cities have decontrolled themselves.
3. Authority for a rent rollback, particularly in areas surrounding military camps.

Economists Urge Stiff Tax Boost To Offset Curbs

"Huge Inflationary Pressure" Feared

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Four hundred economists have told Congress that wage-price controls will build "a huge inflationary pressure" unless accompanied by a stiff tax boost and tighter credit curbs.

Sen. Butler (R-Neb) a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said meanwhile that of more than 6,000 leading businessmen to whom questionnaires were sent, 92 per cent believe:

1. The $71,600,000,000 federal budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 should be balanced.
2. The vast defense program should be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis out of taxes.

The statement of the economists, nearly all of them on college faculties, said emergency fiscal and credit policies, rather than price and wage controls, "constitute our primary defense against inflation."

Their views were submitted to the Senate-House Economic Committee before the government froze wages and most prices Friday night.

Prepared in December, the statement was made public by the committee today as part of a staff report to Congress, titled "General Credit Control, Debt Management and Economic Mobilization."

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), the committee chairman, said the report will be the basis for roundtable discussions the committee will begin tomorrow on economic problems.

Westinghouse Builds Jet Plane Autopilot

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28 (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corporation said today it has developed an electric autopilot to guide jet fighters planes with split-second accuracy in combat maneuvers.

The company said the midget device is the first automatic pilot with "unlimited maneuverability." It will be installed in F94C jet fighter planes now being built for the U. S. Air Force. The new device is the second autopilot to be accepted for jets in recent months.

The flight controller of the autopilot provides virtual finger-tip control and permits the pilot to maneuver his craft with relative ease at high speeds.

Three Injured When Big Plane Noses Over

FORT KNOX, Ky., Jan. 28 (AP) — An Air Force C-47 plane carrying 31 passengers from Charlotte, N. C., crashed while landing at Godman Field today. Three crew members were injured.

The transport plane landed on the runway in a normal manner about 4:15 p. m. then, without warning, it nosed over and cartwheeled.

Maid Is Heroine As Hotel Burns

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—A lucky break and a gallant young chambermaid saved nearly 100 persons from possible death today as fire destroyed the Earle Hotel, a familiar landmark in downtown Scranton.

Many persons escaped by crawling down hastily thrown up fire ladders. At least two jumped from windows. Still others were rescued by Betty Barbour, 22-year-old chambermaid who stayed at her post on an elevator through flames and thick smoke.

Hotel Manager Richard Charette called Betty "the heroine of the fire."

The fact that two patrolmen in a radio car had just stopped near the hotel for breakfast when Charette ran from the building yelling "fire" at 4:20 a. m., gave scores of the guests a fighting chance for survival.

Otherwise many would have perished in their beds, Charette said.

Shah Of Iran Offers To Sell Royal Estates To Peasants

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Shah, long reported to be Iran's biggest single landowner, said today he will split up his vast royal estates and sell small farms to the peasants who have been working them.

The ruler's offer of a long-overdue land reform seemed likely to shake up the social structure of this ancient country, where most wealth and land is controlled by less than 300 families.

Political circles speculated that the Shah would now use his influence to push through legislation aimed at breaking up the semi-feudal estates of private landowners. Land reform long has been urged by progressive elements in Iran to counter steady attacks by the Soviet radio and the underground Tudeh (Communist) Party on the nation's ruling class.

There have been no published reports on the extent of the Shah's estates. But government sources estimated he inherited from his father, the late Shah Reza Pahlevi, approximately 1,000 villages with surrounding farmland supporting more than 250,000 peasants.

By royal order the revenue from the estates has been turned over to state charities. The brief royal proclamation broadcast by the state radio today said the Shah had come to the conclusion that sale of the estates on long term installments to the peasants would be more in the national interest than supporting charities.

Capt. Don Gentile, Famed War Ace, Dies In Jet Crash

Pilot Accounted For 26 German Planes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Capt. Don S. Gentile, 30-year-old World War II ace who flew 182 combat missions, was killed near here today when his jet training plane crashed while on a "routine flight."

An enlisted man, riding as a passenger, also was killed when the plane smashed into trees on a farm at Forestville, Md., about three miles from the Andrews Air Force Base.

Capt. Gentile had taken off from Andrews 20 minutes earlier.

Gentile, born in Piqua, Ohio, accounted for 26 enemy planes during the war, in the European theater.

The highly-decorated pilot flew 350 combat hours for the U. S., and was once called "Captain Courageous" by President Roosevelt. Earlier he was famed as a British Royal Air Force pilot.

Officers could assign no reason for the crash. They said he had given no indication he was in trouble.

Joseph King, 35, who lives on a farm where the crash occurred, about 3:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, said he heard the plane hit the trees.

Other persons said the plane was seen coming down from the northeast at a steep angle. It sawed off several tree tops before it crashed in a wooded area.

The plane burst into flames and the pilot was thrown out.

Only the engine, wing tip and wheel strut were identifiable.

Capt. Gentile currently was attending the University of Maryland as part of the air university program of the Air Force. Today's flight was a routine hop to maintain his proficiency.

Army Plane Crash Claims Five Lives

PORT CLINTON, O., Jan. 28 (AP)—A twin-engine Army plane crashed in an apple orchard west of here today. All five of its occupants were killed.

Sheriff Merlan Budd of Ottawa County said parts of the Beechcraft C-45 were scattered over a radius of 50 feet and the motors tore into the frozen ground to a depth of about three feet.

Authorities at Selfridge Field, Mich., identified the dead as:

Maj. W. T. Mattison, the pilot; Capt. H. H. Manning, co-pilot; T-Sgt. F. W. Boice, engineer; Capt. L. R. Taylor, all of Washington, D. C., and C. D. Kafader, a sailor from Los Angeles.

Gen. M'Arthur Enthusiastic On Korea Tour

Chinese Casualties 160,000 In 4 Weeks

TOKYO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur, enthusiastic and full of banter, paid his ninth flying visit to the Korean warfront today.

He jeeped within a mile of the fighting line south of Seoul, flew over that Red-held city, and declared:

"The stake we fight for now is more than Korea. It's a free Asia."

Plane Is Unescorted

At the front he was told by Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway that the Chinese Communists have lost 40,000 dead and 120,000 wounded since Jan. 1, not counting weather casualties.

He made the trip for a first-hand glimpse of the allied offensive now punching northward toward Seoul. Its tanks were pointed north. He found the men with an air of confidence.

"It makes a great deal of difference which direction you're going," said one officer. "We can put up with a lot if we are moving ahead."

MacArthur's plane flew unescorted and unchallenged from Tokyo and landed at Suwon airport, which was captured two days ago and only today became operational for large planes.

Met By Generals

He was met by Ridgway, Eighth Army commander, and other generals including Maj. Gen. Frank E. Milburn, 1st Corps commander; Brig. Thomas Bradie, commander of the 29th British Brigade; and Brig. Gen. Tahsin Yazici, commander of the Turkish Brigade.

Last June 26 MacArthur made his first visit to Suwon, at a time when South Korean forces were reeling back before the triumphant Reds. On that day—on another jeep trip to the front—MacArthur formulated his strategy that led to the September landing at Inchon and a subsequent sweep that sent his troops to the Manchurian border.

Today he saw the same flatlands blanketed with snow south of the Han River, toward which Allied forces are driving in an effort to locate and destroy the Chinese Communist troops they now face.

"Big" Cold Wave Hits Most Of U. S.

[By The Associated Press]

A brutal cold front pushed southward from Canada Sunday and rapidly overspread most of the country.

It chilled all but the southernmost corners of the U. S. and, as it clashed with warmer air in some sections, iced highways and cities with freezing rain. Hundreds of persons fell on the ice and were treated in hospitals.

U. S. Weather Bureau forecasters in Chicago said the cold wave "is a big one." They said barometric readings in the Canadian northwest indicated it was unusually large.

Glazed highways and streets were all but impassable in parts of Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana and some other states.

Two cities—Pittsburgh and Indianapolis—reported hospitals treating those injured in falls. There were 310 treated in Pittsburgh and more than 100 in Indianapolis, with the total growing hourly. No fatalities were listed immediately.

"Unknown" To Play Mary Martin's Role

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Martha Wright, an almost unknown young actress from Duval, Wash., will succeed Mary Martin June 1 in the starring role of Nurse Nellie Forbush in the Broadway musical hit "South Pacific," the producers announced today.

Miss Martin, who cut her hair to more than a boyish bob in order to play the role and who gives herself a soap shampoo in every performance, is taking a vacation.

She has played in the Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein 2d hit since April 7, 1949.

British Plane Overdue

HONG KONG, Monday, Jan. 29 (AP)—A four-engined British Sunderland flying boat, veteran of the Korean war, is overdue on a flight from Japan to Hong Kong, the Royal Air Force announced today.

Squadron Leader Ted Lewis, RAF public relations officer, said it was not known here whether the plane had left Japan with any passengers or how many were in her crew.

Remembrance For Rosemarie

Rosemarie Konko, 11 years old yesterday, joins her hand to that of Magistrate Charles E. Murphy around the stack of presents she received at her first birthday party. Magistrate Murphy arranged the party, with 150 underprivileged youngsters as guests, in a New York restaurant. He learned she had never had a birthday party when, earlier this month, she told in his court how she begged money to keep her mother in liquor and food for them to eat. The mother went to jail for six months and Rosemarie to live with an aunt and uncle.

Move To Recheck Present Draft Age Pool Grows

Some Vets, Husbands May Precede Boys, 18

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Childless husbands aged 19 through 25, and some thousands of young men now classified 4-F, appeared definitely closer to the draft today than most 18-year-olds.

And short-service veterans with no World War II time overseas or in combat began to look like a good bet too.

The outlook was indicated in statements by Senate and House leaders handling the Defense Department's request for a draft at 18 for 27 months, integrated into permanent universal military service and training.

"Safeguards" Are Urged

They were not talking about actually killing the plan to lower the induction age, despite a storm of protests against taking youths of 18; they wanted another look at the 19-25 group first.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee publicly offered to write what he called "general safeguards" into the bill.

These would call for reexamination of men from 19 through 25 years now deferred as "4-Fs" as well as induction of some 290,000 non-veteran husbands in the same age group who are exempted now.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee urged both these steps and added another. Before taking 18-year-olds, he said it might be wise to recall some World War II veterans, such as those with only a few months service none of which was overseas or in combat.

All Vets Now Deferred

All veterans now are deferred by law, and men with dependents by the draft regulations under the law.

Secretary of Defense Marshall and Assistant Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg promised both the Senate and House committees that all available older men would be called ahead. They also assured that those 18-year-olds who are nearest 19 would be called first if the draft age is lowered.

Bat-Like Interceptor Jet Plane Is Tested

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Jan. 28 (AP) — The successful maiden flight of the bat-like Douglas XF4D interceptor was announced here today by the Navy Department Bureau of Aeronautics.

Larry Peyton, veteran Douglas test pilot, completed a 30-minute high altitude flight at Edwards Air Force Base, Muroc, Calif., on Jan. 23.

Two Perish In Fire

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two persons died and eight others were hospitalized today when fire swept the second floor of a brick building.

The dead were Miss Alice O'Brion, 69, operator of a rooming house on the second and third floors, and Oscar Baltrock, 69, a tenant.

Female Warbird Going To Korea

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 28 (AP)—A lady fighter pilot is going to Korea to serve with the U. N. air force.

She's Maj. Sabiha Gokcen, 36-year-old adopted daughter of the late Kemal Ataturk, "Father of the Turks," and possibly the world's first female warbird.

Telling about her plans to leave for Korea in a few days, the Istanbul press reported today that she volunteered recently for active combat service and that the Turkish government approved apparently with the consent of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

Pleven, Truman To Confer Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Premier Pleven of France arrives tomorrow reportedly ready to assure President Truman that French troops will fight on in Indochina—even if Chinese Communists intervene on a massive scale.

The 49-year-old French leader is said to be ready to stress this determination at the start of his cold war strategy conference with President Truman and other top American officials.

The extraordinary Truman-Pleven meeting begins at the White House tomorrow afternoon, (at 2:30 p. m. EST) a few hours after Pleven arrives by train from New York. He reached New York today by plane where he told reporters there is "absolutely" no cleavage between the two countries on foreign policy.

Discussion of the Indochina problem, which has tied up the bulk of France's army nearly five years, will top the agenda prepared for the two-day meeting.

Responsible diplomatic officials said Pleven will tell Mr. Truman France is determined to continue its costly battle against Communist-led guerrilla forces in Indochina until victory is won.

"Sunday Punch" Test Blast Jolts Desert Gambling Town

SCENE OF A-TESTS — Cross indicates places where "one of the periodic tests" of atomic explosions was held the last three days at the Air Force bombing range near Las Vegas, Nev., the Atomic Energy Commission said. Citizens of Las Vegas saw and felt the blasts.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 28 (AP)—The third blast in four days jolted this desert gambling town early today as atomic scientists apparently continued "tickling the dragon's tail."

Everybody who felt today's blast agreed it was the strongest of the three.

But earlier in the month the commission was authorized by President Truman to use the Nevada range for test work.

The commission announced at the time the tests would "include experimental nuclear detonation for the development of atomic bombs—so-called 'A-bombs'—carried out under controlled conditions."

Although the commission preserved a studied silence today about the blasts, residents of Las Vegas and vicinity didn't keep quiet.

Some were rather irked.

6 Of Bridal Party Die As Car Dives Off Unused Span

Tragedy Discovered Through Skid Marks

BOSTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — An automobile plunged off a partly dismantled drawbridge today carrying six members of a gay bridal party to death in muddy Mystic River.

The tragedy was not discovered until several hours after the accident when two cruising car officers observed skid marks on the pavement and broken headlight glass on a platform under the unused draw.

The dead — all of Woonsocket, R. I., — were identified by police as:

Henry Gauthier, 49, the bridegroom; his bride, the former Doris F. Cote, 32; Mrs. Paul Jacob, 51; Mrs. Jeanette Baillargeon, 41; Romeo J. Lagasse, 46, a mill worker, and Francis C. Lariviere, 50, a machine shop foreman.

Gauthier and the former Miss Cote were married yesterday in St. Louis Catholic Church, Woonsocket. The group apparently was en route to Boston to celebrate, police said.

Police said the driver, apparently unfamiliar with the section, missed the ramp to a new bridge and took the old ramp.

He evidently noted his mistake too late, applied the brakes, and was carried to the open draw where the car plunged into 40 feet of water, police said.

Police, firemen and sailors from the Boston Navy Yard recovered the car and bodies nine hours after the estimated time of the death plunge.

The Rev. Charles Hyland of St. Catherine's Church, Somerville, administered the last rites of the Catholic Church as the machine and bodies were swung aboard a Navy lighter.

Enemy Forces U. N. Pullback In One Sector

Reds Infiltrate, Attack From Rear

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 29 (AP) — Chinese Reds today slowed the five-day-old Allied push in Western Korea by infiltrating small forces in pre-dawn darkness and attacking from the rear.

These counterattacks in the west—and North Korean ambushes of Allied patrols in the central sector—indicated the United Nations limited offensive toward Seoul was nearing the main Communist lines.

Allied forces, last reported within 11 miles of Seoul, beat off enemy counterattacks around three towns on the 40-mile front.

One attack forced U. N. troops to fall back. They later restored their lines. The Chinese also resorted to road blocks and land mines.

At 9 a. m. today (7 p. m. EST Sunday) firing still was heard in the outskirts of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul. That was six miles behind the Allies' advance position north of Suwon.

This first stiff enemy resistance since the U. S. First and Ninth Corps began the "limited objective attack" came from elements of two Chinese Red regiments. They were believed acting as a covering force in front of the Reds' main line.

60,000 Reds Massed

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said he had reports that 60,000 Chinese Reds were massed between the advancing Allies and the Han River.

The pre-dawn Communist attacks — some lasting five hours — were dealt in strength up to a battalion.

The Reds hit back around Suwon, Kumyangjang and Ichon. Kumyangjang is 11 miles southeast of Suwon; Ichon 13 miles northeast of Kumyangjang.

Six hundred Chinese infiltrated the positions of Puerto Rican infantrymen four miles northeast of Suwon then attacked from behind. The action began at midnight. The Reds were forced to retreat by 5 a. m.

A force of about equal size attacked a U. N. force six miles west of Ichon shortly after midnight. The U. N. troops were driven back but restored their lines by daylight in tough fighting.

Puerto Rican soldiers had to battle from 3:30 a. m. until 6 a. m. before driving off another Red force northeast of Suwon. Sporadic small arms exchanges still were occurring in that area.

Reds Ambush Two-Jeep Patrol

The Reds ambushed a two-jeep patrol near Suwon and destroyed both jeeps. Several Allied patrols were ambushed in both the west and central sectors.

Allied tanks knocked out two road blocks set up by Reds last night on the outskirts of Suwon.

Until today the Allied forces—including U. S., Puerto Ricans, British, Greek and Turks — had gained more than 12 miles with little or no contact with the enemy.

Allied patrols prowled ever closer to the 38th parallel in Central Korea despite Red ambushes.

Today's Eighth Army communique said patrols moved four miles north of Hoengsong. That put Allied forces within 31 miles of the 38th parallel, the closest approach since the fall of Seoul Jan. 4.

GI, 4 Of Family Perish In Blaze

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Jan. 28 (AP) — A returned soldier and four members of his family gathered to welcome him home died early today when fire swept a farm house at Tenbroeck.

Six others were awakened by a neighbor, D. M. Downs, and escaped in their night garments. The house was destroyed and the bodies of the victims burned beyond recognition.

The flames claimed the lives of a mother, daughter, two sons — including the soldier — and a granddaughter. Tenbroeck is about 22 miles from Fort Payne in Northeast Alabama.

County Coroner Hoyt Wilson listed the following dead:

Mrs. Florence Brewer, 54; Jewel Lee Brewer, 18; Recruit Albert Dewitt Brewer, 21, Ft. Jackson, S. C.; Robert Brewer, 14, and Brenda Gale McKelvey, 5.

14 Yachtsmen Drown

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 28 (AP)—Fourteen New Zealand sportsmen are believed today to have drowned in the country's worst yachting disaster, climax to a storm-wrecked ocean race.

Their three yachts foundered in mountainous seas after sailing with 17 other craft Jan. 23 from Wellington for Lyttelton.

Land reform long has been urged by progressive elements in Iran to counter steady attacks by the Soviet radio and the underground Tudeh (Communist) Party on the nation's ruling class.

There have been no published reports on the extent of the Shah's estates. But government sources estimated he inherited from his father, the late Shah Reza Pahlevi, approximately 1,000 villages with surrounding farmland supporting more than 250,000 peasants.

By royal order the revenue from the estates has been turned over to state charities. The brief royal proclamation broadcast by the state radio today said the Shah had come to the conclusion that sale of the estates on long term installments to the peasants would be more in the national interest than supporting charities.

Capt. Don Gentile, Famed War Ace, Dies In Jet Crash

Pilot Accounted For 26 German Planes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Capt. Don S. Gentile, 30-year-old World War II ace who flew 182 combat missions, was killed near here today when his jet training plane crashed while on a "routine flight."

An enlisted man, riding as a passenger, also was killed when the plane smashed into trees on a farm at Forestville, Md., about three miles from the Andrews Air Force Base.

Capt. Gentile had taken off from Andrews 20 minutes earlier.

Gentile, born in Piqua, Ohio, accounted for 26 enemy planes during the war, in the European theater.

The highly-decorated pilot flew 350 combat hours for the U. S., and was once called "Captain Courageous" by President Roosevelt. Earlier he was famed as a British Royal Air Force pilot.

Officers could assign no reason for the crash. They said he had given no indication he was in trouble.

Joseph King, 35, who lives on a farm where the crash occurred, about 3:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, said he heard the plane hit the trees.

Other persons said the plane was seen coming down from the northeast at a steep angle. It sawed off several tree tops before it crashed in a wooded area.

The plane burst into flames and the pilot was thrown out.

Only the engine, wing tip and wheel strut were identifiable.

Capt. Gentile currently was attending the University of Maryland as part of the air university program of the Air Force. Today's flight was a routine hop to maintain his proficiency.

Army Plane Crash Claims Five Lives

PORT CLINTON, O., Jan. 28 (AP)—A twin-engine Army plane crashed in an apple orchard west of here today. All five of its occupants were killed.

Sheriff Merlan Budd of Ottawa County said parts of the Beechcraft C-45 were scattered over a radius of 50 feet and the motors tore into the frozen ground to a depth of about three feet.

Authorities at Selfridge Field, Mich., identified the dead as:

Maj. W. T. Mattison, the pilot; Capt. H. H. Manning, co-pilot; T-Sgt. F. W. Boice, engineer; Capt. L. R. Taylor, all of Washington, D. C., and C. D. Kafader, a sailor from Los Angeles.

Gen. M'Arthur Enthusiastic On Korea Tour

Chinese Casualties 160,000 In 4 Weeks

TOKYO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur, enthusiastic and full of banter, paid his ninth flying visit to the Korean warfront today.

He jeeped within a mile of the fighting line south of Seoul, flew over that Red-held city, and declared:

"The stake we fight for now is more than Korea. It's a free Asia."

Plane Is Unescorted

At the front he was told by Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway that the Chinese Communists have lost 40,000 dead and 120,000 wounded since Jan. 1, not counting weather casualties.

He made the trip for a first-hand glimpse of the allied offensive now punching northward toward Seoul. Its tanks were pointed north. He found the men with an air of confidence.

"It makes a great deal of difference which direction you're going," said one officer. "We can put up with a lot if we are moving ahead."

MacArthur's plane flew unescorted and unchallenged from Tokyo and landed at Suwon airport, which was captured two days ago and only today became operational for large planes.

Met By Generals

He was met by Ridgway, Eighth Army commander, and other generals including Maj. Gen. Frank E. Milburn, 1st Corps commander; Brig. Thomas Bradie, commander of the 29th British Brigade; and Brig. Gen. Tahsin Yazici, commander of the Turkish Brigade.

Last June 26 MacArthur made his first visit to Suwon, at a time when South Korean forces were reeling back before the triumphant Reds. On that day—on another jeep trip to the front—MacArthur formulated his strategy that led to the September landing at Inchon and a subsequent sweep that sent his troops to the Manchurian border.

Today he saw the same flatlands blanketed with snow south of the Han River, toward which Allied forces are driving in an effort to locate and destroy the Chinese Communist troops they now face.

"Big" Cold Wave Hits Most Of U. S.

[By The Associated Press]

A brutal cold front pushed southward from Canada Sunday and rapidly overspread most of the country.

It chilled all but the southernmost corners of the U. S. and, as it clashed with warmer air in some sections, iced highways and cities with freezing rain. Hundreds of persons fell on the ice and were treated in hospitals.

U. S. Weather Bureau forecasters in Chicago said the cold wave "is a big one." They said barometric readings in the Canadian northwest indicated it was unusually large.

Glazed highways and streets were all but impassable in parts of Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana and some other states.

Two cities—Pittsburgh and Indianapolis — reported hospitals treating those injured in falls. There were 310 treated in Pittsburgh and more than 100 in Indianapolis, with the total growing hourly. No fatalities were listed immediately.

"Unknown" To Play Mary Martin's Role

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Martha Wright, an almost unknown young actress from Duval, Wash., will succeed Mary Martin June 1 in the starring role of Nurse Nellie Forbush in the Broadway musical hit "South Pacific," the producers announced today.

Miss Martin, who cut her hair to more than a boyish bob in order to play the role and who gives herself a soap shampoo in every performance, is taking a vacation.

She has played in the Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein 2d hit since April 7, 1949.

British Plane Overdue

HONG KONG, Monday, Jan. 29 (AP)—A four-engined British Sunderland flying boat, veteran of the Korean war, is overdue on a flight from Japan to Hong Kong, the Royal Air Force announced today.

Squadron Leader Ted Lewis, RAF public relations officer, said it was not known here whether the plane had left Japan with any passengers or how many were in her crew.

Remembrance For Rosemarie

Rosemarie Konko, 11 years old yesterday, joins her hand to that of Magistrate Charles E. Murphy around the stack of presents she received at her first birthday party. Magistrate Murphy arranged the party, with 150 underprivileged youngsters as guests, in a New York restaurant. He learned she had never had a birthday party when, earlier this month, she told in his court how she begged money to keep her mother in liquor and food for them to eat. The mother went to jail for six months and Rosemarie to live with an aunt and uncle.

Move To Recheck Present Draft Age Pool Grows

Some Vets, Husbands May Precede Boys, 18

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Childless husbands aged 19 through 25, and some thousands of young men now classified 4-F, appeared definitely closer to the draft today than most 18-year-olds.

And short-service veterans with no World War II time overseas or in combat began to look like a good bet too.

The outlook was indicated in statements by Senate and House leaders handling the Defense Department's request for a draft at 18 for 27 months, integrated into permanent universal military service and training.

"Safeguards" Are Urged

They were not talking about actually killing the plan to lower the induction age, despite a storm of protests against taking youths of 18; they wanted another look at the 19-25 group first.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee publicly offered to write what he called "general safeguards" into the bill.

These would call for reexamination of men from 19 through 25 years now deferred as "4-Fs" as well as induction of some 290,000 non-veteran husbands in the same age group who are exempted now.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee urged both these steps and added another. Before taking 18-year-olds, he said it might be wise to recall some World War II veterans, such as those with only a few months service none of which was overseas or in combat.

All Vets Now Deferred

All veterans now are deferred by law, and men with dependents by the draft regulations under the law.

Secretary of Defense Marshall and Assistant Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg promised both the Senate and House committees that all available older men would be called ahead. They also assured that those 18-year-olds who are nearest 19 would be called first if the draft age is lowered.

Bat-Like Interceptor Jet Plane Is Tested

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Jan. 28 (AP) — The successful maiden flight of the bat-like Douglas XF4D interceptor was announced here today by the Navy Department Bureau of Aeronautics.

Larry Peyton, veteran Douglas test pilot, completed a 30-minute high altitude flight at Edwards Air Force Base, Muroc, Calif., on Jan. 23.

Two Perish In Fire

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two persons died and eight others were hospitalized today when fire swept the second floor of a brick building.

The dead were Miss Alice O'Brion, 69, operator of a rooming house on the second and third floors, and Oscar Baltrock, 69, a tenant.

Female Warbird Going To Korea

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 28 (AP)—A lady fighter pilot is going to Korea to serve with the U. N. air force.

She's Maj. Sabiha Gokcen, 36-year-old adopted daughter of the late Kemal Ataturk, "Father of the Turks," and possibly the world's first female warbird.

Telling about her plans to leave for Korea in a few days, the Istanbul press reported today that she volunteered recently for active combat service and that the Turkish government approved apparently with the consent of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

Pleven, Truman To Confer Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Premier Pleven of France arrives tomorrow reportedly ready to assure President Truman that French troops will fight on in Indochina—even if Chinese Communists intervene on a massive scale.

The 49-year-old French leader is said to be ready to stress this determination at the start of his cold war strategy conference with President Truman and other top American officials.

The extraordinary Truman-Pleven meeting begins at the White House tomorrow afternoon, (at 2:30 p. m. EST) a few hours after Pleven arrives by train from New York. He reached New York today by plane where he told reporters there is "absolutely" no cleavage between the two countries on foreign policy.

Discussion of the Indochina problem, which has tied up the bulk of France's army nearly five years, will top the agenda prepared for the two-day meeting.

Responsible diplomatic officials said Pleven will tell Mr. Truman France is determined to continue its costly battle against Communist-led guerrilla forces in Indochina until victory is won.

6 Of Bridal Party Die As Car Dives Off Unused Span

Tragedy Discovered Through Skid Marks

BOSTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — An automobile plunged off a partly dismantled drawbridge today carrying six members of a gay bridal party to death in muddy Mystic River.

The tragedy was not discovered until several hours after the accident when two cruising car officers observed skid marks on the pavement and broken headlight glass on a platform under the unused draw.

The dead — all of Woonsocket, R. I., — were identified by police as:

Henry Gauthier, 49, the bridegroom; his bride, the former Doris F. Cote, 32; Mrs. Paul Jacob, 51; Mrs. Jeanette Baillargeon, 41; Romeo J. Lagasse, 46, a mill worker, and Francis C. Lariviere, 50, a machine shop foreman.

Gauthier and the former Miss Cote were married yesterday in St. Louis Catholic Church, Woonsocket. The group apparently was en route to Boston to celebrate, police said.

Police said the driver, apparently unfamiliar with the section, missed the ramp to a new bridge and took the old ramp.

He evidently noted his mistake too late, applied the brakes, and was carried to the open draw where the car plunged into 40 feet of water, police said.

Police, firemen and sailors from the Boston Navy Yard recovered the car and bodies nine hours after the estimated time of the death plunge.

The Rev. Charles Hyland of St. Catherine's Church, Somerville, administered the last rites of the Catholic Church as the machine and bodies were swung aboard a Navy lighter.

"Sunday Punch" Test Blast Jolts Desert Gambling Town

SCENE OF A-TESTS — Cross indicates places where "one of the periodic tests" of atomic explosions was held the last three days at the Air Force bombing range near Las Vegas, Nev., the Atomic Energy Commission said. Citizens of Las Vegas saw and felt the blasts.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 28 (AP)—The third blast in four days jolted this desert gambling town early today as atomic scientists apparently continued "tickling the dragon's tail."

Everybody who felt today's blast agreed it was the strongest of the three.

The Atomic Energy Commission continued to say nothing about its experiments.

But earlier in the month the commission was authorized by President Truman to use the Nevada range for test work.

The commission announced at the time the tests would "include experimental nuclear detonation for the development of atomic bombs—so-called 'A-bombs'—carried out under controlled conditions."

Although the commission preserved a studied silence today about the blasts, residents of Las Vegas and vicinity didn't keep quiet.

Some were rather irked.

Enemy Forces U. N. Pullback In One Sector

Reds Infiltrate, Attack From Rear

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 29 (AP) — Chinese Reds today slowed the five-day-old Allied push in Western Korea by infiltrating small forces in pre-dawn darkness and attacking from the rear.

These counterattacks in the west —and North Korean ambushes of Allied patrols in the central sector—indicated the United Nations limited offensive toward Seoul was nearing the main Communist lines.

Allied forces, last reported within 11 miles of Seoul, beat off enemy counterattacks around three towns on the 40-mile front.

One attack forced U. N. troops to fall back. They later restored their lines. The Chinese also resorted to road blocks and land mines.

At 9 a. m. today (7 p. m. EST Sunday) firing still was heard in the outskirts of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul. That was six miles behind the Allies' advance position north of Suwon.

This first stiff enemy resistance since the U. S. First and Ninth Corps began the "limited objective attack" came from elements of two Chinese Red regiments. They were believed acting as a covering force in front of the Reds' main line.

60,000 Reds Massed

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said he had reports that 60,000 Chinese Reds were massed between the advancing Allies and the Han River.

The pre-dawn Communist attacks — some lasting five hours — were dealt in strength up to a battalion.

The Reds hit back around Suwon, Kumyangjang and Ichon. Kumyangjang is 11 miles southeast of Suwon; Ichon 13 miles northeast of Kumyangjang.

Six hundred Chinese infiltrated the positions of Puerto Rican infantrymen four miles northeast of Suwon then attacked from behind. The action began at midnight. The Reds were forced to retreat by 5 a. m.

A force of about equal size attacked a U. N. force six miles west of Ichon shortly after midnight. The U. N. troops were driven back but restored their lines by daylight in tough fighting.

Puerto Rican soldiers had to battle from 3:30 a. m. until 6 a. m. before driving off another Red force northeast of Suwon. Sporadic small arms exchanges still were occurring in that area.

Reds Ambush Two-Jeep Patrol

The Reds ambushed a two-jeep patrol near Suwon and destroyed both jeeps. Several Allied patrols were ambushed in both the west and central sectors.

Allied tanks knocked out two road blocks set up by Reds last night on the outskirts of Suwon.

Until today the Allied forces—including U. S., Puerto Ricans, British, Greek and Turks — had gained more than 12 miles with little or no contact with the enemy.

Allied patrols prowled ever closer to the 38th parallel in Central Korea despite Red ambushes.

Today's Eighth Army communique said patrols moved four miles north of Hoengsong. That put Allied forces within 31 miles of the 38th parallel, the closest approach since the fall of Seoul Jan. 4.

GI, 4 Of Family Perish In Blaze

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Jan. 28 (AP) — A returned soldier and four members of his family gathered to welcome him home died early today when fire swept a farm house at Tenbroeck.

Six others were awakened by a neighbor, D. M. Downs, and escaped in their night garments. The house was destroyed and the bodies of the victims burned beyond recognition.

The flames claimed the lives of a mother, daughter, two sons — including the soldier — and a granddaughter. Tenbroeck is about 22 miles from Fort Payne in Northeast Alabama.

County Coroner Hoyt Wilson listed the following dead:

Mrs. Florence Brewer, 54; Jewel Lee Brewer, 18; Recruit Albert Dewitt Brewer, 21, Ft. Jackson, S. C.; Robert Brewer, 14, and Brenda Gale McKelvey, 5.

14 Yachtsmen Drown

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 28 (AP)—Fourteen New Zealand sportsmen are believed today to have drowned in the country's worst yachting disaster, climax to a storm-wrecked ocean race.

1267 Register For Night School

Three hundred and eighty four residents of Allegany County registered last week for Adult Education evening school classes to be conducted in seven county public schools and other centers according to a report issued by J. D. Lonnholm, director of the adult education program. In addition to the above figure, 883 first term students registered in advance to continue their studies, making a grand total of 1,267 persons who have signed up for night school training.

Seventy classes have been formed on the basis of last week's registrations. The second term will begin with this evening's classes and continue with courses on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

THINGS GOING rough for you? Well, you ought to have the privilege and consolation some night of sitting down and listening to Lt. Col. Jerry Sage, a big, strapping guy out of Spokane, Wash., who is now an instructor at West Point. He'd make your woes seem trivial.

Col. Sage is the greatest escape artist since Houdini. He went over or through the wire of Nazi prison camps three or four times during World War II, the war to end all police actions. He has packed into his 33 years, and football tackle's form, enough adventures to satisfy a thousand men. Last night, before he made a brief appearance on the Philco television program, to pay tribute to 50 less successful escapees who were butchered by the Nazi, he told me of one of those escape attempts.

He was in Stalag Luft III, south of Berlin, in 1943, after having been picked up during one of his many forages behind German lines in the role of O. S. S. man. The day he was pushed into the camp he inquired if any escape plans were under way and, when he learned there were, joined the effort.

At Stalag Luft III a prisoner of war could be shot if he stepped into that 30-foot wide circle of sand that was in the inside rail of the barbed wire around the camp. So Jerry joined and helped frame a tunnel-building project.

• — • — •

The mouth of the one successful tunnel of the three which the men dug was just under a red-hot stove in the corner of a prison barracks. The stove, always kept hot, was the handle of the trap door leading to the fabulous and successful subway.

Before they were through the RAF and American Airmen dug a tunnel 300 feet long, 30 feet under ground, and some of them got through it. The tunnel was scarcely two feet square, but it remains one of the engineering marvels of our age.

The men had to pull out and hide about a quarter of a million pounds of earth and sand. Worse, they had to hide it. It was of a different color than the top soil and thus would be detected by the daily aerial photographs of Stalag Luft III unless successfully dispersed.

Sage and his friends started a cabbage patch and convinced the German guards that in America these are always covered with sheets. The tailor shop, run by the prisoners, fashioned form-fitting sacks in which the different-colored earth could be carried from the excavation and dumped into the cabbage patch by men presumably tending to the growing plants. Then the sheets were put back in place.

A digger, scraping away at the blank end of the tunnel, would shovel back the dirt to a pal who, in the early days at least, would put it in a basin which would be pulled out of the tunnel by a string and its contents put in the form fitting bags of another member of the party. For illumination the boys used Red Cross package oleomargine and (for wicks) their pajama cords.

• — • — •

When the bugs eliminated the cabbage, Sage formed a track and field team. Prisoners would surround such events and cheer mightily as a shot-putter heaved the weight in such a way as to let the dirt and sand slide down his pants leg—right under the eyes of the German guards in the towers overhead.

The camp had to set up its own Allied security force. When the successful tunnel had reached under and beyond the wire, a priority board was established to decide who'd make the run. Different costumes were devised in the tailor shop for the use of the escapees.

Sage had been able to hide a compass during his entire stay in Stalag Luft III. But it needed a magnetized needle, which was scrounged by a friend. Jerry faked and illness (not hard because he was wounded) in order to get into the hospital and scrape luminous paint off clock hands—to place on the tip of the compass needle.

Before the tunnel was completely dug (it took a year) the men had to devise an air-pump to keep the diggers alive, and a railway track (made of bits of bed slats and flattened tin cans) over which to pull out the dirt.

Some 76 of the 1,500 men in prison got through the tunnel. Only three of these got home. Fifty were caught in one bunch and shot after their hands were tied behind them. And it was to pay tribute to them that this quiet and incredibly courageous man came out of the obscurity of a teaching job last night.

After listening to him, things don't seem so tough today.

Dapper Dans To Aid Crippled Children

The Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Inc., will be beneficiary of the third annual Dapper Dan Club dinner scheduled for February 25 at 6 p. m. in the Knights of Columbus Home.

Peter J. Carpenti, chairman of the Cumberland Chapter's Executive Board, made the announcement last night.

Plans for the dinner are incomplete, Carpenti said, adding that speaking bids have been sent to several nationally known sportsmen.

During the past two years the Dapper Dans have donated more than $450, including proceeds from the first two dinners, to the county organization that has shouldered the burden of care and braces and other appliances needed by crippled children.

Committeemen for the dinner are Paul J. Galen, newly elected president; William V. Keegan, James Wilt, Charles Kreitzburg, Willard Morrissey, Albert S. Paye, Alex J. Schute, David Kauffman, Joseph K. Mooney, Paul M. Fletcher, Harold J. Rosenmerkel, Chris G. Charuhas and Carpenti.

Bar Opposes Plan For More Appeal Judges

A special committee of the Maryland State Bar Association meeting in Baltimore, came out with an emphatic "no" yesterday to a plan to increase the constitutional number of judges of the state Court of Appeals.

There simply is no sufficient reason to change the plan for a five-judge court as proposed by the recent Bond Commission through constitutional amendment, said the committee.

At present the court is composed of six judges but the number will drop to five upon retirement of Judge C. Gus Grason because of the age limit.

The Miles Committee is headed by Clarence W. Miles. It made its report to Judge Levin C. Bailey, president of the State Bar Association.

The bar committee said Maryland's court work is not excessive in comparison with standards set by other appellate courts.

W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, is a member of the Miles committee.

$15,000 Damage Suit Opens In Court Today

A $15,000 suit against the B. and O. Railroad as a result of a crash involving a tractor-trailer load of race horses and a locomotive at the Fairgo crossing on November 20, 1949, will begin in Circuit Court this morning.

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the hearing, which is slated to be a jury trial.

Suit was docketed last February by Edward J. Ryan, local attorney, for Edward R. Wellestat, owner of the tractor-trailer. Wellestat listed damages in the collision as $8,000 to the trailer and $2,000 to the tractor.

It is charged by the plaintiff that the railroad did not properly maintain the crossing and it was unsafe.

The vehicles were transporting eight thoroughbreds purchased by Charles C. Cameron, this city, in an auction in Kentucky to the Fairgo race track.

As it attempted to cross the railroad at the Fairgo entrance the trailer became stuck. A freight train hauled by a Diesel locomotive crashed into the tractor-trailer and killed four of the horses and injured the other four.

The driver of the tractor, George Karesh, Edward Wellestat, Jr., and Jesse Mock, a negro groom, escaped injury in the crash.

Try your hand at this game of meeting personages. You'll find it a sure cure for winter doldrums!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THERE is many a game you can play, but when you are tired of things in general, and people seem to dull you, there's one that is sure to put a new aspect on your outlook.

Just imagine that you are walking into a room full of people. Your hostess reaches for your hand and, turning you toward a handsome dream, says, "Have you met Mr. Pinza?"

Ezio Pinza! Wham! Butterflies flutter where no butterflies should be; your tongue freezes, and you can't think of a thing to say beyond, "How do you do" — and that under your breath!

Four Rounds to a Game

Be honest, now — if that's what happened, score a round for the other side. You've let one of the biggest opportunities to up your personal-impression-score slip right through your hands!

But you've other chances ahead. It takes four rounds to make a game, so let's get on with it, just for the sake of a sure-fire cure for that why-isn't-my-life-more-exciting feeling.

For the next three rounds, you'll need a pencil, paper and some quick thinking. Now write down the names of three famous persons you'd like to have for conversational partners at a party. Oh, you might choose General MacArthur, Jimmy Stewart, Dr. Einstein, Mme. Pandit, Bette Davis, Mrs. Roosevelt — any personalities you'd like most to meet. Pick your favorites.

Then, beside each of the three names, list three topics you could discuss intelligently that would interest both you and the personage. (The weather doesn't count!)

If it takes more than three minutes to think of three topics for any name, count that round lost. And if you lose more rounds than any poised woman should, it's your cue to get busy! You've been a bit lazy and let your interest lag on the most important things in the world — people and events. Small wonder then that you feel and sound let down lately. Try picking up the pieces of your interest this way:

Raising Your Score

For one week, make it a point to find out more about the people whose names you listed — what they are doing and why, and something about their personal lives. Watch the newspapers and magazines; consult a book or two.

Then, have another go at the game. Now you should have a half-dozen likely topics to discuss with your favorite personalities, topics right at the tip of your tongue.

And most important, you won't have a trace of the doldrums left, because you've been too busy talking things over with interesting people. Here's a game of make-believe that works miracles!

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

THINGS GOING rough for you? Well, you ought to have the privilege and consolation some night of sitting down and listening to Lt. Col. Jerry Sage, a big, strapping guy out of Spokane, Wash., who is now an instructor at West Point. He'd make your woes seem trivial.

Col. Sage is the greatest escape artist since Houdini. He went over or through the wire of Nazi prison camps three or four times during World War II, the war to end all police actions. He has packed into his 33 years, and football tackle's form, enough adventures to satisfy a thousand men. Last night, before he made a brief appearance on the Philco television program, to pay tribute to 50 less successful escapees who were butchered by the Nazi, he told me of one of those escape attempts.

He was in Stalag Luft III, south of Berlin, in 1943, after having been picked up during one of his many forages behind German lines in the role of O. S. S. man. The day he was pushed into the camp he inquired if any escape plans were under way and, when he learned there were, joined the effort.

At Stalag Luft III a prisoner of war could be shot if he stepped into that 30-foot wide circle of sand that was in the inside rail of the barbed wire around the camp. So Jerry joined and helped frame a tunnel-building project.

• — • — •

The mouth of the one successful tunnel of the three which the men dug was just under a red-hot stove in the corner of a prison barracks. The stove, always kept hot, was the handle of the trap door leading to the fabulous and successful subway.

Before they were through the RAF and American Airmen dug a tunnel 300 feet long, 30 feet under ground, and some of them got through it. The tunnel was scarcely two feet square, but it remains one of the engineering marvels of our age.

The men had to pull out and hide about a quarter of a million pounds of earth and sand. Worse, they had to hide it. It was of a different color than the top soil and thus would be detected by the daily aerial photographs of Stalag Luft III unless successfully dispersed.

Sage and his friends started a cabbage patch and convinced the German guards that in America these are always covered with sheets. The tailor shop, run by the prisoners, fashioned form-fitting sacks in which the different-colored earth could be carried from the excavation and dumped into the cabbage patch by men presumably tending to the growing plants. Then the sheets were put back in place.

A digger, scraping away at the blank end of the tunnel, would shovel back the dirt to a pal who, in the early days at least, would put it in a basin which would be pulled out of the tunnel by a string and its contents put in the form fitting bags of another member of the party. For illumination the boys used Red Cross package oleomargine and (for wicks) their pajama cords.

• — • — •

When the bugs eliminated the cabbage, Sage formed a track and field team. Prisoners would surround such events and cheer mightily as a shot-putter heaved the weight in such a way as to let the dirt and sand slide down his pants leg—right under the eyes of the German guards in the towers overhead.

The camp had to set up its own Allied security force. When the successful tunnel had reached under and beyond the wire, a priority board was established to decide who'd make the run. Different costumes were devised in the tailor shop for the use of the escapees.

Sage had been able to hide a compass during his entire stay in Stalag Luft III. But it needed a magnetized needle, which was scrounged by a friend. Jerry faked and illness (not hard because he was wounded) in order to get into the hospital and scrape luminous paint off clock hands—to place on the tip of the compass needle.

Before the tunnel was completely dug (it took a year) the men had to devise an air-pump to keep the diggers alive, and a railway track (made of bits of bed slats and flattened tin cans) over which to pull out the dirt.

Some 76 of the 1,500 men in prison got through the tunnel. Only three of these got home. Fifty were caught in one bunch and shot after their hands were tied behind them. And it was to pay tribute to them that this quiet and incredibly courageous man came out of the obscurity of a teaching job last night.

After listening to him, things don't seem so tough today.

Dapper Dans To Aid Crippled Children

The Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Inc., will be beneficiary of the third annual Dapper Dan Club dinner scheduled for February 25 at 6 p. m. in the Knights of Columbus Home.

Peter J. Carpenti, chairman of the Cumberland Chapter's Executive Board, made the announcement last night.

Plans for the dinner are incomplete, Carpenti said, adding that speaking bids have been sent to several nationally known sportsmen.

During the past two years the Dapper Dans have donated more than $450, including proceeds from the first two dinners, to the county organization that has shouldered the burden of care and braces and other appliances needed by crippled children.

Bar Opposes Plan For More Appeal Judges

A special committee of the Maryland State Bar Association meeting in Baltimore, came out with an emphatic "no" yesterday to a plan to increase the constitutional number of judges of the state Court of Appeals.

There simply is no sufficient reason to change the plan for a five-judge court as proposed by the recent Bond Commission through constitutional amendment, said the committee.

At present the court is composed of six judges but the number will drop to five upon retirement of Judge C. Gus Grason because of the age limit.

The Miles Committee is headed by Clarence W. Miles. It made its report to Judge Levin C. Bailey, president of the State Bar Association.

The bar committee said Maryland's court work is not excessive in comparison with standards set by other appellate courts.

W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, is a member of the Miles committee.

$15,000 Damage Suit Opens In Court Today

A $15,000 suit against the B. and O. Railroad as a result of a crash involving a tractor-trailer load of race horses and a locomotive at the Fairgo crossing on November 20, 1949, will begin in Circuit Court this morning.

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the hearing, which is slated to be a jury trial.

Suit was docketed last February by Edward J. Ryan, local attorney, for Edward R. Wellestat, owner of the tractor-trailer. Wellestat listed damages in the collision as $8,000 to the trailer and $2,000 to the tractor.

It is charged by the plaintiff that the railroad did not properly maintain the crossing and it was unsafe.

The vehicles were transporting eight thoroughbreds purchased by Charles C. Cameron, this city, in an auction in Kentucky to the Fairgo race track.

As it attempted to cross the railroad at the Fairgo entrance the trailer became stuck. A freight train hauled by a Diesel locomotive crashed into the tractor-trailer and killed four of the horses and injured the other four.

The driver of the tractor, George Karesh, Edward Wellestat, Jr., and Jesse Mock, a negro groom, escaped injury in the crash.

Try your hand at this game of meeting personages. You'll find it a sure cure for winter doldrums!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THERE is many a game you can play, but when you are tired of things in general, and people seem to dull you, there's one that is sure to put a new aspect on your outlook.

Just imagine that you are walking into a room full of people. Your hostess reaches for your hand and, turning you toward a handsome dream, says, "Have you met Mr. Pinza?"

Ezio Pinza! Wham! Butterflies flutter where no butterflies should be; your tongue freezes, and you can't think of a thing to say beyond, "How do you do" — and that under your breath!

Four Rounds to a Game

Be honest, now — if that's what happened, score a round for the other side. You've let one of the biggest opportunities to up your personal - impression - score slip right through your hands!

But you've other chances ahead. It takes four rounds to make a game, so let's get on with it, just for the sake of a sure-fire cure for that why-isn't-my-life-more-exciting feeling.

For the next three rounds, you'll need a pencil, paper and some quick thinking. Now write down the names of three famous persons you'd like to have for conversational partners at a party. Oh, you might choose General MacArthur, Jimmy Stewart, Dr. Einstein, Mme. Pandit, Bette Davis, Mrs. Roosevelt — any personalities you'd like most to meet. Pick your favorites.

Then, beside each of the three names, list three topics you could discuss intelligently that would interest both you and the personage. (The weather doesn't count!)

If it takes more than three minutes to think of three topics for any name, count that round lost. And if you lose more rounds than any poised woman should, it's your cue to get busy! You've been a bit lazy and let your interest lag on the most important things in the world — people and events. Small wonder then that you feel and sound let down lately. Try picking up the pieces of your interest this way:

Raising Your Score

For one week, make it a point to find out more about the people whose names you listed — what they are doing and why, and something about their personal lives. Watch the newspapers and magazines; consult a book or two.

Then, have another go at the game. Now you should have a half-dozen likely topics to discuss with your favorite personalities, topics right at the tip of your tongue.

And most important, you won't have a trace of the doldrums left, because you've been too busy talking things over with interesting people. Here's a game of make-believe that works miracles!

GOP Getting Ready For '52

The Republican National Committee held at Washington Friday its first full meeting since the elections of last November. Aside from naming a committee to choose a convention site, the GOP laid a few plans for the Congressional elections of 1952 as well as for the presidential campaign in that year.

Chairman Gabrielson says the GOP will capture "as many as possible" of the 12 Democratic seats in the Senate to be contested in 1952, as well as retain all of the 20 Republican seats at stake. A net gain of two seats is all that is needed to give control of the Senate to the Republican Party two years from now.

One advantage is, from the Republican point of view, that six of the 12 Democratic seats at stake in 1952 are in states where the GOP can win—Maryland, Rhode Island, West Virginia, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming. The remaining six are Connecticut, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

All the Republican senators with seats at stake in 1952 were elected in 1946, the only one of the past 10 election years in which the GOP won control of both branches of Congress. One point of GOP concern is that seven of the 20 states sending a Republican to the Senate in 1946 later elected a Democrat as his colleague — Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York and Washington. Maryland, however, turned the tables in 1950 and sent Republican John Marshall Butler to the Senate in place of Democrat Millard E. Tydings.

In 1946, Senator, then Governor, Herbert R. O'Conor, who will be up for re-election in 1952, barely defeated Republican D. John Markey. So it would seem that Republican senatorial chances in Maryland are somewhat better than even.

Elsewhere, what thus seems like a possible uphill battle for the Republican Party would become less so if additional Democratic seats in doubtful states had to be contested in 1952. And a Republican tide like that of 1946 and its smaller counterpart in 1950 would make GOP control of the 1953 Senate an easy task.

Many a man struggles for years to get a comfortable home only to find that his wife has imported such untouchables as fancy davenport pillows, armchair covers and decorative footstools.

Influenza

Reports of influenza deaths in Europe cause rising concern about a serious epidemic in the United States. All the health services of the country join in saying there is no indication of it.

The World Health Organization has made a study of influenza and advises that the epidemic centering in England is comparatively mild, having no characteristics of the 1918 plague. So severe was that epidemic that in New York street cleaners were assigned as gravediggers and in most of the big cities men and women died unattended. That epidemic swept over the world.

Health experts say the question of immunization against influenza is not settled. There is no vaccine that will protect with certainty. However, the situation indicates the need for continued controlled study of the effect of influenza vaccines in man. It is expected that some influenza will appear in the United States, but that the disease will be like recent experiences. Since the greatest part of mortality results from bacterial complications in the respiratory tract, it is recommended that for patients who have a severe influenza-like illness, appropriate anti-biotics be used.

Since 1918 such anti-biotics as penicillin, streptomycin, sulfa drugs and others have been discovered. They will reduce to a minimum any influenza wave. Sweeping epidemics such as the world has known may come again. But that will be when civilization itself crumbles and the highly efficient health organizations of today are no more.

Americans did a lot of inhaling last year—and a great part of it went into consuming more than 361,000,000,000 cigarets.

Come Again, Henry

Henry Wallace, who hasn't been heard from for some time, has come forward with his own scheme for world peace. The idea isn't new by any means, but just a holdover from the original new deal, in which Mr. Wallace played an important part. He would have the United Nations establish and finance an international public works administration, to build dams, bridges, irrigation projects in the various nations of the world in lieu of military preparedness which would lead only to war.

All nations to benefit under the plan would have to discontinue fifth-column activities, and join in building a police force sufficiently strong to keep down war. He holds that the benefits of this great PWA would outweigh any gains to be made through conflict, and would bring peace for that reason. The Russians are materialists, he insists, and would readily join the plan.

Boiled down the Wallace plan would offer Russia needed construction and other economic advantages if the Stalin crowd will forget war and further aggression. But Moscow is thinking along a different line. It would conquer the world through sheer military strength, and then have enslaved peoples build the things Mr. Wallace is promising. Come again, Henry.

Lower Octane Gasoline

The octane rating of gasoline for passenger cars will be lowered by Government order to the oil companies any day now. The Petroleum Administration for Defense announced on January 12 that it would take this step "soon."

Well, the PAD says that in most inland areas the rating of the "gas" now being sold has already been lowered to points that will be unaffected by the new order. It is chiefly along the Atlantic seaboard and on the Pacific Coast that any change will be necessary.

And even there the driver who uses regular "gas" should notice little difference in performance. The driver who uses premium "gas" may get a little more "ping" in the engine, especially in climbing hills, but should suffer little or no loss in mileage per gallon. However, motors adjusted at the factory to operate only on premium fuel may have to have their sparks retarded.

Until recently petroleum refiners' had been using alkylates to boost the octane rating of "high-test" gasoline. Now the alkylates are to be reserved for military aviation fuel and commercial aviation gasoline is expected to make greater use of tetra-ethyl lead.

Intestinal Obstruction

INTESTINAL obstruction is serious. Surgery usually is required and in spite of the best medical care the mortality rate is between 15 and 20 per cent. But this is a great improvement over the days when I was an intern. There were no wonder drugs and blood transfusions rarely were employed. Furthermore, no attempt was made to overcome the water and mineral loss that follows the vomiting associated with a bowel that is pinched or kinked.

There are many causes of intestinal obstruction. Occasionally food or toys are responsible. There are two cases on record in which a man ate so many grasshoppers that his colon became obstructed. Another was "riding the rails" when he became so hungry he jumped off into an orange grove and gulped 15 to 20 oranges, including the pulp. Impactions are common in certain parts of Europe where large quantities of cherries with the pits are consumed. Other items that have produced blockage are nuts, peaches, mushrooms, bran, apple cores, figs, grapes, beans, and watermelons. Persimmon pulp probably is one of the worst food offenders.

• — • — •

On the other hand, food is one of the rarest causes of intestinal obstruction even tho many individuals swallow huge chunks without proper chewing. Tumors of the wall of the intestine are to blame in more than half the cases. The majority of these lesions are cancerous, which only adds to the severity of the condition. Adhesions from previous infections or operations also are high on the list. These bands of scar tissue usually kink the bowel by pulling in much the same manner as if we tied a rope around an inner tube and tugged with all our might. Adhesions also are capable of pinching off the intestinal passageway slowly, particularly when they encircle the structure. Other origins include infections, strangulated hernias, and intussusception, a disturbance in which the upper part of the bowel telescopes into the lower part. It is most frequent in children and we have never known why it occurs.

• — • — •

Victims of obstruction suffer from bouts of abdominal cramps. As blockage becomes more complete, cramping grows more painful. Distress may be paroxysmal or continuous, depending upon the location of the lesion and the cause of the obstruction. Vomiting coexists, at first reflex in nature. Later it is caused by the fact that the bowel closed and nature has flipped the switch and thrown everything into reverse. Furthermore, the closer the lesion to the stomach, the sooner closure occurs. Constipation also is bound to ensue because material from above has been shut off. As the obstruction continues the abdomen becomes more and more distended and the gurgling and churning may be heard from a distance as the intestine tries its best to overcome the obstruction. Sooner or later the toxic effect is manifested. The face appears anxious, pinched, and somewhat blue; the body is dehydrated; and the skin cold and dry.

The more promptly relief is obtained, the better the outcome. Operation is necessary unless the obstruction is close enough to the rectum to be accessible to the surgeon. Meanwhile all the tricks of the trade are used to overcome the general effects of the toxic and dehydrated condition.

ELBOW BURSITIS

M. C. writes: What is the treatment of tennis elbow?

REPLY

Rest, by remaining on the sidelines and by having the arm bandaged or placed in a sling. If pain continues, the "needling" treatment may prove helpful. In this procedure, the fluid in the involved bursa is withdrawn and an anesthetic is injected into the sac. In some instances, surgery is needed.

FINGER RASH

L. P. writes: Whenever I wear rings the skin beneath them becomes irritated. Does this mean that I lack some vitamins in my diet?

REPLY

No. This is a common occurrence. Among the causes are improper drying of the hands after washing them, friction from tight rings, accumulation of perspiration, soap or lotions under the ring, or a sensitivity to the metals. The allergic reaction is more common when alloys such as nickel are used in the jewelry.

It may in that nervous persons often perspire more than the average individual. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on body odors.

HEART AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. F. writes: Can a woman with heart disease give birth to a child?

REPLY

Yes, and many do. Much depends upon the nature of the heart disease and the age of the potential mother.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Not Too Happy About Donning Uniform Again; Facing Hostile Crowds Overseas; Knows Job Can Blast Any Presidential Ambitions.

Says DREW PEARSON

(ED. NOTE—The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, who now reports to Congress on the difficult job of rearming Europe.)

WASHINGTON — When General Eisenhower went off to Europe, a lot of people got the impression that he was rather glad to leave Columbia, get into uniform again and return to his old haunts abroad. Actually, this was not the case.

To a few close friends just before he left, Ike confessed that he dreaded going overseas again, knew that he would face hostile crowds, realized how tough it would be to organize rearmament in war-weary Europe.

Ike also knew, though he didn't say so, that getting back into uniform might blast any presidential ambitions he had.

There was nothing phony or theatrical, therefore, about Ike's answer when President Truman called him in Chicago last December and asked him to become chief commander under the North Atlantic Pact. Ike replied that a soldier has to go where he is called, and he meant it.

Report To Congress

Behind Eisenhower's report to Congress this week will be two significant facts which the general public may not at first appreciate.

No. 1 is that the President has partially abdicated to Eisenhower the national leadership in regard to European policy. It will be up to Ike to sell Congress and the nation on sending U. S. troops to Europe at a time when isolationism is growing and when thousands of mothers do not at all relish seeing their sons leave home.

No. 2 is the fact that Eisenhower, though trained as a military man, has now become a political figure.

Furthermore, Eisenhower's political development is bound to accelerate; for his job of welding different nationalities into a smooth-working military machine is much more political than military.

For some time, Ike's critics—and he has some—have harped on his political proclivities. Long ago, they claim, Ike learned that the pen is mightier than the word. And it was Major Eisenhower, they recall, who wrote General MacArthur's farewell message to the Army when Mac retired as Chief of Staff—one of the most appealing documents ever issued by a chief of staff.

Political General

And though they criticize Ike for having been a political general during the invasion of Europe, it must be remembered that one of his jobs was to smooth the ruffled feathers of General Giraud, get the cooperation of the difficult General De Gaulle, tone down the passion for publicity of Field Marshal Montgomery and weld the heterogeneous, politically minded armies of Europe into a homogeneous unit.

One thing that griped some Americans, for instance, was Ike's order that there was to be no criticism of the British during and after the D-Day invasion of Normandy. He also placed a British officer alongside each American officer in key jobs where cooperation was essential. This may have slowed military movements at times but it built Allied harmony—which was all-important.

This is some of the invaluable experience Eisenhower will draw on when it comes to the present peacetime mobilization of Europe.

Ike Hates War

Another quality that will help the North Atlantic Pact commander is the fact that his hatred of war is just as genuine as that of the war-weary Europeans who now dread preparing for another showdown. Probably Ike gets this from his mother, a descendant of a Swiss-German family which fled Europe to escape its wars. Mrs. Eisenhower never relished the fact that her son became a soldier and once, when Sam Goldwyn congratulated her on her son, she promptly replied:

"Which one?"

For Mrs. Eisenhower was just as proud of her other six sons as of the one whose name is a byword around the world.

"War is mankind's most tragic and stupid folly," Eisenhower once told a West Point graduating class. "To seek or advise its deliberate provocation is a black crime against all men. Though you follow the trade of warrior you do so in the spirit of Washington — not of Genghis Khan.

"A a professional soldier you do not inherit a greater share than your citizen brothers of courage, endurance, and fortitude. Neither does your commission confer upon you distinctive right or privilege . . . The arts and sciences, as well as the profession of arms, are bulwarks of society. And the greatest of all is the spirit—the will—for freedom and justice."

These remarks, coming from the man against whom the Communists have been demonstrating in the streets of Rome and Paris, probably would astonish the average European. However, they represent the creed of the man who now faces the difficult task of mobilizing the North Atlantic Pact countries for democracy.

Eisenhower-Go-Round

As a school boy in Abilene, Kans., Eisenhower was called "Ugly Ike." . . . His father was a Democrat, and Ike's first speech was at a Jackson Day dinner. Because he was a Democrat, Ike had a little difficulty getting an appointment to West Point, but finally obtained the endorsement of the leaders of both wings of the Republican Party in Abilene . . . The Eisenhower high school gang used to hang around the office of the Abilene News where they did odd jobs for Editor J. W. Howe and where young Ike read exchange newspapers. According to Howe: "Dwight never complained about working, seeming to take that for granted. In school discussions he was always for the underdog and contended we needed a somewhat better distribution of wealth."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Thinking Behind Controls

WASHINGTON

CONTROLS are always unpleasant, and it is not a bad idea to enter the era of renewed war-time controls with at least one happy thought. Such a thought is provided by the fundamental approach to th problem of economic controls that has been adopted by the remarkable new triumvirate of Charles E. Wilson, Lucius D. Clay and Sidney Weinberg.

In brief, unless there is an all-out war, Defense Mobilizer Wilson and his two junior partners regard the new controls as a strictly temporary expedient. The comparison their planners use tells the story. The new controls are to resemble the rocket or Jato attachments which gain flying speed for many modern airplanes, and are then dropped to the ground when they have done their jobs.

Wilson, Clay and Weinberg have fought all the numerous foot draggers and business-as-usual mumblers in the Administration, because they consider that rapidly imposed controls are vitally needed to speed and facilitate the expansion of American production. But they frankly intend to jettison the controls—always assuming there is no war—when the output of American farms and factories has been adequately increased.

Steel An Illustration

What is more, the year 1953 is named as the time when the national economy ought to begin to operate smoothly at the new level, with enough production to meet both civilian and defense requirements. And thus if Wilson, Clay and Weinberg have calculated correctly, the new controls can safely begin to be removed in hardly more than a year and a half.

The best illustration of how this will work is the case of steel. With steel capacity considerably above 100,000,000 tons annually, the United States still does not have enough steel plants to satisfy both the heavy defense demand and the immensely high current level or normal steel consumption. An increase of steel output of 15,000,000 tons annually is needed to provide enough for all.

If Wilson, Clay and Weinberg had adopted the more normal approach to controls, they would have plumped for a permanent but not very painful cutback in civilian steel consumption to make room for defense requirements. But this would have necessitated permanent, though light controls. Instead, besides setting aside ample steel to meet current defense requirements, they propose over the next year and a half to invest an additional 15,000,000 tons of steel in new plants. This will demand, for the time being, a double cut in civilian consumption. But at the end of the year and a half, when the new plant comes into production and adds 15,000,000 tons annually to our national steel capacity, there will be enough steel for all needs now foreseen. Steel controls can then be abandoned.

There are, of course, innumerable difficulties in the way before even this single, seemingly simple operation can be accomplished successfully. Only a part of the steel investment will go into blast furnaces and rolling mills.

Must Expand Operations

The whole national apparatus for getting iron ore out of the ground, refining it, making steel of it, and moving it about in all its transformations from the mine to the ultimate steel consumer must be concurrently expanded. A national ore reserve must somehow be conserved in the Mesabi range, and thus iron ore production from the new Labrador and Venezuela sources must be expedited. A severe manganese shortage must be overcome. And all these different but related efforts must move forward together and abreast, if there is to be sufficient steel at the end of the process.

Nor is this all, by any means. An expansion in national production proportional to a 15,000,000-ton increase in steel capacity will carry with it a comparable increase in the national income. If the additional income is let loose as spending money, civilian and industrial consumption of all sorts of goods will rise wildly. All present figures for normal civilian requirements will go haywire. And once again, the new economic controls will have to be continued, in order to keep some sort of check on inflation.

In order to avoid this danger, the country must not only submit peaceably to the new controls during the emergency period; stringent credit restrictions and severe tax increases will also be needed to prevent the economy from choking on its own new spending money. In short, the whole business is a sort of test of American political maturity on an immense scale. "Do what is disagreeable now, and get the worst over with," is the advice of doctors Wilson, Weinberg and Clay, It will be childish not to take such advice.

Buying Stocks Should Be Considered Carefully Now

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 28—Have just telephoned an important brokerage house in New York City to ask its opinion on the stock market. The reply was: "We guess the market is finally getting high enough for the public to buy."

Look At The Record

The Dow-Jones Industrial Averages struck a high of 381 in 1929; they fell to 41 in 1932; they rose to 194 in 1937; fell again to 93 in 1942; rose again to 212 in 1946, from which they declined until a few months ago. They are now around 245, the high for 20 years; but this statement applies to only 30 stocks out of over 1,000 stocks. Many good stocks are now selling for less than they did in 1946, or earlier. Many people say: "All stocks have gone up except those which I hold. What is the reason?" The truth is just the reverse of this. Only a very few stocks are selling at their "20-year highs."

All the above causes the wisest investors to be neither bullish nor bearish just now. They believe stocks are good for income, but not for speculation. The stock market is very selective and the war outlook is very uncertain—either way. We are now doing right to prepare actively for World War III; but it may not come for years. Our hurried preparations may be useless.

What Mr. Hoover Believes

Mr. Hoover apparently believes that, unless there is a revolution in Russia, all of Europe—war or no war—may, for a period of years, try communism and that no War III can prevent it. He also thinks that the Russians now have no intention of striking North or South America unless we attack Russia. He believes we should now avoid war and concentrate on strengthening the United States militarily, economically and spiritually until the Europeans unite and show an enthusiasm to fight communism. Under this Hoover policy our markets should hold up.

If we should get into war with Russia and one or more of our cities are bombed, the Stock Exchanges would be closed to prevent financial panic. Everything—securities, commodities, rents, banks and wages—would be frozen. We would be ruled by a dictator and stocks would go down. Those who expect war should not buy stocks—certainly not unless they are very carefully selected by experts. Inflation, however, should help a few stocks.

Stocks vs. Homes

Certainly, anyone who does not own a house and an acre of land in a safe country village, should make such his first investment—war or no war. Many such places—well located, with water, fuel and neighbors—can be purchased today for one-third what it would cost to build them. I'm not advising their purchase for immediate occupancy; but for insurance and security.

Next, keep healthy, have a good bank account and a job which will give you a living. If you are dependent partly on investment income, then buy a very broad list of 30 stocks which have paid dividends for many years and which should give you about 5 per cent. If your local bank is unable to supply you with such a list, the bank can send to me at 270 Washington Street, Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, and I will freely send such a list to the bank for you.

Troublesome Pictures

IT IS NOT OFTEN that I go to movies, but recently I went to see a picture, "The Steel Helmet," under troublesome circumstances. My friend and colleague, Victor Riesel, first denounced this picture as containing distortions and evasions which he suspected of being aimed at presenting the United States and our forces in Korea unfavorably. Many have picked up that line without seeing the picture, which I am sure is an unfair way of doing things. Reading the script and not seeing the picture is not businesslike.

I saw the picture and it is a good presentation of the American character in its numerous complexities. I found the sergeant, a normal, tough, hard-bitten Yank, precisely the kind of stuff that has won our wars. The fact that a Negro and a Nisei are also heroes in no manner upsets me. There are nearly 13,000,000 Negroes in this country and they play an important role in our affairs, and the Negro troops in Korea have done remarkably well.

The Nisei are Americans born of Japanese parents, and a more devoted group of citizens is hard to find. They fought in Italy in World War II; they are now fighting in Korea. A Nisei hero can be substantiated in World War II and in the Korean War.

I write this not to boost a picture, but rather to express myself against labeling everything Communist which a person does not like. As much as I dislike Marxism, there are objectionable things which are not Marxist. A motion picture may be stupid without being Marxist.

To find a Communist implication in "The Steel Helmet" s straining at a gnat. And it serves no purpose. I know of no speech that more fully and decently expresses the American view of the sanctity of a prisoner of war than that delivered by the lieutenant in the Buddhist temple when the sergeant lost his temper and killed the North Korean.

I saw another picture, also as a preview, that did not make me so happy. "The Magnificent Yankee" is pretentious of being a biography of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. It told me nothing about Holme's overweening influence on our jurisprudence, nothing of his fundamental theories.

All I got out of it was that Theodore Roosevelt was angry with him; that Holmes loved Mrs. Holmes, which should not be unusual among married folks; that Holmes had a lot of secretaries all of whom, including Alger Hiss, who is excluded from the picture, made good.

There is a sequence involving Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whom I know in those years. In the picture, Brandeis lacks that combination of dignity and humility which was his heritage. I canot imagine why he was dragged in at all if he was not to be made to stand forth as a towering intellect.

Maybe it is tough to do this kind of a picture. Certainly it was tough for me to sit through it.

I have not seen "The Miracle," over which there is so much controversy. I mean to see it, as a news item.

Concerning it, I am in deep trouble. I dislike all forms of censorship and suppression. Yet, I find that the children I know are getting to have the queerest notions of life, most of which they get from motion pictures and radio. Certainly, I should object to a moron selling a child marijuana or cocaine or any other dope. Have I then a right to say that because I believe in freedom of expression, that freedom includes doping the mind and corrupting the character?

This is a problem which faces all parents. Is there nothing but six and murder to life? And is there no love but what the youngsters call "hot' love, by which they apparently mean overt, blatant, unrestrained sexual activity? If love is limited to that, why does the family exist at all?

So this picture "The Miracle" intrigues me, because I know Cardinal Spellman and I know that he would never have appealed to his coreligionists to reject it if he did not feel strongly that the pictures outrages moral law.

Maybe we need not worry about our children, but when I read of the "non-virgin" clubs, I wonder whether this subject is not more important to parents than what Harry Truman says of Robert A. Taft.

GOP Getting Ready For '52

The Republican National Committee held at Washington Friday its first full meeting since the elections of last November. Aside from naming a committee to choose a convention site, the GOP laid a few plans for the Congressional elections of 1952 as well as for the presidential campaign in that year.

Chairman Gabrielson says the GOP will capture "as many as possible" of the 12 Democratic seats in the Senate to be contested in 1952, as well as retain all of the 20 Republican seats at stake. A net gain of two seats is all that is needed to give control of the Senate to the Republican Party two years from now.

One advantage is, from the Republican point of view, that six of the 12 Democratic seats at stake in 1952 are in states where the GOP can win—Maryland, Rhode Island, West Virginia, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming. The remaining six are Connecticut, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

All the Republican senators with seats at stake in 1952 were elected in 1946, the only one of the past 10 election years in which the GOP won control of both branches of Congress. One point of GOP concern is that seven of the 20 states sending a Republican to the Senate in 1946 later elected a Democrat as his colleague — Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York and Washington. Maryland, however, turned the tables in 1950 and sent Republican John Marshall Butler to the Senate in place of Democrat Millard E. Tydings.

In 1946, Senator, then Governor, Herbert R. O'Conor, who will be up for re-election in 1952, barely defeated Republican D. John Markey. So it would seem that Republican senatorial chances in Maryland are somewhat better than even.

Elsewhere, what thus seems like a possible uphill battle for the Republican Party would become less so if additional Democratic seats in doubtful states had to be contested in 1952. And a Republican tide like that of 1946 and its smaller counterpart in 1950 would make GOP control of the 1953 Senate an easy task.

Influenza

Reports of influenza deaths in Europe cause rising concern about a serious epidemic in the United States. All the health services of the country join in saying there is no indication of it.

The World Health Organization has made a study of influenza and advises that the epidemic centering in England is comparatively mild, having no characteristics of the 1918 plague. So severe was that epidemic that in New York street cleaners were assigned as gravediggers and in most of the big cities men and women died unattended. That epidemic swept over the world.

Health experts say the question of immunization against influenza is not settled. There is no vaccine that will protect with certainty. However, the situation indicates the need for continued controlled study of the effect of influenza vaccines in man. It is expected that some influenza will appear in the United States, but that the disease will be like recent experiences. Since the greatest part of mortality results from bacterial complications in the respiratory tract, it is recommended that for patients who have a severe influenza-like illness, appropriate anti-biotics be used.

Since 1918 such anti-biotics as penicillin, streptomycin, sulfa drugs and others have been discovered. They will reduce to a minimum any influenza wave. Sweeping epidemics such as the world has known may come again. But that will be when civilization itself crumbles and the highly efficient health organizations of today are no more.

Come Again, Henry

Henry Wallace, who hasn't been heard from for some time, has come forward with his own scheme for world peace. The idea isn't new by any means, but just a holdover from the original new deal, in which Mr. Wallace played an important part. He would have the United Nations establish and finance an international public works administration, to build dams, bridges, irrigation projects in the various nations of the world in lieu of military preparedness which would lead only to war.

All nations to benefit under the plan would have to discontinue fifth-column activities, and join in building a police force sufficiently strong to keep down war. He holds that the benefits of this great PWA would outweigh any gains to be made through conflict, and would bring peace for that reason. The Russians are materialists, he insists, and would readily join the plan.

Boiled down the Wallace plan would offer Russia needed construction and other economic advantages if the Stalin crowd will forget war and further aggression. But Moscow is thinking along a different line. It would conquer the world through sheer military strength, and then have enslaved peoples build the things Mr. Wallace is promising. Come again, Henry.

Lower Octane Gasoline

The octane rating of gasoline for passenger cars will be lowered by Government order to the oil companies any day now. The Petroleum Administration for Defense announced on January 12 that it would take this step "soon."

Well, the PAD says that in most inland areas the rating of the "gas" now being sold has already been lowered to points that will be unaffected by the new order. It is chiefly along the Atlantic seaboard and on the Pacific Coast that any change will be necessary.

And even there the driver who uses regular "gas" should notice little difference in performance. The driver who uses premium "gas" may get a little more "ping" in the engine, especially in climbing hills, but should suffer little or no loss in mileage per gallon. However, motors adjusted at the factory to operate only on premium fuel may have to have their sparks retarded.

Until recently petroleum refiners' had been using alkylates to boost the octane rating of "high-test" gasoline. Now the alkylates are to be reserved for military aviation fuel and commercial aviation gasoline is expected to make greater use of tetra-ethyl lead.

Intestinal Obstruction

INTESTINAL obstruction is serious. Surgery usually is required and in spite of the best medical care the mortality rate is between 15 and 20 per cent. But this is a great improvement over the days when I was an intern. There were no wonder drugs and blood transfusions rarely were employed. Furthermore, no attempt was made to overcome the water and mineral loss that follows the vomiting associated with a bowel that is pinched or kinked.

There are many causes of intestinal obstruction. Occasionally food or toys are responsible. There are two cases on record in which a man ate so many grasshoppers that his colon became obstructed. Another was "riding the rails" when he became so hungry he jumped off into an orange grove and gulped 15 to 20 oranges, including the pulp. Impactions are common in certain parts of Europe where large quantities of cherries with the pits are consumed. Other items that have produced blockage are nuts, peaches, mushrooms, bran, apple cores, figs, grapes, beans, and watermelons. Persimmon pulp probably is one of the worst food offenders.

On the other hand, food is one of the rarest causes of intestinal obstruction even tho many individuals swallow huge chunks without proper chewing. Tumors of the wall of the intestine are to blame in more than half the cases. The majority of these lesions are cancerous, which only adds to the severity of the condition. Adhesions from previous infections or operations also are high on the list. These bands of scar tissue usually kink the bowel by pulling in much the same manner as if we tied a rope around an inner tube and tugged with all our might. Adhesions also are capable of pinching off the intestinal passageway slowly, particularly when they encircle the structure. Other origins include infections, strangulated hernias, and intussusception, a disturbance in which the upper part of the bowel telescopes into the lower part. It is most frequent in children and we have never known why it occurs.

Victims of obstruction suffer from bouts of abdominal cramps. As blockage becomes more complete, cramping grows more painful. Distress may be paroxysmal or continuous, depending upon the location of the lesion and the cause of the obstruction. Vomiting coexists, at first reflex in nature. Later it is caused by the fact that the bowel closed and nature has flipped the switch and thrown everything into reverse. Furthermore, the closer the lesion to the stomach, the sooner closure occurs. Constipation also is bound to ensue because material from above has been shut off. As the obstruction continues the abdomen becomes more and more distended and the gurgling and churning may be heard from a distance as the intestine tries its best to overcome the obstruction. Sooner or later the toxic effect is manifested. The face appears anxious, pinched, and somewhat blue; the body is dehydrated; and the skin cold and dry.

The more promptly relief is obtained, the better the outcome. Operation is necessary unless the obstruction is close enough to the rectum to be accessible to the surgeon. Meanwhile all the tricks of the trade are used to overcome the general effects of the toxic and dehydrated condition.

Eisenhower Not Too Happy About Donning Uniform Again; Facing Hostile Crowds Overseas; Knows Job Can Blast Any Presidential Ambitions.

Says DREW PEARSON

(ED. NOTE—The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, who now reports to Congress on the difficult job of rearming Europe.)

WASHINGTON — When General Eisenhower went off to Europe, a lot of people got the impression that he was rather glad to leave Columbia, get into uniform again and return to his old haunts abroad. Actually, this was not the case.

To a few close friends just before he left, Ike confessed that he dreaded going overseas again, knew that he would face hostile crowds, realized how tough it would be to organize rearmament in war-weary Europe.

Ike also knew, though he didn't say so, that getting back into uniform might blast any presidential ambitions he had.

There was nothing phony or theatrical, therefore, about Ike's answer when President Truman called him in Chicago last December and asked him to become chief commander under the North Atlantic Pact. Ike replied that a soldier has to go where he is called, and he meant it.

Report To Congress

Behind Eisenhower's report to Congress this week will be two significant facts which the general public may not at first appreciate.

No. 1 is that the President has partially abdicated to Eisenhower the national leadership in regard to European policy. It will be up to Ike to sell Congress and the nation on sending U. S. troops to Europe at a time when isolationism is growing and when thousands of mothers do not at all relish seeing their sons leave home.

No. 2 is the fact that Eisenhower, though trained as a military man, has now become a political figure.

Furthermore, Eisenhower's political development is bound to accelerate; for his job of welding different nationalities into a smooth-working military machine is much more political than military.

For some time, Ike's critics—and he has some—have harped on his political proclivities. Long ago, they claim, Ike learned that the pen is mightier than the word. And it was Major Eisenhower, they recall, who wrote General MacArthur's farewell message to the Army when Mac retired as Chief of Staff—one of the most appealing documents ever issued by a chief of staff.

Political General

And though they criticize Ike for having been a political general during the invasion of Europe, it must be remembered that one of his jobs was to smooth the ruffled feathers of General Giraud, get the cooperation of the difficult General De Gaulle, tone down the passion for publicity of Field Marshal Montgomery and weld the heterogeneous, politically minded armies of Europe into a homogeneous unit.

One thing that griped some Americans, for instance, was Ike's order that there was to be no criticism of the British during and after the D-Day invasion of Normandy. He also placed a British officer alongside each American officer in key jobs where cooperation was essential. This may have slowed military movements at times but it built Allied harmony—which was all-important.

This is some of the invaluable experience Eisenhower will draw on when it comes to the present peacetime mobilization of Europe.

Ike Hates War

Another quality that will help the North Atlantic Pact commander is the fact that his hatred of war is just as genuine as that of the war-weary Europeans who now dread preparing for another showdown. Probably Ike gets this from his mother, a descendant of a Swiss-German family which fled Europe to escape its wars. Mrs. Eisenhower never relished the fact that her son became a soldier and once, when Sam Goldwyn congratulated her on her son, she promptly replied:

"Which one?"

For Mrs. Eisenhower was just as proud of her other six sons as of the one whose name is a byword around the world.

"War is mankind's most tragic and stupid folly," Eisenhower once told a West Point graduating class. "To seek or advise its deliberate provocation is a black crime against all men. Though you follow the trade of warrior you do so in the spirit of Washington — not of Genghis Khan.

"A a professional soldier you do not inherit a greater share than your citizen brothers of courage, endurance, and fortitude. Neither does your commission confer upon you distinctive right or privilege . . . The arts and sciences, as well as the profession of arms, are bulwarks of society. And the greatest of all is the spirit—the will—for freedom and justice."

These remarks, coming from the man against whom the Communists have been demonstrating in the streets of Rome and Paris, probably would astonish the average European. However, they represent the creed of the man who now faces the difficult task of mobilizing the North Atlantic Pact countries for democracy.

Eisenhower-Go-Round

As a school boy in Abilene, Kans., Eisenhower was called "Ugly Ike." . . . His father was a Democrat, and Ike's first speech was at a Jackson Day dinner. Because he was a Democrat, Ike had a little difficulty getting an appointment to West Point, but finally obtained the endorsement of the leaders of both wings of the Republican Party in Abilene . . . The Eisenhower high school gang used to hang around the office of the Abilene News where they did odd jobs for Editor J. W. Howe and where young Ike read exchange newspapers. According to Howe: "Dwight never complained about working, seeming to take that for granted. In school discussions he was always for the underdog and contended we needed a somewhat better distribution of wealth."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Thinking Behind Controls

WASHINGTON

CONTROLS are always unpleasant, and it is not a bad idea to enter the era of renewed war-time controls with at least one happy thought. Such a thought is provided by the fundamental approach to th problem of economic controls that has been adopted by the remarkable new triumvirate of Charles E. Wilson, Lucius D. Clay and Sidney Weinberg.

In brief, unless there is an all-out war, Defense Mobilizer Wilson and his two junior partners regard the new controls as a strictly temporary expedient. The comparison their planners use tells the story. The new controls are to resemble the rocket or Jato attachments which gain flying speed for many modern airplanes, and are then dropped to the ground when they have done their jobs.

Wilson, Clay and Weinberg have fought all the numerous foot draggers and business-as-usual mumblers in the Administration, because they consider that rapidly imposed controls are vitally needed to speed and facilitate the expansion of American production. But they frankly intend to jettison the controls—always assuming there is no war—when the output of American farms and factories has been adequately increased.

Steel An Illustration

What is more, the year 1953 is named as the time when the national economy ought to begin to operate smoothly at the new level, with enough production to meet both civilian and defense requirements. And thus if Wilson, Clay and Weinberg have calculated correctly, the new controls can safely begin to be removed in hardly more than a year and a half.

The best illustration of how this will work is the case of steel. With steel capacity considerably above 100,000,000 tons annually, the United States still does not have enough steel plants to satisfy both the heavy defense demand and the immensely high current level or normal steel consumption. An increase of steel output of 15,000,000 tons annually is needed to provide enough for all.

If Wilson, Clay and Weinberg had adopted the more normal approach to controls, they would have plumped for a permanent but not very painful cutback in civilian steel consumption to make room for defense requirements. But this would have necessitated permanent, though light controls. Instead, besides setting aside ample steel to meet current defense requirements, they propose over the next year and a half to invest an additional 15,000,000 tons of steel in new plants. This will demand, for the time being, a double cut in civilian consumption. But at the end of the year and a half, when the new plant comes into production and adds 15,000,000 tons annually to our national steel capacity, there will be enough steel for all needs now foreseen. Steel controls can then be abandoned.

There are, of course, innumerable difficulties in the way before even this single, seemingly simple operation can be accomplished successfully. Only a part of the steel investment will go into blast furnaces and rolling mills.

Must Expand Operations

The whole national apparatus for getting iron ore out of the ground, refining it, making steel of it, and moving it about in all its transformations from the mine to the ultimate steel consumer must be concurrently expanded. A national ore reserve must somehow be conserved in the Mesabi range, and thus iron ore production from the new Labrador and Venezuela sources must be expedited. A severe manganese shortage must be overcome. And all these different but related efforts must move forward together and abreast, if there is to be sufficient steel at the end of the process.

Nor is this all, by any means. An expansion in national production proportional to a 15,000,000-ton increase in steel capacity will carry with it a comparable increase in the national income. If the additional income is let loose as spending money, civilian and industrial consumption of all sorts of goods will rise wildly. All present figures for normal civilian requirements will go haywire. And once again, the new economic controls will have to be continued, in order to keep some sort of check on inflation.

In order to avoid this danger, the country must not only submit peaceably to the new controls during the emergency period; stringent credit restrictions and severe tax increases will also be needed to prevent the economy from choking on its own new spending money. In short, the whole business is a sort of test of American political maturity on an immense scale. "Do what is disagreeable now, and get the worst over with," is the advice of doctors Wilson, Weinberg and Clay, It will be childish not to take such advice.

Buying Stocks Should Be Considered Carefully Now

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 28—Have just telephoned an important brokerage house in New York City to ask its opinion on the stock market. The reply was: "We guess the market is finally getting high enough for the public to buy."

Look At The Record

The Dow-Jones Industrial Averages struck a high of 381 in 1929; they fell to 41 in 1932; they rose to 194 in 1937; fell again to 93 in 1942; rose again to 212 in 1946, from which they declined until a few months ago. They are now around 245, the high for 20 years; but this statement applies to only 30 stocks out of over 1,000 stocks. Many good stocks are now selling for less than they did in 1946, or earlier. Many people say: "All stocks have gone up except those which I hold. What is the reason?" The truth is just the reverse of this. Only a very few stocks are selling at their "20-year highs."

All the above causes the wisest investors to be neither bullish nor bearish just now. They believe stocks are good for income, but not for speculation. The stock market is very selective and the war outlook is very uncertain—either way. We are now doing right to prepare actively for World War III; but it may not come for years. Our hurried preparations may be useless.

What Mr. Hoover Believes

Mr. Hoover apparently believes that, unless there is a revolution in Russia, all of Europe—war or no war—may, for a period of years, try communism and that no War III can prevent it. He also thinks that the Russians now have no intention of striking North or South America unless we attack Russia. He believes we should now avoi war and concentrate on strengther ing the United States militaril economically and spiritually unt the Europeans unite and show a enthusiasm to fight communisr Under this Hoover policy our ma kets should hold up.

If we should get into war wi Russia and one or more of o cities are bombed, the Stock E changes would be closed to preve financial panic. Everything—secu ities, commodities, rents, banks a wages—would be frozen. We wou be ruled by a dictator and stoc would go down. Those who expe war should not buy stocks—certai ly not unless they are very careful selected by experts. Inflation, ho ever, should help a few stocks.

Stocks vs. Homes

Certainly, anyone who does n own a house and an acre of la in a safe country village, shou make such his first investment war or no war. Many such places well located, with water, fuel a neighbors—can be purchased tod for one-third what it would c to build them. I'm not advisi their purchase for immediate occ pancy; but for insurance a security.

Next, keep healthy, have a go bank account and a job which w give you a living. If you are d pendent partly on investment i come, then buy a very broad l of 30 stocks which have paid di dends for many years and whi should give you about 5 per ce If your local bank is unable supply you with such a list, t bank can send to me at 270 Was ington Street, Wellesley Hills, Ma sachusetts, and I will freely se such a list to the bank for you.

Troublesome Pictures

IT IS NOT OFTEN that I go to movies, but recently I went to see a picture, "The Steel Helmet," under troublesome circumstances. My friend and colleague, Victor Riesel, first denounced this picture as containing distortions and evasions which he suspected of being aimed at presenting the United States and our forces in Korea unfavorably. Many have picked up that line without seeing the picture, which I am sure is an unfair way of doing things. Reading the script and not seeing the picture is not businesslike.

I saw the picture and it is a good presentation of the American character in its numerous complexities. I found the sergeant, a normal, tough, hard-bitten Yank, precisely the kind of stuff that has won our wars. The fact that a Negro and a Nisei are also heroes in no manner upsets me. There are nearly 13,000,000 Negroes in this country and they play an important role in our affairs, and the Negro troops in Korea have done remarkably well.

The Nisei are Americans born of Japanese parents, and a more devoted group of citizens is hard to find. They fought in Italy in World War II; they are now fighting in Korea. A Nisi hero can be substantiated in World War II and in the Korean War.

I write this not to boost a picture, but rather to express myself against labeling everything Communist which a person does not like. As much as I dislike Marxism, there are objectionable things which are not Marxist. A motion picture may be stupid without being Marxist.

To find a Communist implication in "The Steel Helmet" s straining at a gnat. And it serves no purpose. I know of no speech that more fully and decently expresses the American view of the sanctity of a prisoner of war than that delivered by the lieutenant in the Buddhist temple when the sergeant lost his temper and killed the Nor Korean.

I saw another picture, also as preview, that did not make me happy. "The Magnificent Yanke is pretentious of being a biograp of the late Justice Oliver Wend Holmes. It told me nothing abo Holme's overweening influence our jurisprudence, nothing of fundamental theories.

All I got out of it was that Theodore Roosevelt was angr with him; that Holmes loved Mrs. Holmes, which should no be unusual among marrie folks; that Holmes had a lot o secretaries all of whom, including Alger Hiss, who is exclude from the picture, made good.

There is a sequence involv Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whom know in those years. In the pictu Brandeis lacks that combination dignity and humility which was heritage. I canot imagine why was dragged in at all if he was to be made to stand forth as towering intellect.

Maybe it is tough to do this ki of a picture. Certainly it tough for me to sit through it.

I have not seen "The Mirac over which there is so much co troversy. I mean to see it, as news item.

Concerning it, I am in dee trouble. I dislike all forms o censorship and suppression. Yet I find that the children I kno are getting to have the queere notions of life, most of whic they get from motion picture and radio. Certainly, I shoul object to a moron selling a chil marijuana or cocaine or an other dope. Have I then a righ to say that because I believe i freedom of expression, tha freedom includes doping th mind and corrupting the char acter?

This is a problem which fa all parents. Is there nothing six and murder to life? And there no love but what the you sters call "hot' love, by which t apparently mean overt, blatant, restrained sexual activity? If l is limited to that, why does family exist at all?

So this picture "The Miracle" trigues me, because I know Cardi Spellman and I know that he wo never have appealed to his religionists to reject it if he did feel strongly that the pictures o rages moral law.

Maybe we need not worry ab our children, but when I read of "non-virgin" clubs, I wonder whet er this subject is not more imp tant to parents than what Ha Truman says of Robert A. Taft.

The Actors Were Too Human

AFTER watching with considerable disquiet a dramatization of "The Chasers," a story by John Collier, on "The Billy Rose Show," I read one of Collier's other stories, "Another American Tragedy," in an attempt to find out just what went wrong on the the television show.

John Crosby

Collier, in case you're not familiar with his work, is a sardonic writer who writes with delicate humor of the grimmest possible subjects. Clifton Fadiman once wrote of him that his "mind is subtle, working only in the unexpected, the wild and the lightly diabolic." "The Chasers" is typical. It is a simple, vaguely medieval tale in modern dress, of a young man hopelessly in love with a girl who doesn't love him back. A contemporary sorcerer contemptuously sells him a love potion for a dollar. It works only too well. Within six months he is back at the sorcerer's looking for some sort of potion that will modify the woman's wild infatuation for him. There is only one, the sorcerer tells him—poison, which he sells him for $1,000.

• — • — •

The essence of this tale is, of course, the divergence in price between (a) acquiring a lovely lovelorn lady, (b) getting rid of her. Somehow this moral—perhaps immoral would be the word—got lost in translation to television. The tone of Mr. Collier's writing, his distinctive gift for wringing humor out of an essentially tragic situation, was altogether buried under excessively literal acting and direction. I don't know that this was anyone's fault. Real live human actors are just a little too real, too live and too human for Mr. Collier's macabre wit. Perhaps an animated cartoon would be the answer to dramatizing Collier if Collier has to be dramatized. As it was, "The Chasers" became just another story with a twist which telegraphed itself a mile ahead, the sort of thing that is a dime a dozen on radio.

I bring this up because there is a good deal of this on television these days. An excellent short story on paper does not necessarily make an excellent short story on television. Some stories are inherently undramatizable; others lend themselves to drama only if done by experts and they don't always get expert care. The problem of distinguishing the dramatizable from the undramatizable has plagued the movie people these many years now, and I expect it'll continue to plague the television people, too.

The Rose show still sets a high standard in production which is by Jed Harris, direction and acting. The stories are all simple one-cylinder-plot affairs, generally with a small cast, highly suited to the intimacy of television. Just what Mr. Rose has to do with them, though, is becoming a bit of a mystery. Originally he was to have contributed the stories from his late column. He apparently has run out of these already and is resorting to other authors.

This dilemma will eventually face a lot of television programs, a matter that was brought to my attention by John McClain, who is also in the miserable profession of column-writing: "How about Pulitzer Prize Playhouse and the Somerset Maugham Theater and the rest of them when they run out of material? First it will be the stories of men who were considered for the Pulitzer Prize; then men who were nearly considered and so forth until we have arrived at stories of men who read Pulitzer Prize stories. Maugham will have to resort to 'stories I almost wrote,' 'stories I read and liked,' 'stories I didn't quite have time to read but are notable.'"

• — • — •

Actually this situation has already come to pass, and television is still in its infancy. The Pulitzer Prize Playhouse has presented stories that never came within shooting distance of a Pulitzer Prize, Mr. Rose has wandered clear off the reservation, and the Arthur Godfrey show is still billed that way and opens with the cast singing "Here is Arthur Godfrey" when, of course, what actually appears on your screen bears a remarkable resemblance to Robert Q. Lewis.

A theater or a movie house would be in grave difficulty with the public and with the authorities if it advertised Ethel Merman on the marquee and then gave the audience Judy Canova. But in broadcasting anything goes.

Somehow this moral—perhaps immoral would be the word—got lost in translation to television. The tone of Mr. Collier's writing, his distinctive gift for wringing humor out of an essentially tragic situation, was altogether buried under excessively literal acting and direction. I don't know that this was anyone's fault. Real live human actors are just a little too real, too live and too human for Mr. Collier's macabre wit. Perhaps an animated cartoon would be the answer to dramatizing Collier if Collier has to be dramatized. As it was, "The Chasers" became just another story with a twist which telegraphed itself a mile ahead, the sort of thing that is a dime a dozen on radio.

I bring this up because there is a good deal of this on television these days. An excellent short story on paper does not necessarily make an excellent short story on television. Some stories are inherently undramatizable; others lend themselves to drama only if done by experts and they don't always get expert care. The problem of distinguishing the dramatizable from the undramatizable has plagued the movie people these many years now, and I expect it'll continue to plague the television people, too.

The Rose show still sets a high standard in production which is by Jed Harris, direction and acting. The stories are all simple one-cylinder-plot affairs, generally with a small cast, highly suited to the intimacy of television. Just what Mr. Rose has to do with them, though, is becoming a bit of a mystery. Originally he was to have contributed the stories from his late column. He apparently has run out of these already and is resorting to other authors.

This dilemma will eventually face a lot of television programs, a matter that was brought to my attention by John McClain, who is also in the miserable profession of column-writing: "How about Pulitzer Prize Playhouse and the Somerset Maugham Theater and the rest of them when they run out of material? First it will be the stories of men who were considered for the Pulitzer Prize; then men who were nearly considered and so forth until we have arrived at stories of men who read Pulitzer Prize stories. Maugham will have to resort to 'stories I almost wrote,' 'stories I read and liked,' 'stories I didn't quite have time to read but are notable.'"

• — • — •

Actually this situation has already come to pass, and television is still in its infancy. The Pulitzer Prize Playhouse has presented stories that never came within shooting distance of a Pulitzer Prize, Mr. Rose has wandered clear off the reservation, and the Arthur Godfrey show is still billed that way and opens with the cast singing "Here is Arthur Godfrey" when, of course, what actually appears on your screen bears a remarkable resemblance to Robert Q. Lewis.

A theater or a movie house would be in grave difficulty with the public and with the authorities if it advertised Ethel Merman on the marquee and then gave the audience Judy Canova. But in broadcasting anything goes.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

KEEPING UP WITH # HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28 (INS)—Tomorrow morning Elizabeth Taylor goes into Los Angeles Superior Court on the first lap of her interlocutory divorce from Nicky Hilton. Her most important witness will be Mrs. Marshall Thompson — but don't look for fireworks. Liz's "complaint" will be as brief as possible as Nicky is not contesting the suit.

Elizabeth Taylor

With her divorce behind her — Elizabeth will be kept busy at M-G-M in two costume pictures. Late in April she goes to London to co-star with Stewart Granger in "Ivanhoe." Her M-G-M bosses believe it will be a good thing for their overpublicized darling to get away from it all.

Before that, however, Liz will play the charmer who gets Stewart Granger away from Ava Gardner in "Scaramouche"—which takes a bit of doing, you must admit.

Chatter in Hollywood: On Saturday, cute little Columbia Actress Terry Moore and her mother, Mrs. Luella Koford, were sitting on the Hawaiian All-Stars' bench in Honolulu watching Glenn Davis play basketball. Yes, his romance with Terry is that serious.

Glenn long distanced Terry and asked her to fly to Honolulu and bring her mother to chaperone her. Terry and her ma went there to cheer for her hero to win from the Harlem Globetrotters, the Hawaiian All-Stars' opponents.

Don't sell the romance between Terry and Glenn short, because it's the real thing. He's the boy that Liz Taylor was so madly in love with—her first.

One of the least conceited actors in our town is Bing Crosby, and he really has every reason to be pleased with himself, since he is one of the most popular actors in the world.

None of us can any longer have any doubt about that since the fan mail department at Paramount clocked the one millionth letter congratulating him on his 20th anniversary as a singing star.

Many of the letters came from youngsters. One from a little bedridden girl named Jo Ann Hoff, asked for an autographed copy of "White Christmas." Believe me, she received it.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nicky Hilton, dining with a beautiful blonde at the Thistle Inn, refused to give her name. He told the manager, "If you say I've been here I'll never come again."

Bette Davis' ex-husband, William Grant Sherry, goes to Paris early in May. He'll study art on the G. I. Bill of Rights. Since he has been classified disabled, he won't be called again for service. He gave his best painting to Perc Westmore—a portrait of Emmet Kelly, the clown—because he said Perc had been his best friend.

Gene Tierney has bought an oil well in Texas. Well, if it comes in—oil's well.

Friends of Sally Forrest and Milo Frank are wagering they'll never marry. In Hollywood, however, it's best not to place wagers on the outcome of any romance.

Paul McNamara comes into the Charles Feldman agency with a hatful of ideas.

Is David Selznick in Mexico City to make a movie tie-up there? Ostensibly, he has taken Jennifer Jones there on a vacation, but I hear tell he is talking a deal with some of the Mexican movie biggies.

Marty Melcher will adopt Doris Day's eight-year-old son, Terry, as soon as they are married. The youngster is crazy about him.

Myrna Loy returns to Hollywood to make some TV shorts and to enlist support from our town for UNESCO. Myrna, who has become very social in Washington, is one of the most popular women there.

What, no red hair for Greer Garson! In "The Law And Lady Loverly" she will have to be a brunette, and not only a brunette but a lady with jet black hair.

Paulette Goddard must expect to remain in our town. She has taken a two-year lease on a house on Beverly Glen Blvd.

Jane Winston's novel, "Park Avenue Doctor," comes out in April. Jane, who was married to Michael Gottlieb, was formerly one of our best known actresses.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Germans Conquer U. S. Bobsledders

L'ALPE D'HUEZ, France, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States' bid for the world two-man bobsled championship fell short today and the crown went to the daring German pair—Andreas Ostler and Lorens Nieberl.

The Germans, giving their country its first post-war world championship, beat the Americans by about three and a half seconds in four runs down the nearly mile-long course of this Alpine winter resort.

Ostler and Nieberl, who took a substantial lead in the first two trips yesterday, held the advantage today with times of one minute 18.04 seconds and 1:15.90. The final run set a course record.

This gave them a total of five minutes 11.94 seconds to beat out the United States tanden of Stanley Benham of Lake Placid, N. Y., and Pat Martin of Massena, N. Y.

The Americans, both veteran international sledders, had runs of 1:17.92 and 1:16.76 for a total of 5:15.33.

The Swiss team of Felix Endrich and Werner Spring finished third by turning in times of 1:17.97 and 1:17.02 for a four-run total of 5:16.48.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Elizabeth Taylor

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28 (INS)—Tomorrow morning Elizabeth Taylor goes into Los Angeles Superior Court on the first lap of her interlocutory divorce from Nicky Hilton. Her most important witness will be Mrs. Marshall Thompson — but don't look for fireworks. Liz's "complaint" will be as brief as possible as Nicky is not contesting the suit.

With her divorce behind her — Elizabeth will be kept busy at M-G-M in two costume pictures. Late in April she goes to London to co-star with Stewart Granger in "Ivanhoe." Her M-G-M bosses believe it will be a good thing for their overpublicized darling to get away from it all.

Before that, however, Liz will play the charmer who gets Stewart Granger away from Ava Gardner in "Scaramouche"—which takes a bit of doing, you must admit.

Chatter in Hollywood: On Saturday, cute little Columbia Actress Terry Moore and her mother, Mrs. Luella Koford, were sitting on the Hawaiian All-Stars' bench in Honolulu watching Glenn Davis play basketball. Yes, his romance with Terry is that serious.

Glenn long distanced Terry and asked her to fly to Honolulu and bring her mother to chaperone her. Terry and her ma went there to cheer for her hero to win from the Harlem Globetrotters, the Hawaiian All-Stars' opponents.

Don't sell the romance between Terry and Glenn short, because it's the real thing. He's the boy that Liz Taylor was so madly in love with—her first.

• — • — •

One of the least conceited actors in our town is Bing Crosby, and he really has every reason to be pleased with himself, since he is one of the most popular actors in the world.

None of us can any longer have any doubt about that since the fan mail department at Paramount clocked the one millionth letter congratulating him on his 20th anniversary as a singing star.

Many of the letters came from youngsters. One from a little bedridden girl named Jo Ann Hoff, asked for an autographed copy of "White Christmas." Believe me, she received it.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nicky Hilton, dining with a beautiful blonde at the Thistle Inn, refused to give her name. He told the manager, "If you say I've been here I'll never come again."

Bette Davis' ex-husband, William Grant Sherry, goes to Paris early in May. He'll study art on the G. I. Bill of Rights. Since he has been classified disabled, he won't be called again for service. He gave his best painting to Perc Westmore—a portrait of Emmet Kelly, the clown—because he said Perc had been his best friend.

Gene Tierney has bought an oil well in Texas. Well, if it comes in—oil's well.

Friends of Sally Forrest and Milo Frank are wagering they'll never marry. In Hollywood, however, it's best not to place wagers on the outcome of any romance.

Paul McNamara comes into the Charles Feldman agency with a hatful of ideas.

Is David Selznick in Mexico City to make a movie tie-up there? Ostensibly, he has taken Jennifer Jones there on a vacation, but I hear tell he is talking a deal with some of the Mexican movie biggies.

Marty Melcher will adopt Doris Day's eight-year-old son, Terry, as soon as they are married. The youngster is crazy about him.

Myrna Loy returns to Hollywood to make some TV shorts and to enlist support from our town for UNESCO. Myrna, who has become very social in Washington, is one of the most popular women there.

What, no red hair for Greer Garson! In "The Law And Lady Loverly" she will have to be a brunette, and not only a brunette but a lady with jet black hair.

Paulette Goddard must expect to remain in our town. She has taken a two-year lease on a house on Beverly Glen Blvd.

Jane Winston's novel, "Park Avenue Doctor," comes out in April. Jane, who was married to Michael Gottlieb, was formerly one of our best known actresses.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Germans Conquer U. S. Bobsledders

L'ALPE D'HUEZ, France, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States' bid for the world two-man bobsled championship fell short today and the crown went to the daring German pair—Andreas Ostler and Lorens Nieberl.

The Germans, giving their country its first post-war world championship, beat the Americans by about three and a half seconds in four runs down the nearly mile-long course of this Alpine winter resort.

Ostler and Nieberl, who took a substantial lead in the first two trips yesterday, held the advantage today with times of one minute 18.04 seconds and 1:15.90. The final run set a course record.

This gave them a total of five minutes 11.94 seconds to beat out the United States tanden of Stanley Benham of Lake Placid, N. Y., and Pat Martin of Massena, N. Y.

The Americans, both veteran international sledders, had runs of 1:17.92 and 1:16.76 for a total of 5:15.33.

The Swiss team of Felix Endrich and Werner Spring finished third by turning in times of 1:17.97 and 1:17.02 for a four-run total of 5:16.48.

Cumberland's Spas easily defeated the Beaver Falls Tommies by the score of 82 to 68 in an All-American Basketball League game yesterday afternoon at SS. Peter and Paul gym before a gathering of 323 cash customers.

The Pennsylvanians matched the locals goal for goal (12-12) in the first half but an edge at the foul line gave the locals a 32-26 edge at intermission.

Midway in the third period the lead of Coach Bill Keegan's outfit skyrocketed to 17 points at 51-34 but was lowered to eleven at 58-47 as the teams started play in the final heat. Late in the game the Spas' advantage zoomed to 22 points at 77-55 and 79-57.

Cumberland hooped 32 of 77 shots from the field while Beaver Falls connected 29 times in 85 tries. At the charity line, the victors meshed 18 of 26 attempts to the Tommies' 10 out of 20.

Forty personal fouls were called on the teams—23 on the visitors and 17 on the home club.

The game's high individual scorer was Bob Pence who banged in 19 points on nine fielders and one free throw. He was ably supported by Paul Oberhaus who played his best game of the season and scored 16 points, and Ed Mathewson who garnered 14. Lou Bell also heaved in a couple of hair-raising shots for the locals. Dom McComb and Stan Navage were Beaver Falls' top scorers with 17 and 16 points. Dick Peete, negro forward, played a steller floor game for the Tommies who were making their first appearance here. Lineups:

Foxx Would Like To See Somebody Beat Ruth's Mark

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—Old "Double X" who missed Babe Ruth's home run record by only two circuit swats in 1932 said today he thinks it would be good for baseball if somebody breaks the Babe's home run standard.

Old "Double X" is Jimmy Foxx, who hit the headlines again last week when he and Mel Ott of the New York Giants were voted into baseball's Hall of Fame.

"I think it would be a good thing if someone broke Ruth's record now," Foxx said.

"You hear fans talking about Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker and 90 per cent of them never saw those fellows play.

"I think it's always better for the fans if they know the players who make records. Then they have someone to go out and cheer for. You don't work up much enthusiasm over a page in a book."

Foxx, who's only 43 years old now, making him one of the youngest members of the Hall of Fame, is a salesman for a trucking company and lives with his wife and two children in Doylestown, which is not far from Philadelphia.

It was in Philadelphia, as a member of Connie Mack's great Athletics teams that Jimmy gained his fame. He won batting championships in 1933 and 1938, led American Leaguers in home runs in 1932, 1933 and 1939, was on five All Star teams and was the most valuable player in the league in 1932, 1933 and 1938.

It was in 1932 when Foxx hit 58 home runs, two shy of the mark of 60 set by Ruth in 1927.

Erie Stops Blues' Win Streak, 80-75

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 28 — Erie cracked the 10-game winning streak of the Wheeling Blues this afternoon in an All-American Professional Basketball League game here. The score was 80-75. It was Erie's 8th consecutive win on the home floor but the setback failed to pull the West Virginians out of first place.

Erie trailed at the half, 49-36, and pulled to within five points of the Blues at the end of the third quarter, 60-55. Coach Paul Birch's club tied it up at 65-65 and went ahead to stay on three goals by Fred Schwab. The latter, incidentally, led Erie in scoring with 21 points. Lennie Rhodes and Al McCullough had 16 each. Erie plays in Cumberland next Sunday afternoon.

Claire Doran Wins

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP) — Tall, graceful Claire Doran outshot the veteran Polly Riley, 3 and 2, in a tense golf duel today to win the Helen Lee Doherty Amateur Cup, her first major trophy in 10 years of tournament play.

The 27-year-old Cleveland school teacher never trailed through the 34-hole battle with the Fort Worth, Texas, ace and when they hit the last nine hole-lap, both tiring rapidly, Doran had the greatest staying power.

St. Joseph's Quint Beats LaSalle High

Martinsburg School Evens Series, 45-42

St. Joseph's High School squared its season series with LaSalle High School's basketball team by defeating the Explorers yesterday in Martinsburg, W. Va., by the score of 45 to 42.

Coach John Collins' quint dropped a 44-40 decision to Art Slocum's floormen in the opener of the series here.

The West Virginians pulled yesterday's game out of the fire in the final period after trailing 33-31 at the close of the third stanza. St. Joseph's led at the quarter, 11-5, and the score was tied at 19-19 at intermission.

Capt. "Bucky" McDonald who racked up 24 points in the series opener here, also sparked St. Joseph's in yesterday's game. The Martinsburg center garnered 21 markers on eight fielders and 5-7 fouls. Ray Petrucci was the runner-up with 13 points.

Paul Ackerman was LaSalle's best bet. He accounted for 20 points on nine field goals and two free throws.

Marty Mullaney and Don Farrell of LaSalle and McDonald of St. Joseph's were ejected on personal fouls.

LaSalle plays two important games at home this week, meeting Barton on Tuesday and Allegany on Friday. Barton holds a 44-39 decision over LaSalle while the Explorers defeated AHS 35-34.

Reserved seats for the AHS-LaSalle game go on sale today and may be purchased at the schools. Yesterday's lineups:

Gehrmann Wins 36th, Richards Jumps 15 Feet

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—This is beginning to sound like a broken phonograph record — Don Gehrmann beat Fred Wilt in the mile run again.

This time it was in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden last night. About the best thing that can be said for Wilt's efforts is that he put forth his best and extended Gehrmann to a 4:07.5 effort, Don's best ever. It was Gehrmann's 36th straight mile victory.

The crowd of 14,000 in Madison Square Garden, performing its usual role of supporting the underdog, was for Wilt all the way, but despite its urging Fred couldn't open enough of a gap to fight off the famous Gehrmann finishing kick.

So the spectators contented themselves with cheering to the rafters for Bob Richards, the parson from La Verne, Calif., who likes the rarified air of the upper stratosphere. The demon deacon soared 15 feet 1 inch to become the second man in history to clear 15 feet in the pole vault.

Cornelius Warmerdam, who turned the trick 43 times, is the only other 15-footer. Corny, now retired, also holds the world's mark of 15 feet 8½ inches, so 24-year-old Bob has a long way to go.

Beaulieu's 253 Sets K. Of C. Loop Record

The Grand Knights went into a first place tie with the Recorders in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League by sweeping three games from the Guards yesterday on the Club Recreation alleys.

Recorders scored a 2-1 victory over the Chancellors.

Art Beaulieu of the Recorders hung up a new single game record for the league when he posted a 253. His three game total was 531.

Other high scorers were:

Tom McGeady, Chancellors, 174-443; "Pie" Conley, Grand Knights, 182-488, and "Ike" Law, Guards, 182-479. The standings:

Steelers Forfeit Three In LaSalle Dux League

The pace-setting Steelers lost three games via the forfeit route to the Eagles in the LaSalle Bowling League yesterday when they were unable to field a team due to sickness and two players participating in a basketball game.

Tommy Kolb led the Eagles with 144-392 while Jack Vocke topped the losers with 179-489.

In the other match, the Bears walked over the Redskins, 2 to 1. Georgie Geatz posted a 153-404 to pace the Bears while Jack Stegmaier was high man for the 'Skins with 162-400. Standings:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |

| Steelers | 8 | 4 | .667 |
| Redskins | 7 | 5 | .583 |
| Eagles | 5 | 7 | .417 |

Bears Throttle Long Island, Columbia Remains Unbeaten

California Is Winner, 69-67; Seven In Line For NCAA Cage Tests

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Seven teams—Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Indiana, Columbia, North Carolina State, Arizona and Brigham Young—look like sure-fire bets for the NCAA basketball tournament.

Columbia, however, is the only one that possibly can get there without a defeat.

One of the two remaining spotless records in college basketball was fractured last night when California broke Long Island University's 16-game winning streak, 69-67, at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

This left the Ivy League's Columbia with the only perfect mark among major quintets—12 in a row this year and 21 straight over a two-year period. The Lions don't put this string on the line again until Feb. 6 when they play Harvard.

Now that practically all the cage powers have lost at least once—and, in some case, two or three times—interest has veered from the individual team records to the big question: Who's going to make the tournaments?

Seven Top Contenders

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has decided this year to give stock bids to the champions of ten major conferences and to pick six other teams 'at random.

Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Columbia, N. C. State, Indiana, Arizona and Brigham Young have taken a whip hand in their respective leagues and can almost start making traveling plans for the sectional NCAA playoffs.

The other three conferences haven't jelled to the point that their champions look certain but certainly inside tracks belong to Kansas State in the Big Seven, Texas in the Southwest and Southern California or Washington State in the Pacific Coast.

Top-ranking Kentucky and third-placed Oklahoma A & M struck the most effective blows during the past week in behalf of tournament berths.

The Wildcats from Lexington, Ky., smashed Vanderbilt, the only other unbeaten team in the Southeastern Conference, 74-49.

Oklahoma's Aggies downed Bradley, their keenest Missouri Valley rival, 49-48, Friday at Peoria, Ill. They whipped strong DePaul last night, 73-57. Unbeaten in the league, the Aggies have return games with Bradley and St. Louis but they look equal to the task.

The Conference Leaders

Here's how the other conferences line up:

Eastern (Ivy)—Columbia with a 5-0 league record is cleanly dominating play. Main threats are Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Southern—N. C. State has a 10-0 league mark, beating Virginia Tech, 114-66, and North Carolina, 71-58, during the week.

Big Ten—Indiana (6-0) only unbeaten member and already winner over Illinois, figured strongest challenger. Beat Minnesota last night, 32-26.

Skyline Six—Brigham Young has an almost insurmountable lead with a 7-2 mark. All others have lost at least four games.

Border—Arizona has won six, lost none in the league and the others not close. Beat San Jose last night, 62-55.

Big Seven—Kansas State is the leader with four victories and no defeats but Kansas is close at 4-1 with a game coming up Feb. 24. The K-Staters beat Colorado last night, 63-42.

Southwest — Texas (4-0) setting the pace but Texas Christian (3-1) and Texas A & M (3-1) ready to step in if the Longhorns falter.

Pacific Coast—Southern California (3-1) and Washington State (4-2) divisional leaders but look out for Washington and UCLA.

In the NCAA tournament eight teams will compete in the western regionals March 21-24. The eastern regionals will be divided into two meets with four teams scrambling at Madison Square Garden March 20, 22, 24, and four at Raleigh, N. C., March 20.

The college nabobs will have plenty of talent from which to pick the six "floater" teams, which can come from conferences as well as independents.

Some of the season's standouts that come readily to mind include St. John's of Brooklyn, Villanova, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Evansville, Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Hamline, St. Bonaventure, Stanford, Oklahoma, Illinois, Wisconsin and Seattle. LIU is not a member and is ineligible.

Faces More Trouble

The defeat of LIU, second ranked nationally, by nine-times-beaten California last night furnished the largest damage to the sport's top ten, as picked weekly in the Associated Press poll.

The Golden Bears, led by Billy Hagler's 17 points, piled up a 38-28 lead early in the second half and hung on. The Blackbirds pulled within a point, 64-63, in the fading minutes but could get no closer.

LIU faces possible further defeats on the return trip home, meeting Arizona tomorrow night, Kansas State Wednesday and St. Louis Saturday.

Other top teams—except fourth-ranked Bradley which lost to the Oklahoma Aggies Friday — came through the week without a scar.

Phoenix Open Title Is Won By Worsham

Lew Captures $2,000, Edges Lawson Little

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28 (AP) — Lew Worsham, who hadn't won an important golf title since 1947, the year he was U. S. Open Champion, today captured the $10,000 Phoenix Open title with a 272 for the 72 holes.

The winner calmly sank an eight-foot putt on the final hole for a one-under par 70 today and a single stroke edge over Lawson Little, former amateur and professional champion.

Little lost his chance to tie for the title when he missed a four-footer on the 18th green to post a 68 for a 273 total.

Barely Clings To Lead

The 33-year-old Worsham, started as strong today as yesterday when he set a new competitive course record of 63 for the 6,698-yard, par 35-36—71 Phoenix Country Club course. But he faded after the first eight holes and barely clung to the lead.

On hand to watch the finish was Ben Hogan, the golfer of the year for 1950, who had started his first competition of 1941 here, but was forced out by intestinal flu after leading the field with a 65 in the first round.

Worsham's 63 had given him a two-stroke lead at the start of today's play.

Winner Gets $2,000

Sunny weather and temperatures in the mid 70's helped the 60 survivors of a field of 125 as they played for a $2,000 first prize.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., tied for third with 274, and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., was fifth with 275.

Lloyd Mangrum, troubled by a pulled muscle in his back, sagged from the second place he had yesterday and fired a 73 for a 277 total. With him was Johnny Bulla, who calls Phoenix his home in the winter.

Jimmy Demaret, who sought his third straight Phoenix Open victory, wound up down the list with a 281.

Down the line came Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, Carey Middlecoff, winner of last week's open at Long Beach, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., the three each had 278.

Tucson Is Next Stop

Ellsworth Vines, great tennis and golf player, making one of his few tournament appearances, wound up at 279 with Ed Furgol, Jimmy Hines and a pair of young Texas professionals, Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas and Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston. Then came Demaret.

Low amateur prize went to Jack Coyle of Springfield, Ill., who fired a 289.

Next stop on the winter tournament will be at Tucson, Ariz., on Thursday for the start of a four-day affair.

Riot Marks Cage Battle In Virginia

Punches Are Thrown At VPI-W. & L. Game

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 28 (AP)—Virginia Tech basketball coach Flake (Red) Laird said today the Southern Conference should act to prevent such incidents as the "riot" which interrupted Tech's game with Washington and Lee at Lexington last night.

"Wallace Wade (conference commissioner) ought to take steps to get school to curb crowds at basketball games," Laird said. "I'm going to make a full report to our authorities."

Laird still was visibly peeved over last night's incident. With 31 seconds left in the game, Chuck Grove, a W & L reserve, raced onto the floor and hit Tech's center Sumner (Tex) Tilson during a timeout period.

People began piling out of the stands. Punches were thrown. Laird said one of his players, forward Gene Jones, had been "stomped and knocked senseless."

Laird and W & L Coach Scott Hamilton agreed tempers had been edgy before the fight. Minutes before, Laird had protested to the officials that Tilson twice had been deliberately fouled by W & L's Jay Handlan. He wanted to know why the officials — Winston Milan of Lynchburg, Va., and Walter Schuman of Waynesboro, Va.—had not awarded Tilson two shots each time.

Laird was roundly booed. Presently, Tilson elbowed Handlan. Handlan fell to the floor. W & L took time out. Grove, Handlan's roommate, hit Tilson.

"Everytime I saw somebody in a red uniform being attacked by two people," Laird said, "I pulled one of the two off. I wanted to make it a fair fight.

"You can't protest a basketball game. But when we returned to the floor, I told the official scorer we were finishing under protest."

Laird said he didn't believe the incident would endanger relations between the two schools.

"I don't think the game officials could have prevented the riot. I do think that somebody from Washington and Lee should have spoken to the crowd early in the game. We're used to howling mobs.

"We're used to being called hayseeds . . . but a bunch of red-blooded boys is bound to react to being called the names we were called.

"Everything seemed to happen at once. Grove hit Tilson and some of our kids jumped Grove. But I don't hold Grove responsible . . . He was 'agitated' by a Washington and Lee football player . . ."

Hamilton agreed there had been "agitators" in the crowd. He described the incident as "one of those unfortunate things."

Washington and Lee won the game, 61-58.

Sentinels Seek 12th Straight On Home Court

Piedmont Will Visit Bruce, Potomac State, Howard To Hit Road

Fort Hill High School's undefeated basketball team will be shooting for its 12th victory of the season tonight when it meets Ridgeley High's Blackhawks in the opening game of their annual series on the Fort Hill court at 8 o'clock.

Bob Pence and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's Sentinels have whipped Davis, Hagerstown, Moorefield, Alumni, Martinsburg, LaSalle, Central, Bruce, Beall, Barton and Allegany in that order since the season opened and they've favored to beat Coach Ralph Poling's quint tonight. In marking up 11 wins, Fort Hill has piled up 580 points for an average of 52.7 while holding the opposition to 402, an average of 36.4.

Hartman Has 23.8 Mark

Sparked by Carl "Wink" Hartman who has accounted for 43.8 percent of his team's 576 points, Ridgeley goes into tonight's game with 7-4 record. Hartman has scored 262 points for an average of 23.8. In games with other Cumberland teams, Ridgeley lost to AHS 56-49 and beat LaSalle 50-41.

Jack Rice, Fort Hill player, who was injured in the LaSalle game is coming along nicely and may get to play before the season closes. The cast has been removed from Rice's wrist but he'll have to take things easy for awhile.

Piedmont At Bruce

Piedmont and Bruce, Tri-Towns rivals, are slated to clash tonight at 8 o'clock on the Westernport court. Piedmont has a 4-8 record while Bruce has three wins and eight losses.

Potomac State invades Ohio tonight to play Steubenville College while Howard High of Piedmont tests Kelly Miller's quint at Clarksburg, W. Va.

Midway in the third period the lead of Coach Bill Keegan's outfit skyrocketed to 17 points at 51-34 but was lowered to eleven at 58-47 as the teams started play in the final heat. Late in the game the Spas' advantage zoomed to 22 points at 77-55 and 79-57.

Cumberland hooped 32 of 77 shots from the field while Beaver Falls connected 29 times in 85 tries. At the charity line, the victors meshed 18 of 26 attempts to the Tommies' 10 out of 20.

The game's high individual scorer was Bob Pence who banged in 19 points on nine fielders and one free throw. He was ably supported by Paul Oberhaus who played his best game of the season and scored 16 points, and Ed Mathewson who garnered 14. Lou Bell also heaved in a couple of hair-raising shots for the locals. Dom McComb and Stan Navage were Beaver Falls' top scorers with 17 and 16 points. ## Foxx Would Like To See Somebody Beat Ruth's Mark

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—Old "Double X" who missed Babe Ruth's home run record by only two circuit swats in 1932 said today he thinks it would be good for baseball if somebody breaks the Babe's home run standard.

Old "Double X" is Jimmy Foxx, who hit the headlines again last week when he and Mel Ott of the New York Giants were voted into baseball's Hall of Fame.

"I think it would be a good thing if someone broke Ruth's record now," Foxx said.

"You hear fans talking about Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker and 90 per cent of them never saw those fellows play.

"I think it's always better for the fans if they know the players who make records. Then they have someone to go out and cheer for. You don't work up much enthusiasm over a page in a book."

Foxx, who's only 43 years old now, making him one of the youngest members of the Hall of Fame, is a salesman for a trucking company and lives with his wife and two children in Doylestown, which is not far from Philadelphia.

It was in Philadelphia, as a member of Connie Mack's great Athletics teams that Jimmy gained his fame. He won batting championships in 1933 and 1938, led American Leaguers in home runs in 1932, 1933 and 1939, was on five All Star teams and was the most valuable player in the league in 1932, 1933 and 1938.

It was in 1932 when Foxx hit 58 home runs, two shy of the mark of 60 set by Ruth in 1927.

Erie Stops Blues' Win Streak, 80-75

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 28 — Erie cracked the 10-game winning streak of the Wheeling Blues this afternoon in an All-American Professional Basketball League game here. The score was 80-75. It was Erie's 8th consecutive win on the home floor but the setback failed to pull the West Virginians out of first place.

Erie trailed at the half, 49-36, and pulled to within five points of the Blues at the end of the third quarter, 60-55. Coach Paul Birch's club tied it up at 65-65 and went ahead to stay on three goals by Fred Schwab. The latter, incidentally, led Erie in scoring with 21 points. Lennie Rhodes and Al McCullough had 16 each. Erie plays in Cumberland next Sunday afternoon.

Claire Doran Wins

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP) — Tall, graceful Claire Doran outshot the veteran Polly Riley, 3 and 2, in a tense golf duel today to win the Helen Lee Doherty Amateur Cup, her first major trophy in 10 years of tournament play.

The 27-year-old Cleveland school teacher never trailed through the 34-hole battle with the Fort Worth, Texas, ace and when they hit the last nine hole-lap, both tiring rapidly, Doran had the greatest staying power.

St. Joseph's Quint Beats LaSalle High

Martinsburg School Evens Series, 45-42

St. Joseph's High School squared its season series with LaSalle High School's basketball team by defeating the Explorers yesterday in Martinsburg, W. Va., by the score of 45 to 42.

Coach John Collins' quint dropped a 44-40 decision to Art Slocum's floormen in the opener of the series here.

The West Virginians pulled yesterday's game out of the fire in the final period after trailing 33-31 at the close of the third stanza. St. Joseph's led at the quarter, 11-5, and the score was tied at 19-19 at intermission.

Capt. "Bucky" McDonald who racked up 24 points in the series opener here, also sparked St. Joseph's in yesterday's game. The Martinsburg center garnered 21 markers on eight fielders and 5-7 fouls. Ray Petrucci was the runner-up with 13 points.

Paul Ackerman was LaSalle's best bet. He accounted for 20 points on nine field goals and two free throws.

Marty Mullaney and Don Farrell of LaSalle and McDonald of St. Joseph's were ejected on personal fouls.

Gehrmann Wins 36th, Richards Jumps 15 Feet

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—This is beginning to sound like a broken phonograph record — Don Gehrmann beat Fred Wilt in the mile run again.

This time it was in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden last night. About the best thing that can be said for Wilt's efforts is that he put forth his best and extended Gehrmann to a 4:07.5 effort, Don's best ever. It was Gehrmann's 36th straight mile victory.

The crowd of 14,000 in Madison Square Garden, performing its usual role of supporting the underdog, was for Wilt all the way, but despite its urging Fred couldn't open enough of a gap to fight off the famous Gehrmann finishing kick.

So the spectators contented themselves with cheering to the rafters for Bob Richards, the parson from La Verne, Calif., who likes the rarified air of the upper stratosphere. The demon deacon soared 15 feet 1 inch to become the second man in history to clear 15 feet in the pole vault.

Cornelius Warmerdam, who turned the trick 43 times, is the only other 15-footer. Corny, now retired, also holds the world's mark of 15 feet 8½ inches, so 24-year-old Bob has a long way to go.

Beaulieu's 253 Sets K. Of C. Loop Record

The Grand Knights went into a first place tie with the Recorders in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League by sweeping three games from the Guards yesterday on the Club Recreation alleys.

Recorders scored a 2-1 victory over the Chancellors.

Art Beaulieu of the Recorders hung up a new single game record for the league when he posted a 253. His three game total was 531.

Other high scorers were:

Tom McGeady, Chancellors, 174-443; "Pie' Conley, Grand Knights, 182-488, and "Ike" Law, Guards, 182-479. The standings:

Steelers Forfeit Three In LaSalle Dux League

The pace-setting Steelers lost three games via the forfeit route to the Eagles in the LaSalle Bowling League yesterday when they were unable to field a team due to sickness and two players participating in a basketball game.

Tommy Kolb led the Eagles with 144-392 while Jack Vocke topped the losers with 179-489.

In the other match, the Bears walked over the Redskins, 2 to 1. Georgie Geatz posted a 153-404 to pace the Bears while Jack Stegmaier was high man for the 'Skins with 162-400. Standings:

| Steelers | 8 | 4 | .667 |

California Is Winner, 69-67; Seven In Line For NCAA Cage Tests

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Seven teams—Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Indiana, Columbia, North Carolina State, Arizona and Brigham Young—look like sure-fire bets for the NCAA basketball tournament.

One of the two remaining spotless records in college basketball was fractured last night when California broke Long Island University's 16-game winning streak, 69-67, at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

This left the Ivy League's Columbia with the only perfect mark among major quintets—12 in a row this year and 21 straight over a two-year period. The Lions don't put this string on the line again until Feb. 6 when they play Harvard.

Now that practically all the cage powers have lost at least once—and, in some case, two or three times—interest has veered from the individual team records to the big question: Who's going to make the tournaments?

Seven Top Contenders

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has decided this year to give stock bids to the champions of ten major conferences and to pick six other teams 'at random.

Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Columbia, N. C. State, Indiana, Arizona and Brigham Young have taken a whip hand in their respective leagues and can almost start making traveling plans for the sectional NCAA playoffs.

The other three conferences haven't jelled to the point that their champions look certain but certainly inside tracks belong to Kansas State in the Big Seven, Texas in the Southwest and Southern California or Washington State in the Pacific Coast.

Top-ranking Kentucky and third-placed Oklahoma A & M struck the most effective blows during the past week in behalf of tournament berths.

The Wildcats from Lexington, Ky., smashed Vanderbilt, the only other unbeaten team in the Southeastern Conference, 74-49.

Oklahoma's Aggies downed Bradley, their keenest Missouri Valley rival, 49-48, Friday at Peoria, Ill. They whipped strong DePaul last night, 73-57. Unbeaten in the league, the Aggies have return games with Bradley and St. Louis but they look equal to the task.

The Conference Leaders

Here's how the other conferences line up:

Eastern (Ivy)—Columbia with a 5-0 league record is cleanly dominating play. Main threats are Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Southern—N. C. State has a 10-0 league mark, beating Virginia Tech, 114-66, and North Carolina, 71-58, during the week.

Big Ten—Indiana (6-0) only unbeaten member and already winner over Illinois, figured strongest challenger. Beat Minnesota last night, 32-26.

Skyline Six—Brigham Young has an almost insurmountable lead with a 7-2 mark. All others have lost at least four games.

Border—Arizona has won six, lost none in the league and the others not close. Beat San Jose last night, 62-55.

Big Seven—Kansas State is the leader with four victories and no defeats but Kansas is close at 4-1 with a game coming up Feb. 24. The K-Staters beat Colorado last night, 63-42.

Southwest — Texas (4-0) setting the pace but Texas Christian (3-1) and Texas A & M (3-1) ready to step in if the Longhorns falter.

Pacific Coast—Southern California (3-1) and Washington State (4-2) divisional leaders but look out for Washington and UCLA.

In the NCAA tournament eight teams will compete in the western regionals March 21-24. The eastern regionals will be divided into two meets with four teams scrambling at Madison Square Garden March 20, 22, 24, and four at Raleigh, N. C., March 20.

The college nabobs will have plenty of talent from which to pick the six "floater" teams, which can come from conferences as well as independents.

Some of the season's standouts that come readily to mind include St. John's of Brooklyn, Villanova, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Evansville, Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Hamline, St. Bonaventure, Stanford, Oklahoma, Illinois, Wisconsin and Seattle. LIU is not a member and is ineligible.

Faces More Trouble

The defeat of LIU, second ranked nationally, by nine-times-beaten California last night furnished the largest damage to the sport's top ten, as picked weekly in the Associated Press poll.

The Golden Bears, led by Billy Hagler's 17 points, piled up a 38-28 lead early in the second half and hung on. The Blackbirds pulled within a point, 64-63, in the fading minutes but could get no closer.

LIU faces possible further defeats on the return trip home, meeting Arizona tomorrow night, Kansas State Wednesday and St. Louis Saturday.

Other top teams—except fourth-ranked Bradley which lost to the Oklahoma Aggies Friday — came through the week without a scar.

Lew Captures $2,000, Edges Lawson Little

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28 (AP) — Lew Worsham, who hadn't won an important golf title since 1947, the year he was U. S. Open Champion, today captured the $10,000 Phoenix Open title with a 272 for the 72 holes.

The winner calmly sank an eight-foot putt on the final hole for a one-under par 70 today and a single stroke edge over Lawson Little, former amateur and professional champion.

Little lost his chance to tie for the title when he missed a four-footer on the 18th green to post a 68 for a 273 total.

Barely Clings To Lead

The 33-year-old Worsham, started as strong today as yesterday when he set a new competitive course record of 63 for the 6,698-yard, par 35-36—71 Phoenix Country Club course. But he faded after the first eight holes and barely clung to the lead.

On hand to watch the finish was Ben Hogan, the golfer of the year for 1950, who had started his first competition of 1941 here, but was forced out by intestinal flu after leading the field with a 65 in the first round.

Worsham's 63 had given him a two-stroke lead at the start of today's play.

Winner Gets $2,000

Sunny weather and temperatures in the mid 70's helped the 60 survivors of a field of 125 as they played for a $2.000 first prize.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., tied for third with 274, and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., was fifth with 275.

Lloyd Mangrum, troubled by a pulled muscle in his back, sagged from the second place he had yesterday and fired a 73 for a 277 total. With him was Johnny Bulla, who calls Phoenix his home in the winter.

Jimmy Demaret, who sought his third straight Phoenix Open victory, wound up down the list with a 281.

Down the line came Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, Carey Middlecoff, winner of last week's open at Long Beach, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., the three each had 278.

Tucson Is Next Stop

Ellsworth Vines, great tennis and golf player, making one of his few tournament appearances, wound up at 279 with Ed Furgol, Jimmy Hines and a pair of young Texas professionals, Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas and Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston. Then came Demaret.

Low amateur prize went to Jack Coyle of Springfield, Ill., who fired a 289.

Next stop on the winter tournament will be at Tucson, Ariz., on Thursday for the start of a four-day affair.

WINS TOURNEY — Lew Worsham, winner of the National Open in 1947, came back into the golf picture yesterday when he took first place and prize money of $2,000 in the Phoenix Open. He posted a 272 for the 72 holes, nosing out Lawson Little by a single stroke.

Riot Marks Cage Battle In Virginia

Punches Are Thrown At VPI-W. & L. Game

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 28 (AP)—Virginia Tech basketball coach Flake (Red) Laird said today the Southern Conference should act to prevent such incidents as the "riot" which interrupted Tech's game with Washington and Lee at Lexington last night.

"Wallace Wade (conference commissioner) ought to take steps to get school to curb crowds at basketball games," Laird said. "I'm going to make a full report to our authorities."

Laird still was visibly peeved over last night's incident. With 31 seconds left in the game, Chuck Grove, a W & L reserve, raced onto the floor and hit Tech's center Sumner (Tex) Tilson during a timeout period.

People began piling out of the stands. Punches were thrown. Laird said one of his players, forward Gene Jones, had been "stomped and knocked senseless."

Laird and W & L Coach Scott Hamilton agreed tempers had been edgy before the fight. Minutes before, Laird had protested to the officials that Tilson twice had been deliberately fouled by W & L's Jay Handlan. He wanted to know why the officials — Winston Milan of Lynchburg, Va., and Walter Schuman of Waynesboro, Va.—had not awarded Tilson two shots each time.

Laird was roundly booed. Presently, Tilson elbowed Handlan. Handlan fell to the floor. W & L took time out. Grove, Handlan's roommate, hit Tilson.

"Everytime I saw somebody in a red uniform being attacked by two people," Laird said, "I pulled one of the two off. I wanted to make it a fair fight.

"You can't protest a basketball game. But when we returned to the floor, I told the official scorer we were finishing under protest."

Laird said he didn't believe the incident would endanger relations between the two schools.

"I don't think the game officials could have prevented the riot. I do think that somebody from Washington and Lee should have spoken to the crowd early in the game. We're used to howling mobs.

"We're used to being called hayseeds . . . but a bunch of red-blooded boys is bound to react to being called the names we were called.

"Everything seemed to happen at once. Grove hit Tilson and some of our kids jumped Grove. But I don't hold Grove responsible . . . He was 'agitated' by a Washington and Lee football player . . ."

Hamilton agreed there had been "agitators" in the crowd. He described the incident as "one of those unfortunate things."

Washington and Lee won the game, 61-58.

Piedmont Will Visit Bruce, Potomac State, Howard To Hit Road

Fort Hill High School's undefeated basketball team will be shooting for its 12th victory of the season tonight when it meets Ridgeley High's Blackhawks in the opening game of their annual series on the Fort Hill court at 8 o'clock.

Bob Pence and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's Sentinels have whipped Davis, Hagerstown, Moorefield, Alumni, Martinsburg, LaSalle, Central, Bruce, Beall, Barton and Allegany in that order since the season opened and they've favored to beat Coach Ralph Poling's quint tonight. In marking up 11 wins, Fort Hill has piled up 580 points for an average of 52.7 while holding the opposition to 402, an average of 36.4.

Hartman Has 23.8 Mark

Sparked by Carl "Wink" Hartman who has accounted for 43.8 percent of his team's 576 points, Ridgeley goes into tonight's game with 7-4 record. Hartman has scored 262 points for an average of 23.8. In games with other Cumberland teams, Ridgeley lost to AHS 56-49 and beat LaSalle 50-41.

Jack Rice, Fort Hill player, who was injured in the LaSalle game is coming along nicely and may get to play before the season closes. The cast has been removed from Rice's wrist but he'll have to take things easy for awhile.

Piedmont At Bruce

Piedmont and Bruce, Tri-Towns rivals, are slated to clash tonight at 8 o'clock on the Westernport court. Piedmont has a 4-8 record while Bruce has three wins and eight losses.

Potomac State invades Ohio tonight to play Steubenville College while Howard High of Piedmont tests Kelly Miller's quint at Clarksburg, W. Va.

MR. FARMER! You want the highest prices obtainable at your sale. You may employ the best auctioneer, but he cannot coax competitive bids from an empty barnlot, you must have a CROWD. ### In Memoriam

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ida B. Twigg, who passed away 4 years ago, January 29, 1947.

Mother of mine, our God has called
Your spirit out of Night,
To take you from Life's darkness to
The Everlasting Light.
And weeping at your mortal grave,
Your child shall still rejoice,
Knowing you have but answered:
"Here!"
Who heard His Heavenly Voice.

The children
Thurman, Kermit, Phyllis
Mrs. Ervin Shrout

Leonard Family Lost Everything In Fire

Mrs. Harry Leonard, whose Baltimore Pike residence and personal possessions were destroyed by fire January 19, said last week that the family had no insurance on their furniture. Newspaper accounts of the fire stated the furniture was insured.

Mrs. Leonard, whose husband was injured in the fire, said the newspaper statement has made it difficult for the family to obtain assistance from local relief agencies, friends and neighbors, and they are having difficulty getting furnishings for a new home.

She further explained that she and her husband did have fire insurance on their furniture, but the policy had been permitted to lapse when her husband was ill and unable to work last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are now residing temporarily at 219 Park Street. She is working as a nurses aide at Allegany Hospital and he has employment at the Baltmiore and Ohio Railroad as a yard fireman.

The first historical society in the United States was formed by Massachusetts.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jean E. Grimes vs. James J. Grimes, No. 22,016 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married on 27th day of March 1945, in Winchester, Virginia, and the defendant deserted your oratrix on the 10th day of June 1947, and that the desertion was deliberate and that the abandonment has continued and uninterrupted since that date and is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of any reconciliation and that the defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and that his last known address was Roswell, New Mexico.

It is thereupon ordered upon this 6th day of January 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of February 1951, give notice to the said non resident defendant, the object of this suit, warning him to appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of February 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should the "boss" talk to employees?

Answer: Yes, say the business psychologists, pointing out the fact that one major source of industrial dissatisfaction is the worker's sense of being treated like a machine rather than a human being. But the wise employer will want to be personally acquainted with his workers for his own sake as well, since production even in the best organized business depends on morale and a business head cannot maintain morale among his workers if he does not understand their feelings about their work and the people they work for

May a man "mother" his wife?

Answer: Psychologically, yes. A baby boy's first impression of a powerful and important person is the mother upon whom as the provider of both food and care his life depends. Much as he loves her, he is still painfully conscious of the helplessness which his dependence upon her involves, and as he gets older, he unconsciously resolves to make up for this by reversing the situation and himself becoming the provider for his wife and later for his children. Feeling that he now has the power and importance which his mother once had unconsciously helps to make a normal man enjoy being the breadwinner.

Is mental rehabilitation the psychiatrists' job?

Answer: No, writes Dr. Temple Burling, in the American Journal of Orthopsychiatry. To restore a mentally-ill patient to his fullest usefulness to the community requires the cooperation of all those who have been associated with his cure. This means not only the psychiatrists but the members of the hospital staff, the social workers and the members of the patient's family. For this reason, it is especially important that the mental hospital shall become more fully part of the community to which its real function is to restore temporarily disabled men and women.

Courses On 30-Hour Week

Courses at the Allegany Trade School all are operated on a 30-hour week. They extend for as short a period as 44 weeks, for bricklaying, to 132 weeks for the machine shop course.

Shannon issued a reminder to young men of the area yesterday that there are or soon will be vacancies in practically all courses conducted by the school. Those interested are advised to call at the school.

Under present law, the deadline for commencing training under the GI Bill is July 25, 1951.

Students at Allegany Trade School sometimes show public spirit by cooperating on charity jobs. For instance, when the hurricane-like wind last Sunday blew the roof off a house of Mrs. Elizabeth Klitsch, 513 Furnace Street, student carpenters, bricklayers and electricians pitched in and put the roof back on the house, Shannon said.

About 300,000 American are engaged in the retail selling of shoes.

ard Time—9 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.)

It was described as resembling two great thunderclaps.

Hundreds of witnesses saw a tremendous white flash in the sky, followed closely by another flash, orange in color and not as bright.

The blast presumably took place well within the huge testing range, which is about 40 miles from Las Vegas.

Two previous tests had taken place, one on Wednesday night and another early Saturday. Those two seemed to be build-ups for the Sunday punch.

It aroused nearly everybody around here.

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU KNOW IT WILL WORK

YOU HAVE such an exact count of an opponent's hand sometimes that you know a certain play is sure to work. That applies to the type of throw-in whereby success depends on his inability to return the only suit which could prevent your ruffing in one hand while discarding a loser from the other. Such a procedure is not available very frequently, but when it is the successful result gives you a lot of satisfaction.

South wound up extremely glad his partner had made the final bid of 5-Hearts instead of doubling the 4-Spades sacrifice effort, which could have been beaten only four tricks if the side scored two trump tricks, two tricks each in the minors and a diamond ruff. That would have been worth 700 points, whereas the doubled 5-Hearts had a true value of about 150 more.

West led the diamond 3 to the A, whereupon South counted up. On East's bidding of diamonds before spades, he located nine cards in those suits. The heart A-Q would surely be in East's hand for the double. That left only two clubs. So he saw that, after two club rounds, East could be compelled to return a spade or diamond after those suits were eliminated from both of South's holdings.

Preparing for this, South on the second trick led to the club A, discarded the spade 5 on the diamond K, finessed the spade Q successfully, stripped spades with the A, led to the club K, eliminated the final diamond by ruffing the 8 with the heart 3, and was ready for the killer.

The heart J was led and allowed to go through to the Q. East was helpless. He could score the heart A, but then had nothing left but spades and diamonds. He chose the spade K, which South ruffed in dummy while discarding his last club, the 6. This of course left only hearts in the South hand.

Williams And Pep In Bouts This Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams and Willie Pep, the former featherweight king, engage in tuneup fights this week in preparation for soon due title contests.

Williams, who probably will defend his crown against Art Aragon in March, faces Vic Cardell, a fast-rising young welterweight from Hartford, in a non-title ten in Detroit Wednesday night. This bout will be broadcast and telecast by C.B.S.

Pep, who meets featherweight champion Sandy Saddler Feb. 23 in the fourth bout of a sizzling series, takes on Tommy Baker in a ten at Hartford Tuesday night. It will be Willie's first outing since he dislocated his left shoulder and lost to Saddler in Yankee Stadium last September.

The Friday night radio-TV show features two punching middleweights, Harold Green of Brooklyn, and Ernie (The Rock) Durando of Bayonne, N. J., in the main ten at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. The bout will be broadcast by A.B.C. and telecast by N.B.C.

Rau Revises His Plan For Conference

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 28 (AP) — India's Sir Benegal N. Rau spent today putting the finishing touches to a new version of his plan for a "peace conference" with Communist China.

The Indians feel such a conference holds the only hope for peace in Korea and the Far East.

A spokesman said this week's draft would include a paragraph stating clearly that the first order of business at the proposed conference—at which the United States, Russia, Communist China, France, Britain, India and Egypt would be represented—should be to arrange a Korean cease-fire.

This is in line with a suggestion made Friday by Canada's Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson in an attempt to find a compromise between the Indian view and the American demand to brand Red China an aggressor.

West Allies Shift Lines Of Supply

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Western Allies have decided their main supply ports of Hamburg and Bremen are too close to the Russians for safety.

Therefore, a new supply line through France is being created to feed the growing forces that will make up Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic pact bastion against aggression from the east.

U. S. authorities disclosed the change in strategy today. The move was decided upon at a conference held in Fontainbleau, attended by military experts of the U. S., Britain, France and the Benelux countries.

Since the war, the British army of the Rhine occupying Northwest Germany has supplied itself through the port of Hamburg. The U. S. occupation troops have depended on the port of Bremen.

The new plan calls for the British to be fed on overland routes from Antwerp and the Americans by rail and road from the French port of Bordeaux.

Tanker Breaks; Crewmen Saved

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Panamaniam tanker Janko broke in two in heavy seas off the Spanish coast today but all aboard were rescued, Radio Marine Corp. here reported.

The scene of the wreck was off Cape Finisterre light house, at the northwest corner of the Iberian Peninsula, in the Atlantic Ocean.

The report did not say how many men were aboard the 9,720-ton tanker. An earlier message said 23 had been saved by two of at least four other vessels standing by.

The U. S. Coast Guard in New York, on the basis of messages relayed by British radio stations, said the first distress call went out about 11:30 p. m. (EST) Saturday.

The Coast Guard said messages received this morning reported that 11 men had been removed from the Janko's stern part.

Others who had leaped overboard from the fore section were being picked up from the sea by lifeboats, the Coast Guard said.

The Janko, built in 1928, is a twin-screwtanker owned by the Pankos Operating Co.

Scholars Condemn Oust-Acheson Moves

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Republican moves to oust Secretary of State Dean Acheson were termed a "disturbing danger" in a statement released today by 875 American social scientists.

The scholars, from 77 colleges and institutions in 30 states, urged "firm support" of Acheson "in spite of the position recently taken by the Republican majority in Congress."

The statement was released on behalf of the other signers by an informal committee composed of Harry D. Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College; Allen Nevins, history professor at Columbia University; Dean Paul Appleby of Syracuse University, and Dean Edward S. Mason of Harvard University.

Leonard Family Lost Everything In Fire

Mrs. Harry Leonard, whose Baltimore Pike residence and personal possessions were destroyed by fire January 19, said last week that the family had no insurance on their furniture. Newspaper accounts of the fire stated the furniture was insured.

Mrs. Leonard, whose husband was injured in the fire, said the newspaper statement has made it difficult for the family to obtain assistance from local relief agencies, friends and neighbors, and they are having difficulty getting furnishings for a new home.

She further explained that she and her husband did have fire insurance on their furniture, but the policy had been permitted to lapse when her husband was ill and unable to work last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are now residing temporarily at 219 Park Street. She is working as a nurses aide at Allegany Hospital and he has employment at the Baltmiore and Ohio Railroad as a yard fireman.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jean E. Grimes vs. James J. Grimes, No. 22,016 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married on 27th day of March 1945, in Winchester, Virginia, and the defendant deserted your oratrix on the 10th day of June 1947, and that the desertion was deliberate and that the abandonment has continued and uninterrupted since that date and is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of any reconciliation and that the defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and that his last known address was Roswell, New Mexico.

It is thereupon ordered upon this 6th day of January 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of February 1951, give notice to the said non resident defendant, the object of this suit, warning him to appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of February 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should the "boss" talk to employees?

Answer: Yes, say the business psychologists, pointing out the fact that one major source of industrial dissatisfaction is the worker's sense of being treated like a machine rather than a human being. But the wise employer will want to be personally acquainted with his workers for his own sake as well, since production even in the best organized business depends on morale and a business head cannot maintain morale among his workers if he does not understand their feelings about their work and the people they work for.

May a man "mother" his wife?

Answer: Psychologically, yes. A baby boy's first impression of a powerful and important person is the mother upon whom as the provider of both food and care his life depends. Much as he loves her, he is still painfully conscious of the helplessness which his dependence upon her involves, and as he gets older, he unconsciously resolves to make up for this by reversing the situation and himself becoming the provider for his wife and later for his children. Feeling that he now has the power and importance which his mother once had unconsciously helps to make a normal man enjoy being the breadwinner.

Is mental rehabilitation the psychiatrists' job?

Answer: No, writes Dr. Temple Burling, in the American Journal of Orthopsychiatry. To restore a mentally-ill patient to his fullest usefulness to the community requires the cooperation of all those who have been associated with his cure. This means not only the psychiatrists but the members of the hospital staff, the social workers and the members of the patient's family. For this reason, it is especially important that the mental hospital shall become more fully part of the community to which its real function is to restore temporarily disabled men and women.

Courses On 30-Hour Week

Courses at the Allegany Trade School all are operated on a 30-hour week. They extend for as short a period as 44 weeks, for bricklaying, to 132 weeks for the machine shop course.

Shannon issued a reminder to young men of the area yesterday that there are or soon will be vacancies in practically all courses conducted by the school. Those interested are advised to call at the school.

Under present law, the deadline for commencing training under the GI Bill is July 25, 1951.

Students at Allegany Trade School sometimes show public spirit by cooperating on charity jobs. For instance, when the hurricane-like wind last Sunday blew the roof off a house of Mrs. Elizabeth Klitsch, 513 Furnace Street, student carpenters, bricklayers and electricians pitched in and put the roof back on the house, Shannon said.

It was described as resembling two great thunderclaps.

Hundreds of witnesses saw a tremendous white flash in the sky, followed closely by another flash, orange in color and not as bright.

The blast presumably took place well within the huge testing range, which is about 40 miles from Las Vegas.

Two previous tests had taken place, one on Wednesday night and another early Saturday. Those two seemed to be build-ups for the Sunday punch.

It aroused nearly everybody around here.

YOU KNOW IT WILL WORK

YOU HAVE such an exact count of an opponent's hand sometimes that you know a certain play is sure to work. That applies to the type of throw-in whereby success depends on his inability to return the only suit which could prevent your ruffing in one hand while discarding a loser from the other. Such a procedure is not available very frequently, but when it is the successful result gives you a lot of satisfaction.

South wound up extremely glad his partner had made the final bid of 5-Hearts instead of doubling the 4-Spades sacrifice effort, which could have been beaten only four tricks if the side scored two trump tricks, two tricks each in the minors and a diamond ruff. That would have been worth 700 points, whereas the doubled 5-Hearts had a true value of about 150 more.

West led the diamond 3 to the A, whereupon South counted up. On East's bidding of diamonds before spades, he located nine cards in those suits. The heart A-Q would surely be in East's hand for the double. That left only two clubs. So he saw that, after two club rounds, East could be compelled to return a spade or diamond after those suits were eliminated from both of South's holdings.

Preparing for this, South on the second trick led to the club A, discarded the spade 5 on the diamond K, finessed the spade Q successfully, stripped spades with the A, led to the club K, eliminated the final diamond by ruffing the 8 with the heart 3, and was ready for the killer.

The heart J was led and allowed to go through to the Q. East was helpless. He could score the heart A, but then had nothing left but spades and diamonds. He chose the spade K, which South ruffed in dummy while discarding his last club, the 6. This of course left only hearts in the South hand.

Williams And Pep In Bouts This Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams and Willie Pep, the former featherweight king, engage in tuneup fights this week in preparation for soon due title contests.

Williams, who probably will defend his crown against Art Aragon in March, faces Vic Cardell, a fast-rising young welterweight from Hartford, in a non-title ten in Detroit Wednesday night. This bout will be broadcast and telecast by C.B.S.

Pep, who meets featherweight champion Sandy Saddler Feb. 23 in the fourth bout of a sizzling series, takes on Tommy Baker in a ten at Hartford Tuesday night. It will be Willie's first outing since he dislocated his left shoulder and lost to Saddler in Yankee Stadium last September.

The Friday night radio-TV show features two punching middleweights, Harold Green of Brooklyn, and Ernie (The Rock) Durando of Bayonne, N. J., in the main ten at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. The bout will be broadcast by A.B.C. and telecast by N.B.C.

Rau Revises His Plan For Conference

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 28 (AP) — India's Sir Benegal N. Rau spent today putting the finishing touches to a new version of his plan for a "peace conference" with Communist China.

The Indians feel such a conference holds the only hope for peace in Korea and the Far East.

A spokesman said this week's draft would include a paragraph stating clearly that the first order of business at the proposed conference—at which the United States, Russia, Communist China, France, Britain, India and Egypt would be represented—should be to arrange a Korean cease-fire.

This is in line with a suggestion made Friday by Canada's Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson in an attempt to find a compromise between the Indian view and the American demand to brand Red China an aggressor.

West Allies Shift Lines Of Supply

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Western Allies have decided their main supply ports of Hamburg and Bremen are too close to the Russians for safety.

Therefore, a new supply line through France is being created to feed the growing forces that will make up Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic pact bastion against aggression from the east.

U. S. authorities disclosed the change in strategy today. The move was decided upon at a conference held in Fontainbleau, attended by military experts of the U. S., Britain, France and the Benelux countries.

Since the war, the British army of the Rhine occupying Northwest Germany has supplied itself through the port of Hamburg. The U. S. occupation troops have depended on the port of Bremen.

The new plan calls for the British to be fed on overland routes from Antwerp and the Americans by rail and road from the French port of Bordeaux.

Tanker Breaks; Crewmen Saved

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Panamaniam tanker Janko broke in two in heavy seas off the Spanish coast today but all aboard were rescued, Radio Marine Corp. here reported.

The scene of the wreck was off Cape Finisterre light house, at the northwest corner of the Iberian Peninsula, in the Atlantic Ocean.

The report did not say how many men were aboard the 9,720-ton tanker. An earlier message said 23 had been saved by two of at least four other vessels standing by.

The U. S. Coast Guard in New York, on the basis of messages relayed by British radio stations, said the first distress call went out about 11:30 p. m. (EST) Saturday.

The Coast Guard said messages received this morning reported that 11 men had been removed from the Janko's stern part.

Others who had leaped overboard from the fore section were being picked up from the sea by lifeboats, the Coast Guard said.

Scholars Condemn Oust-Acheson Moves

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Republican moves to oust Secretary of State Dean Acheson were termed a "disturbing danger" in a statement released today by 875 American social scientists.

The scholars, from 77 colleges and institutions in 30 states, urged "firm support" of Acheson "in spite of the position recently taken by the Republican majority in Congress."

The statement was released on behalf of the other signers by an informal committee composed of Harry D. Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College; Allen Nevins, history professor at Columbia University; Dean Paul Appleby of Syracuse University, and Dean Edward S. Mason of Harvard University.

Baltimore Transit Workers Vote On Offer

BALTIMORE, Jan. 28 (AP)—Streetcar and bus operators begin voting tomorrow on the Baltimore Transit Company's offer of a wage increase to avert a strike which would paralyze the city's transportation system.

The strike has been scheduled for 4 a. m. Thursday by the AFL Amalgamated Association of Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, Division 1300.

Tavern Robbed, Juvenile Court Room Ransacked

Thief Cuts Holes In Doors To Enter

A bold robber, thought to be the one who has broken into a number of clubs in this city in recent weeks, robbed a local tavern and the Juvenile Court offices over the weekend.

An undetermined sum of money was secured by the man at Carolan's Tavern, 245 North Centre Street.

A complete ransacking of the court rooms at the Union Street county building failed to yield any monetary loot.

Police said the pattern of both entries was the same as that used in a number of recent robberies and theorized that the same thief was responsible for both of the forced entries discovered yesterday morning.

Police said the man cut a hole in the rear door of the tavern and escaped with an undetermined sum of money.

Authorities said last night they do not know the exact amount of loot at present.

The bold entry of the Juvenile Court rooms was discovered yesterday morning by a janitor. Police said entry was gained by cutting a hole in the front door of the courtroom suite.

Although the office was completely ransacked, there was no immediate evidence that anything was taken, police observed.

Police are still on the track of the man who broke into the American Legion Home, the 40 and 8 Club and the Moose Home in recent weeks.

Show Record Year In Relief Work

The Salvation Army, operating from the Citadel on North Mechanic Street, and the Outpost on Virginia Avenue, provided emergency relief and other assistance to 716 area families in 1950, according to the annual report just completed by Major Elmer Wall.

Of the total families aided, there were 3,156 persons assisted, including 1,762 children and 1,394 adults, the report shows.

The breakdown on types of assistance follows: Family grocery orders filled, 852; grocery orders filled at office, 381; used garments distributed, 7,673; second hand shoes distributed, 779 pairs; articles of furniture provided, 154; families given rental assistance, three; persons getting medical aid, 12; fuel orders, seven; new garments and new shoes, 65 to 14 families.

The Army also certified several hundred needy families for surplus food commodity distribution.

Transients Are Aided

A total of 1,243 transient cases were provided with meals and 817 with lodging during the year.

The total amount of cash spent for relief for family and transient cases was $10,361.16 and the value of clothing, other food, shoes, and furniture distributed is conservatively calculated at $10,000.

At Christmas, the Army spent over $3,000 for Christmas baskets and Christmas relief. Over 3,000 toys were distributed to over 850 children and 487 families were assisted at Christmas including 2,296 individuals.

Cites Service Clubs

Major Wall mentions Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Christmas Committee for his efforts toward the success of the Salvation Army's Yuletide program, and thanks the service clubs for their kettle drive.

During the year, the Salvation Army conducted 292 character building meetings with an attendance of over 4,000. In recreational classes held, 3,500 boys and girls attended 76 meetings.

Average attendance at Sunday School was 184 and the number of religious meetings held totaled 434, including both places. Open air meetings numbered 160.

Nearly 1,000 hours were spent in visiting hospitals, jails and other institutions to assist the unfortunate and the ill.

Salvation Army Board Meets Today

Bowmans Addition Fire Loss Last Year Was Only $3,650

Fire losses in Bowmans Addition last year totaled $3,650 and 22 alarms were sounded, according to Fire Chief Leo C. Emerick, of Bowmans Addition Volunteer Fire Company.

Chief Emerick explains that there were 10 grass fires, six in dwellings, two automobile fires, one in a bull dozer, one false alarm and two calls to assist other communities.

A total of 206 men responded to the 22 calls with an average of nine men per run.

The record is one of the best in the community and Chief Emerick says inspections of property and education of residents to eliminate fire hazards will help prevent greater fire loss. The quick response of members of the company in answering alarms has also been a contributing factor toward keeping losses low, he commented.

Celanese Union To Open Run-Off Election Today

Aldridge-Snyder Seek Presidency

A run-off election to name top officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will open today at the Celanese plant and at the union hall.

Candidates are Playford Aldridge and Earl L. Snyder, for president; John M. Fatkin and William E. Meagher, vice president; Melvin Harris and John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer and business manager, and Charles F. Davis and John L. Estes, recording secretary.

Candidates for four Executive Board posts are Ishmiel Adams, William J. Atkinson, Robert Baker, Lillian Burch, Lindley Dye, Richard Jenkins, John G. Kreitzburg and Ira McBride.

Other candidates were elected last week as some 2,266 of the some 4,500 eligible voters took part in the election, one of the most hotly contested in a number of years.

The run-off voting will take place today, Tuesday and Wednesday on the same schedule as was used last week and will be under the auspices of the Honest Ballot Association.

A run-off vote is usually necessary in Celanese union elections since a candidate must secure 51 per cent of the votes cast to be elected.

The unusually large number of strong contenders for the top posts made a run-off almost a certainty.

The election was also unusual in that the local banned the use of slates.

Shannon Resigns Position At Allegany Trade School

A change in directors of the Allegany Trade School will take place Thursday, according to Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education in the Allegany county school system.

Thomas F. Shannon, 429 North Centre Street, a Cumberland native, who has directed the GI training school since the spring of 1947, is leaving February 1 to take a new position with the Machine and Tool Design Company, a Baltimore consulting engineering firm. His first job with that concern will be with the Lockheed Aircraft Company in Burbank, Calif.

A. A. Hubler, who has been mathematics and related information instructor at the Allegany Trade School, will take over as acting director next Thursday, Lonnholm announced yesterday.

Three Schools Involved

The center of the Allegany Trade School is the one-story building at the corner of Paca Street and Walnut Place, just behind West Side Fire Station. There auto mechanics, machine shop and machine and tool design are taught to some 80 students, all young World War II veterans whose education is being paid for by the Veterans Administration.

However, schools in three other Cumberland buildings also come under the direction of the same man. One of these is located in the Footer Building on South Mechanic Street, where basic auto mechanics, carpentry and bricklaying are taught to a total of 80 students.

Then, in the old Maryland Avenue School building, radio and electronics and electricity are taught to another 40 students. Finally the Allegany Trade School direction also extends to the evening cabinet making course which 25 Negro adults are taking at Carver High School on Frederick Street.

So, actually, the total student body operating under the Allegany Trade School direction includes some 225 young men.

Allegany Trade School was started in 1946 when it was realized that no private school was available for the training of veterans here under the GI Bill of Rights. So the school was organized by the Allegany County Board of Education in March, 1946, in the Paca Street building, erected in the mid-1930's by the National Youth Administration. Paul Alexander was the first director.

All of the students are sponsored

Street Cleaning Job Slated When Weather Breaks

Sweeper Schedule Will Be Announced

The City Street Department will begin its biggest street cleaning job in years as soon as the weather breaks.

Frequent cinderings and the mud resulting from construction projects within the city will necessitate a great deal of work on the part of street department work crews.

The job is neither practical nor possible as long as winter weather conditions exist, officials said.

The task will be a big one since the hundreds of truckloads of cinders scattered on snowy and icy streets must be removed.

Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent, said such heavy dirt, some of it now imbedded in ice, will have to be swept and shoveled to the curbs, where crews can load it into trucks.

Included in the debris of winter is an unusually heavy amount of mud scattered on the streets from construction jobs, such as the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood contro project.

Coal trucks, Corrigan said, have also been adding to the condition as mud which froze to the vehicles at the mines dropped off in the city, where temperatures are generally higher.

Only after the heavy deposits of dirt and cinders are removed from the streets can the motorized street sweepers operate, he said.

The sweepers, he added, cannot be operated in freezing weather, since water used in the machine would mix with the dust from the streets to form a freezing mixture.

To Follow Schedule

When the danger of ice and snow allows the removal of the winter's accumulation of dirt, a regular schedule will be worked out for the operation of motor sweepers.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property, said the Cumberland Police Department will be asked to cooperate in the sweeping program.

The public will be kept informed of the schedule for the street sweeper, she said, so that cars can be kept off the streets on which the sweeper is to operate.

Man Hurt Near City With Blackjack

City police yesterday investigated the injury of a man who was reported blackjacked near here early yesterday morning.

Lt. James E. Van, called to Memorial Hospital about 4 a. m. yesterday, found a man identified as William Shumaker, 322 Henderson Avenue, suffering from a laceration on the head he said was inflicted by a blackjack.

The man, Lt. Van said, would not reveal how he was injured and declined to name the place, except to say the injury occurred out of the city limits.

The injured man was released after the cut was sutured.

Both State Police and the Sheriff's Office said they had no report of the incident.

Weather

Although the temperature stayed well above freezing yesterday in this area the weather bureau predicts a cold front sweeping down from Canada. Today's forecast calls for cloudy and colder with rain or snow. Yesterday's high at Constitution Park station was 36 and the low 34. There was .54 inches of rainfall during the twenty four hour period.

Miners Seek Discharge Of State Police

Illegal Arrest Is Charged In Probe

BULLETIN

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Col. Carey Jarman, State Police superintendent, said tonight he had no specific information on the assertion by three Western Maryland coal miners they were held for 36 hours by State Police without warrants.

Clarence Lippell, Cumberland attorney, said yesterday he had written Jarman and Governor McKeldin about the matter and asked them to discharge the three troopers.

McKeldin said at Annapolis tonight he had not heard of the case but "if it is brought to my attention, I shall ask for an immediate report from Col. Jarman."

Three Allegany County coal miners over the weekend called for the immediate discharge of area members of the Maryland State Police who, they said, illegally took into custody and detained them in connection with a probe of an explosion at a Garrett County strip mine.

Clarence Lippel, local attorney representing the men, released copies of letters to Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of the State Police; Russell S. Davis, commissioner of State Employment and Registration; Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, and Hall Hammond, attorney general.

The three men, Alex DeVault, 33, of Nikep; Lester "Pete" Lee, 36, of Nikep and Samuel Vinci, of Moscow, declared they were taken into custody on the morning of January 18 and two of them were released the next night about 9 o'clock. A writ of habeas corpus had been obtained by Lippel at 8:35 p. m. after it had been learned where the men were, according to the attorney. DeVault was released earlier in the evening.

Sign Statements

The three men said they had been questioned concerning the explosion at the Gaither strip mine operation above Barton in Garrett County. A large piece of machinery was blown up by what police said was a dynamite charge.

All three men signed statements in Lippel's office Saturday afternoon giving in detail the account of their detention and subsequent questioning.

Say Lie Detector Used

The men said that a device, reportedly a lie detector, was used on them.

The three men also said that they were taken to the Garrett county jail in Oakland after being picked up and charge that the State Police had no warrants for their arrest.

The officers listed by the men are Sgt. John J. Cassidy, Trooper First Class Milton G. Hart and Trooper First Class Timothy M. Gilmore.

Charges "Police State"

Lippel said he has been aroused by the action of the State Police and alleges that "police state" and "Gestapo-like" methods were used.

DeVault said that Officer Cassidy and another man came to his home at 7 a. m. on January 18 when his family was asleep, wakened all of them by pounding on the door and, after announcing they were State Police, forced him to get dressed.

Then, DeVault charged, without warrant of any kind, they forced him to leave his home, and took him to Garrett county, so that he could not be found and his family and friends could not come to his aid.

Lee said Officer Hart and another man came to his home the same morning and made his wife awaken him and in her presence and without any warrant, made him leave his home. Lee said they did not inform either he or his wife where he was being taken. He also was taken to the county jail at Oakland.

Vinci said he was stopped in front of his home at 7 a. m. the same morning by Officer Gilmore and another officer of the State Police. He also alleges that no warrant for his arrest was presented and that he was forced to get into an auto and was taken to the Oakland jail.

Held In Custody

All three men said a man by the name of Chapman, whom they were told was the state's attorney of Garrett county, and another state policeman, whose name they did not know, kept them in the Oakland jail without permitting them to communicate with anyone on the outside. The men said they were in custody about 36 hours. (W.

Sellers Praises Scouting; Warns Of Communist Clubs

"Appreciation of the responsibilities of American citizenship should come first — even before training in the arts and sciences," said George W. Sellers yesterday morning at the Knights of Columbus father and son communion breakfast in St. Patrick's Social Center.

"The peace, prosperity, and security of our country depend primarily upon the training of our youth," continued Sellers, Cumberland District Chairman of the Boy Scouts and member of Potomac Council Executive Board.

He reviewed for his audience the long history of scouting in this country from its inception more than 40 years ago to its two-and-a-half million membership today.

He pointed out how the boy's training as a scout goes hand in hand with sound citizenship and explained the Scout Council's plans for 95 per cent membership in summer camp this year.

Sellers concluded with the admonition to American fathers and sons to beware of many youth organizations masquerading as "American youth movements" when, in reality, they are Communist dominated groups. He suggested that youth investigate any organizations carefully before joining.

Store Building Under Construction

One of the many buildings now under construction in this city is the above, which will provide space for three modern stores on the site of the North Centre Street explosion of 1941. The ultra modern construction project will provide facilities for three new stores complete with mezzanine floors. Facades will be of California redwood and all will have visual fronts and Roman brick lobbies. The project is slated to be completed by April 15. They will adjoin three other modern buildings which were completed last year on ground left vacant after the disastrous blast.

However, schools in three other Cumberland buildings also come under the direction of the same man. One of these is located in the Footer Building on South Mechanic Street, where basic auto mechanics, carpentry and bricklaying are taught to a total of 80 students.

Then, in the old Maryland Avenue School building, radio and electronics and electricity are taught to another 40 students. Finally the Allegany Trade School direction also extends to the evening cabinet making course which 25 Negro adults are taking at Carver High School on Frederick Street.

So, actually, the total student body operating under the Allegany Trade School direction includes some 225 young men.

Allegany Trade School was started in 1946 when it was realized that no private school was available for the training of veterans here under the GI Bill of Rights. So the school was organized by the Allegany County Board of Education in March, 1946, in the Paca Street building, erected in the mid-1930's by the National Youth Administration. Paul Alexander was the first director.

All of the students are sponsored

Bowmans Addition Fire Loss Last Year Was Only $3,650

Fire losses in Bowmans Addition last year totaled $3,650 and 22 alarms were sounded, according to Fire Chief Leo C. Emerick, of Bowmans Addition Volunteer Fire Company.

Chief Emerick explains that there were 10 grass fires, six in dwellings, two automobile fires, one in a bull dozer, one false alarm and two calls to assist other communities.

A total of 206 men responded to the 22 calls with an average of nine men per run.

The record is one of the best in the community and Chief Emerick says inspections of property and education of residents to eliminate fire hazards will help prevent greater fire loss. The quick response of members of the company in answering alarms has also been a contributing factor toward keeping losses low, he commented.

Store Building Under Construction

One of the many buildings now under construction in this city is the above, which will provide space for three modern stores on the site of the North Centre Street explosion of 1941. The ultra modern construction project will provide facilities for three new stores complete with mezzanine floors. Facades will be of California redwood and all will have visual fronts and Roman brick lobbies. The project is slated to be completed by April 15. They will adjoin three other modern buildings which were completed last year on ground left vacant after the disastrous blast.

Street Cleaning Job Slated When Weather Breaks

Sweeper Schedule Will Be Announced

The City Street Department will begin its biggest street cleaning job in years as soon as the weather breaks.

Frequent cinderings and the mud resulting from construction projects within the city will necessitate a great deal of work on the part of street department work crews.

The job is neither practical nor possible as long as winter weather conditions exist, officials said.

The task will be a big one since the hundreds of truckloads of cinders scattered on snowy and icy streets must be removed.

Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent, said such heavy dirt, some of it now imbedded in ice, will have to be swept and shoveled to the curbs, where crews can load it into trucks.

Included in the debris of winter is an unusually heavy amount of mud scattered on the streets from construction jobs, such as the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood contro project.

Coal trucks, Corrigan said, have also been adding to the condition as mud which froze to the vehicles at the mines dropped off in the city, where temperatures are generally higher.

Only after the heavy deposits of dirt and cinders are removed from the streets can the motorized street sweepers operate, he said.

The sweepers, he added, cannot be operated in freezing weather, since water used in the machine would mix with the dust from the streets to form a freezing mixture.

To Follow Schedule

When the danger of ice and snow allows the removal of the winter's accumulation of dirt, a regular schedule will be worked out for the operation of motor sweepers.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property, said the Cumberland Police Department will be asked to cooperate in the sweeping program.

The public will be kept informed of the schedule for the street sweeper, she said, so that cars can be kept off the streets on which the sweeper is to operate.

Man Hurt Near City With Blackjack

City police yesterday investigated the injury of a man who was reported blackjacked near here early yesterday morning.

Lt. James E. Van, called to Memorial Hospital about 4 a. m. yesterday, found a man identified as William Shumaker, 322 Henderson Avenue, suffering from a laceration on the head he said was inflicted by a blackjack.

The man, Lt. Van said, would not reveal how he was injured and declined to name the place, except to say the injury occurred out of the city limits.

The injured man was released after the cut was sutured.

Both State Police and the Sheriff's Office said they had no report of the incident.

Weather

Although the temperature stayed well above freezing yesterday in this area the weather bureau predicts a cold front sweeping down from Canada. Today's forecast calls for cloudy and colder with rain or snow. Yesterday's high at Constitution Park station was 36 and the low 34. There was .54 inches of rainfall during the twenty four hour period.

Sellers Praises Scouting; Warns Of Communist Clubs

"Appreciation of the responsibilities of American citizenship should come first — even before training in the arts and sciences," said George W. Sellers yesterday morning at the Knights of Columbus father and son communion breakfast in St. Patrick's Social Center.

"The peace, prosperity, and security of our country depend primarily upon the training of our youth," continued Sellers, Cumberland District Chairman of the Boy Scouts and member of Potomac Council Executive Board.

He reviewed for his audience the long history of scouting in this country from its inception more than 40 years ago to its two-and-a-half million membership today.

He pointed out how the boy's training as a scout goes hand in hand with present day citizenship and explained the Scout Council's plans for 95 per cent membership in summer camp this year.

Sellers concluded with the admonition to American fathers and sons to beware of many youth organizations masquerading as "American youth movements" when, in reality, they are Communist dominated groups. He suggested that youth investigate any organizations carefully before joining.

Weather Forecast

Rollbacks In Prices Of Some Items Planned, DiSalle Says

Officials Struggle To Tailor Controls To Fit Conditions; New Orders Awaited

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Price Chief Michael DiSalle said tonight that "substantial rollbacks" in the prices of a number of items will be ordered as soon as his agency can get around to it.

These rollbacks would cut prices of items affected below current levels, at which they were frozen by last Friday's price order.

"Those people who should be rolled back will be rolled back," DiSalle said. "We'll get to them just as soon as we have the time."

DiSalle said he hoped to achieve "substantial rollbacks by tailored regulations in individual fields," which he didn't name.

He said further regulations would set ceilings for farm products — although any curbs here will be limited by the Defense Production Act of 1950, which says farm prices can't be fixed below parity level.

The Price Administrator said he hopes that "before long" controls can be put on fresh fruit and vegetables and on fish and other sea foods.

DiSalle Sees No Rationing

DiSalle spoke in a recorded interview over the Mutual Broadcasting System as government officials struggled to speed up a series of new control orders intended to cut down confusion and hardships caused by the wage-price freeze.

These orders are expected to start coming out tomorrow or Tuesday.

DiSalle said he saw no prospect that consumer goods would be rationed in the near future — if at all.

And he declared that the government will crack down severely on any black marketing that may result from the new controls.

"I want to warn people who are thinking about going into black markets that not only the seller but the buyer is subject to severe penalties and we are really going to give it to them," DiSalle said.

Throughout the country the Office of Price Stabilization prepared to open 13 regional offices and 42 district offices tomorrow with skeleton staffs obviously not big enough to handle thousands of inquiries.

Appeal For Patience

Price and wage officials appealed to the public for patience. They said the fastest way to cure injustices will be to issue new orders rather than to deal with individual cases.

Cyrus S. Ching, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, told one labor leader: "When a freeze is issued it lowers the temperature all around. In such a cold situation it's advisable to keep your shirt on."

Ching's board was preparing an order listing some groups of employes who will be exempt from the wage freeze. These groups will probably include federal, state, and city employes, and the employes of very small firms.

Rent Chief Urges Speedy Enactment Of Tough Controls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The nation's rent control chief said today rents are rising rapidly and he is powerless to stop them. He called for fast enactment of "very tough" rent controls to match the price-wage freeze.

Woods has sent recommendations for a new rent law to the Office of Defense Mobilization headed by Charles E. Wilson.

Woods declined to tell what his recommendations are, but judging by his past statements and other indications, it seemed probable that he is recommending:

1. Authority for the government to restore rent controls wherever it thinks they are needed.

2. Elimination of the "local option" provision under which many cities have decontrolled themselves.

3. Authority for a rent rollback, particularly in areas surrounding military camps.

"Huge Inflationary Pressure" Feared

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Four hundred economists have told Congress that wage-price controls will build "a huge inflationary pressure" unless accompanied by a stiff tax boost and tighter credit curbs.

Sen. Butler (R-Neb) a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said meanwhile that of more than 6,000 leading businessmen to whom questionnaires were sent, 92 per cent believe:

1. The $71,600,000,000 federal budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 should be balanced.

2. The vast defense program should be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis out of taxes.

The statement of the economists, nearly all of them on college faculties, said emergency fiscal and credit policies, rather than price and wage controls, "constitute our primary defense against inflation."

Their views were submitted to the Senate-House Economic Committee before the government froze wages and most prices Friday night.

Prepared in December, the statement was made public by the committee today as part of a staff report to Congress, titled "General Credit Control, Debt Management and Economic Mobilization."

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), the committee chairman, said the report will be the basis for roundtable discussions the committee will begin tomorrow on economic problems.

Westinghouse Builds Jet Plane Autopilot

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28 (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corporation said today it has developed an electric autopilot to guide jet fighters planes with split-second accuracy in combat maneuvers.

The company said the midget device is the first automatic pilot with "unlimited maneuverability." It will be installed in F94C jet fighter planes now being built for the U. S. Air Force. The new device is the second autopilot to be accepted for jets in recent months.

The flight controller of the autopilot provides virtual finger-tip control and permits the pilot to maneuver his craft with relative ease at high speeds.

Three Injured When Big Plane Noses Over

FORT KNOX, Ky., Jan. 28 (AP) — An Air Force C-47 plane carrying 31 passengers from Charlotte, N. C., crashed while landing at Godman Field today. Three crew members were injured.

The transport plane landed on the runway in a normal manner about 4:15 p. m. then, without warning, it nosed over and cartwheeled.

Maid Is Heroine As Hotel Burns

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—A lucky break and a gallant young chambermaid saved nearly 100 persons from possible death today as fire destroyed the Earle Hotel, a familiar landmark in downtown Scranton.

Many persons escaped by crawling down hastily thrown up fire ladders. At least two jumped from windows. Still others were rescued by Betty Barbour, 22-year-old chambermaid who stayed at her post on an elevator through flames and thick smoke.

The fact that two patrolmen in a radio car had just stopped near the hotel for breakfast when Charette ran from the building yelling "fire" at 4:20 a. m., gave scores of the guests a fighting chance for survival.

Otherwise many would have perished in their beds, Charette said.

Capt. Don Gentile, Famed War Ace, Dies In Jet Crash

Pilot Accounted For 26 German Planes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Capt. Don S. Gentile, 30-year-old World War II ace who flew 182 combat missions, was killed near here today when his jet training plane crashed while on a "routine flight."

An enlisted man, riding as a passenger, also was killed when the plane smashed into trees on a farm at Forestville, Md., about three miles from the Andrews Air Force Base.

Gentile, born in Piqua, Ohio, accounted for 26 enemy planes during the war, in the European theater.

The highly-decorated pilot flew 350 combat hours for the U. S., and was once called "Captain Courageous" by President Roosevelt. Earlier he was famed as a British Royal Air Force pilot.

Officers could assign no reason for the crash. They said he had given no indication he was in trouble.

Joseph King, 35, who lives on a farm where the crash occurred, about 3:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, said he heard the plane hit the trees.

Other persons said the plane was seen coming down from the northeast at a steep angle. It sawed off several tree tops before it crashed in a wooded area.

The plane burst into flames and the pilot was thrown out.

King hurried to the scene as a series of small explosions went off, apparently from bursting ammunition.

Parts of the plane were scattered over a quarter of a mile area.

Only the engine, wing tip and wheel strut were identifiable.

Capt. Gentile currently was attending the University of Maryland as part of the air university program of the Air Force. Today's flight was a routine hop to maintain his proficiency.

Army Plane Crash Claims Five Lives

PORT CLINTON, O., Jan. 28 (AP)—A twin-engine Army plane crashed in an apple orchard west of here today. All five of its occupants were killed.

Sheriff Merlan Budd of Ottawa County said parts of the Beechcraft C-45 were scattered over a radius of 50 feet and the motors tore into the frozen ground to a depth of about three feet.

Authorities at Selfridge Field, Mich., identified the dead as:

Maj. W. T. Mattison, the pilot; Capt. H. H. Manning, co-pilot; T-Sgt. F. W. Boice, engineer; Capt. L. R. Taylor, all of Washington, D. C., and C. D. Kafader, a sailor from Los Angeles.

Shah Of Iran Offers To Sell Royal Estates To Peasants

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Shah, long reported to be Iran's biggest single landowner, said today he will split up his vast royal estates and sell small farms to the peasants who have been working them.

The ruler's offer of a long-overdue land reform seemed likely to shake up the social structure of this ancient country, where most wealth and land is controlled by less than 300 families.

Political circles speculated that the Shah would now use his influence to push through legislation aimed at breaking up the semi-feudal estates of private landowners. Land reform long has been urged by progressive elements in Iran to counter steady attacks by the Soviet radio and the underground Tudeh (Communist) Party on the nation's ruling class.

There have been no published reports on the extent of the Shah's estates. But government sources estimated he inherited from his father, the late Shah Reza Pahlevi, approximately 1,000 villages with surrounding farmland supporting more than 250,000 peasants.

By royal order the revenue from the estates has been turned over to state charities. The brief royal proclamation broadcast by the state radio today said the Shah had come to the conclusion that sale of the estates on long term installments to the peasants would be more in the national interest than supporting charities.

Gen. M'Arthur Enthusiastic On Korea Tour

Chinese Casualties 160,000 In 4 Weeks

TOKYO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur, enthusiastic and full of banter, paid his ninth flying visit to the Korean warfront today.

He jeeped within a mile of the fighting line south of Seoul, flew over that Red-held city, and declared:

"The stake we fight for now is more than Korea. It's a free Asia."

Plane Is Unescorted

At the front he was told by Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway that the Chinese Communists have lost 40,000 dead and 120,000 wounded since Jan. 1, not counting weather casualties.

He made the trip for a first-hand glimpse of the allied offensive now punching northward toward Seoul. Its tanks were pointed north. He found the men with an air of confidence.

"It makes a great deal of difference which direction you're going," said one officer. "We can put up with a lot if we are moving ahead."

MacArthur's plane flew unescorted and unchallenged from Tokyo and landed at Suwon airport, which was captured two days ago and only today became operational for large planes.

Met By Generals

He was met by Ridgway, Eighth Army commander, and other generals including Maj. Gen. Frank E. Milburn, 1st Corps commander; Brig. Thomas Bradie, commander of the 29th British Brigade; and Brig. Gen. Tahsin Yazici, commander of the Turkish Brigade.

Last June 26 MacArthur made his first visit to Suwon, at a time when South Korean forces were reeling back before the triumphant Reds. On that day—on another jeep trip to the front—MacArthur formulated his strategy that led to the September landing at Inchon and a subsequent sweep that sent his troops to the Manchurian border.

Today he saw the same flatlands blanketed with snow south of the Han River, toward which Allied forces are driving in an effort to locate and destroy the Chinese Communist troops they now face.

"Big" Cold Wave Hits Most Of U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

A brutal cold front pushed southward from Canada Sunday and rapidly overspread most of the country.

It chilled all but the southernmost corners of the U. S. and, as it clashed with warmer air in some sections, iced highways and cities with freezing rain. Hundreds of persons fell on the ice and were treated in hospitals.

U. S. Weather Bureau forecasters in Chicago said the cold wave "is a big one." They said barometric readings in the Canadian northwest indicated it was unusually large.

Glazed highways and streets were all but impassable in parts of Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana and some other states.

Two cities—Pittsburgh and Indianapolis—reported hospitals treating those injured in falls. There were 310 treated in Pittsburgh and more than 100 in Indianapolis, with the total growing hourly. No fatalities were listed immediately.

"Unknown" To Play Mary Martin's Role

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Martha Wright, an almost unknown young actress from Duval, Wash., will succeed Mary Martin June 1 in the starring role of Nurse Nellie Forbush in the Broadway musical hit "South Pacific," the producers announced today.

Miss Martin, who cut her hair to more than a boyish bob in order to play the role and who gives herself a soap shampoo in every performance, is taking a vacation.

She has played in the Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein 2d hit since April 7, 1949.

British Plane Overdue

HONG KONG, Monday, Jan. 29 (AP)—A four-engined British Sunderland flying boat, veteran of the Korean war, is overdue on a flight from Japan to Hong Kong, the Royal Air Force announced today.

Squadron Leader Ted Lewis, RAF public relations officer, said it was not known here whether the plane had left Japan with any passengers or how many were in her crew.

Remembrance For Rosemarie

Rosemarie Konko, 11 years old yesterday, joins her hand to that of Magistrate Charles E. Murphy around the stack of presents she received at her first birthday party. Magistrate Murphy arranged the party, with 150 underprivileged youngsters as guests, in a New York restaurant. He learned she had never had a birthday party when, earlier this month, she told in his court how she begged money to keep her mother in liquor and food for them to eat. The mother went to jail for six months and Rosemarie to live with an aunt and uncle.

Move To Recheck Present Draft Age Pool Grows

Some Vets, Husbands May Precede Boys, 18

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Childless husbands aged 19 through 25, and some thousands of young men now classified 4-F, appeared definitely closer to the draft today than most 18-year-olds.

And short-service veterans with no World War II time overseas or in combat began to look like a good bet too.

The outlook was indicated in statements by Senate and House leaders handling the Defense Department's request for a draft at 18 for 27 months, integrated into permanent universal military service and training.

"Safeguards" Are Urged

They were not talking about actually killing the plan to lower the induction age, despite a storm of protests against taking youths of 18; they wanted another look at the 19-25 group first.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee publicly offered to write what he called "general safeguards" into the bill.

These would call for reexamination of men from 19 through 25 years now deferred as "4-Fs" as well as induction of some 290,000 non-veteran husbands in the same age group who are exempted now.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee urged both these steps and added another. Before taking 18-year-olds, he said it might be wise to recall some World War II veterans, such as those with only a few months service none of which was overseas or in combat.

All Vets Now Deferred

All veterans now are deferred by law, and men with dependents by the draft regulations under the law.

Secretary of Defense Marshall and Assistant Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg promised both the Senate and House committees that all available older men would be called ahead. They also assured that those 18-year-olds who are nearest 19 would be called first if the draft age is lowered.

Bat-Like Interceptor Jet Plane Is Tested

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Jan. 28 (AP) — The successful maiden flight of the bat-like Douglas XF4D interceptor was announced here today by the Navy Department Bureau of Aeronautics.

Larry Peyton, veteran Douglas test pilot, completed a 30-minute high altitude flight at Edwards Air Force Base, Muroc, Calif., on Jan. 23.

Two Perish In Fire

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two persons died and eight others were hospitalized today when fire swept the second floor of a brick building.

The dead were Miss Alice O'Brien, 69, operator of a rooming house on the second and third floors, and Oscar Baltrock, 69, a tenant.

Female Warbird Going To Korea

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 28 (AP)—A lady fighter pilot is going to Korea to serve with the U. N. air force.

She's Maj. Sabiha Gokcen, 36-year-old adopted daughter of the late Kemal Ataturk, "Father of the Turks," and possibly the world's first female warbird.

Telling about her plans to leave for Korea in a few days, the Istanbul press reported today that she volunteered recently for active combat service and that the Turkish government approved apparently with the consent of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

Pleven, Truman To Confer Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — Premier Pleven of France arrives tomorrow reportedly ready to assure President Truman that French troops will fight on in Indochina—even if Chinese Communists intervene on a massive scale.

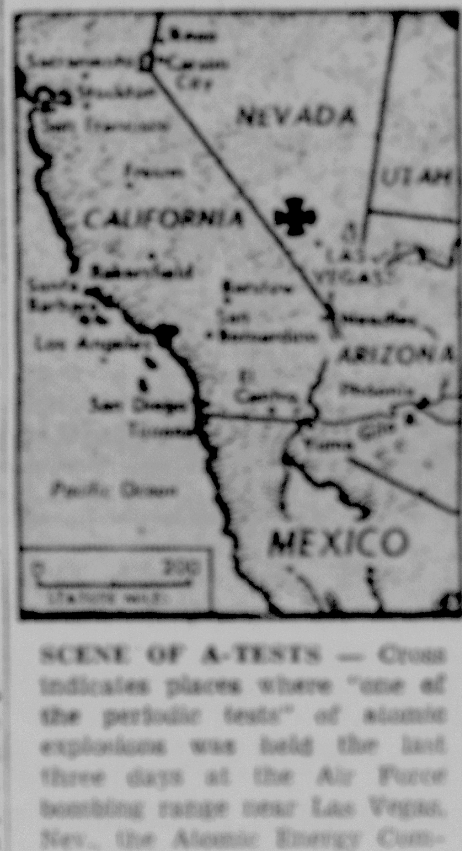
The 49-year-old French leader is said to be ready to stress this determination at the start of his cold war strategy conference with President Truman and other top American officials.

The extraordinary Truman-Pleven meeting begins at the White House tomorrow afternoon, (at 2:30 p. m. EST) a few hours after Pleven arrives by train from New York. He reached New York today by plane where he told reporters there is "absolutely" no cleavage between the two countries on foreign policy.

Discussion of the Indochina problem, which has tied up the bulk of France's army nearly five years, will top the agenda prepared for the two-day meeting.

Responsible diplomatic officials said Pleven will tell Mr. Truman France is determined to continue its costly battle against Communist-led guerrilla forces in Indochina until victory is won.

"Sunday Punch" Test Blast Jolts Desert Gambling Town



SCENE OF A-TESTS — Cross indicates place where "one of the periodic tests" of atomic explosions was held the last three days at the Air Force bombing range near Las Vegas, Nev., the Atomic Energy Commission said. Citizens of Las Vegas saw and felt the blasts.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 28 (AP)—The third blast in four days jolted this desert gambling town early today as atomic scientists apparently continued "tickling the dragon's tail."

Everybody who felt today's blast agreed it was the strongest of the three.

But earlier in the month the commission was authorized by President Truman to use the Nevada range for test work.

The commission announced at the time the tests would "include experimental nuclear detonation for the development of atomic bombs—so-called 'A-bombs'—carried out under controlled conditions."

Although the commission preserved a studied silence today about the blasts, residents of Las Vegas and vicinity didn't keep quiet.

Some were rather irked.

6 Of Bridal Party Die As Car Dives Off Unused Span

Tragedy Discovered Through Skid Marks

BOSTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — An automobile plunged off a partly dismantled drawbridge today carrying six members of a gay bridal party to death in muddy Mystic River.

The tragedy was not discovered until several hours after the accident when two cruising car officers observed skid marks on the pavement and broken headlight glass on a platform under the unused draw.

The dead — all of Woonsocket, R. I., — were identified by police as:

Henry Gauthier, 49, the bridegroom; his bride, the former Doris P. Cote, 32; Mrs. Paul Jacob, 51; Mrs. Jeanette Baillargeon, 41; Romeo J. Lagasse, 46, a mill worker, and Francis C. Lariviere, 50, a machine shop foreman.

Gauthier and the former Miss Cote were married yesterday in St. Louis Catholic Church, Woonsocket. The group apparently was en route to Boston to celebrate, police said.

Police said the driver, apparently unfamiliar with the section, missed the ramp to a new bridge and took the old ramp.

He evidently noted his mistake too late, applied the brakes, and was carried to the open draw where the car plunged into 40 feet of water, police said.

Police, firemen and sailors from the Boston Navy Yard recovered the car and bodies nine hours after the estimated time of the death plunge.

The Rev. Charles Hyland of St. Catherine's Church, Somerville, administered the last rites of the Catholic Church as the machine and bodies were swung aboard a Navy lighter.

Enemy Forces U. N. Pullback In One Sector

Reds Infiltrate, Attack From Rear

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 29 (AP) — Chinese Reds today slowed the five-day-old Allied push in Western Korea by infiltrating small forces in pre-dawn darkness and attacking from the rear.

These counterattacks in the west —and North Korean ambushes of Allied patrols in the central sector—indicated the United Nations limited offensive toward Seoul was nearing the main Communist lines.

Allied forces, last reported within 11 miles of Seoul, beat off enemy counterattacks around three towns on the 40-mile front.

One attack forced U. N. troops to fall back. They later restored their lines. The Chinese also resorted to road blocks and land mines.

At 9 a. m. today (7 p. m. EST Sunday) firing still was heard in the outskirts of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul. That was six miles behind the Allies' advance position north of Suwon.

This first stiff enemy resistance since the U. S. First and Ninth Corps began the "limited objective attack" came from elements of two Chinese Red regiments. They were believed acting as a covering force in front of the Reds' main line.

60,000 Reds Massed

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said he had reports that 60,000 Chinese Reds were massed between the advancing Allies and the Han River.

The pre-dawn Communist attacks — some lasting five hours — were dealt in strength up to a battalion.

The Reds hit back around Suwon, Kumyangjang and Ichon. Kumyangjang is 11 miles southeast of Suwon; Ichon 12 miles northeast of Kumyangjang.

Six hundred Chinese infiltrated the positions of Puerto Rican infantrymen four miles northeast of Suwon then attacked from behind. The action began at midnight. The Reds were forced to retreat by 5 a. m.

A force of about equal size attacked a U. N. force six miles west of Ichon shortly after midnight. The U. N. troops were driven back but restored their lines by daylight in tough fighting.

Puerto Rican soldiers had to battle from 3:30 a. m. until 6 a. m. before driving off another Red force northeast of Suwon. Sporadic small arms exchanges still were occurring in that area.

Reds Ambush Two-Jeep Patrol

The Reds ambushed a two-jeep patrol near Suwon and destroyed both jeeps. Several Allied patrols were ambushed in both the west and central sectors.

Allied tanks knocked out two road blocks set up by Reds last night on the outskirts of Suwon.

Until today the Allied forces—including U. S., Puerto Ricans, British, Greek and Turks — had gained more than 12 miles with little or no contact with the enemy.

Allied patrols prowled ever closer to the 38th parallel in Central Korea despite Red ambushes.

Today's Eighth Army communique said patrols moved four miles north of Hoengsong. That put Allied forces within 31 miles of the 38th parallel, the closest approach since the fall of Seoul Jan. 4.

GI, 4 Of Family Perish In Blaze

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Jan. 28 (AP) — A returned soldier and four members of his family gathered to welcome him home died early today when fire swept a farm house at Tenbroeck.

Six others were awakened by a neighbor, D. M. Downs, and escaped in their night garments. The house was destroyed and the bodies of the victims burned beyond recognition.

The flames claimed the lives of a mother, daughter, two sons — including the soldier — and a granddaughter. Tenbroeck is about 22 miles from Fort Payne in Northeast Alabama.

County Coroner Hoyt Wilson listed the following dead:

Mrs. Florence Brewer, 34; Jewel Lee Brewer, 18; Recruit Albert Dewitt Brewer, 21, Ft. Jackson, S. C.; Robert Brewer, 14, and Brenda Gale McKelvey, 5.

14 Yachtsmen Drown

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 28 (AP)—Fourteen New Zealand sportsmen are believed today to have drowned in the country's worst yachting disaster, climax to a storm-wrecked ocean race.

Their three yachts foundered in mountainous seas after sailing with 17 other craft Jan. 23 from Wellington for Lyttelton.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

THINGS GOING rough for you? Well, you ought to have the privilege and consolation some night of sitting down and listening to Lt. Col. Jerry Sage, a big, strapping guy out of Spokane, Wash., who is now an instructor at West Point. He'd make your woes seem trivial.

Col. Sage is the greatest escape artist since Houdini. He went over or through the wire of Nazi prison camps three or four times during World War II, the war to end all police actions. He has packed into his 33 years, and football tackle's form, enough adventures to satisfy a thousand men. Last night, before he made a brief appearance on the Philco television program, to pay tribute to 50 less successful escapees who were butchered by the Nazi, he told me of one of those escape attempts.

He was in Stalag Luft III, south of Berlin, in 1943, after having been picked up during one of his many forages behind German lines in the role of O. S. S. man. The day he was pushed into the camp he inquired if any escape plans were under way and, when he learned there were, joined the effort.

At Stalag Luft III a prisoner of war could be shot if he stepped into that 30-foot wide circle of sand that was in the inside rail of the barbed wire around the camp. So Jerry joined and helped frame a tunnel-building project.

• — • — •

The mouth of the one successful tunnel of the three which the men dug was just under a red-hot stove in the corner of a prison barracks. The stove, always kept hot, was the handle of the trap door leading to the fabulous and successful subway.

Before they were through the RAF and American Airmen dug a tunnel 300 feet long, 30 feet under ground, and some of them got through it. The tunnel was scarcely two feet square, but it remains one of the engineering marvels of our age.

The men had to pull out and hide about a quarter of a million pounds of earth and sand. Worse, they had to hide it. It was of a different color than the top soil and thus would be detected by the daily aerial photographs of Stalag Luft III unless successfully dispersed.

Sage and his friends started a cabbage patch and convinced the German guards that in America these are always covered with sheets. The tailor shop, run by the prisoners, fashioned form-fitting sacks in which the different-colored earth could be carried from the excavation and dumped into the cabbage patch by men presumably tending to the growing plants. Then the sheets were put back in place.

A digger, scraping away at the blank end of the tunnel, would shovel back the dirt to a pal who, in the early days at least, would put it in a basin which would be pulled out of the tunnel by a string and its contents put in the form fitting bags of another member of the party. For illumination the boys used Red Cross package oleomargine and (for wicks) their pajama cords.

• — • — •

When the bugs eliminated the cabbage, Sage formed a track and field team. Prisoners would surround such events and cheer mightily as a shot-putter heaved the weight in such a way as to let the dirt and sand slide down his pants leg—right under the eyes of the German guards in the towers overhead.

The camp had to set up its own Allied security force. When the successful tunnel had reached under and beyond the wire, a priority board was established to decide who'd make the run. Different costumes were devised in the tailor shop for the use of the escapees.

Sage had been able to hide a compass during his entire stay in Stalag Luft III. But it needed a magnetized needle, which was scrounged by a friend. Jerry faked and illness (not hard because he was wounded) in order to get into the hospital and scrape luminous paint off clock hands—to place on the tip of the compass needle.

Before the tunnel was completely dug (it took a year) the men had to devise an air-pump to keep the diggers alive, and a railway track (made of bits of bed slats and flattened tin cans) over which to pull out the dirt.

Some 76 of the 1,500 men in prison got through the tunnel. Only three of these got home. Fifty were caught in one bunch and shot after their hands were tied behind them. And it was to pay tribute to them that this quiet and incredibly courageous man came out of the obscurity of a teaching job last night.

After listening to him, things don't seem so tough today.

Dapper Dans To Aid Crippled Children

The Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Inc., will be beneficiary of the third annual Dapper Dan Club dinner scheduled for February 25 at 6 p. m. in the Knights of Columbus Home.

Peter J. Carpenti, chairman of the Cumberland Chapter's Executive Board, made the announcement last night.

Plans for the dinner are incomplete, Carpenti said, adding that speaking bids have been sent to several nationally known sportsmen.

During the past two years the Dapper Dans have donated more than $450, including proceeds from the first two dinners, to the county organization that has shouldered the burden of care and braces and other appliances needed by crippled children.

Committeemen for the dinner are Paul J. Galen, newly elected president; William V. Keegan, James Wilt, Charles Kreitzburg, Willard Morrissey, Albert S. Paye, Alex J. Schute, David Kauffman, Joseph K. Mooney, Paul M. Fletcher, Harold J. Rosenmerkel, Chris G. Charuhas and Carpenti.

Bar Opposes Plan For More Appeal Judges

A special committee of the Maryland State Bar Association meeting in Baltimore, came out with an emphatic "no" yesterday to a plan to increase the constitutional number of judges of the state Court of Appeals.

There simply is no sufficient reason to change the plan for a five-judge court as proposed by the recent Bond Commission through constitutional amendment, said the committee.

At present the court is composed of six judges but the number will drop to five upon retirement of Judge C. Gus Grason because of the age limit.

The Miles Committee is headed by Clarence W. Miles. It made its report to Judge Levin C. Bailey, president of the State Bar Association.

The bar committee said Maryland's court work is not excessive in comparison with standards set by other appellate courts.

W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, is a member of the Miles committee.

$15,000 Damage Suit Opens In Court Today

A $15,000 suit against the B. and O. Railroad as a result of a crash involving a tractor-trailer load of race horses and a locomotive at the Fairgo crossing on November 20, 1949, will begin in Circuit Court this morning.

Associate Judge George Henderson will preside at the hearing, which is slated to be a jury trial.

Suit was docketed last February by Edward J. Ryan, local attorney, for Edward R. Wellestat, owner of the tractor-trailer. Wellestat listed damages in the collision as $8,000 to the trailer and $2,000 to the tractor.

It is charged by the plaintiff that the railroad did not properly maintain the crossing and it was unsafe.

The vehicles were transporting eight thoroughbreds purchased by Charles C. Cameron, this city, in an auction in Kentucky to the Fairgo race track.

As it attempted to cross the railroad at the Fairgo entrance the trailer became stuck. A freight train hauled by a Diesel locomotive crashed into the tractor-trailer and killed four of the horses and injured the other four.

The driver of the tractor, George Karesh, Edward Wellestat, Jr., and Jesse Mock, a negro groom, escaped injury in the crash.

Try your hand at this game of meeting personages. You'll find it a sure cure for winter doldrums!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THERE is many a game you can play, but when you are tired of things in general, and people seem to dull you, there's one that is sure to put a new aspect on your outlook.

Just imagine that you are walking into a room full of people. Your hostess reaches for your hand and, turning you toward a handsome dream, says, "Have you met Mr. Pinza?"

Ezio Pinza! Wham! Butterflies flutter where no butterflies should be; your tongue freezes, and you can't think of a thing to say beyond, "How do you do" — and that under your breath!

Four Rounds to a Game

Be honest, now — if that's what happened, score a round for the other side. You've let one of the biggest opportunities to up your personal - impression - score slip right through your hands!

But you've other chances ahead. It takes four rounds to make a game, so let's get on with it, just for the sake of a sure-fire cure for that why-isn't-my-life-more-exciting feeling.

For the next three rounds, you'll need a pencil, paper and some quick thinking. Now write down the names of three famous persons you'd like to have for conversational partners at a party. Oh, you might choose General MacArthur, Jimmy Stewart, Dr. Einstein, Mme. Pandit, Bette Davis, Mrs. Roosevelt — any personalities you'd like most to meet. Pick your favorites.

Then, beside each of the three names, list three topics you could discuss intelligently that would interest both you and the personage. (The weather doesn't count!)

If it takes more than three minutes to think of three topics for any name, count that round lost. And if you lose more rounds than any poised woman should, it's your cue to get busy! You've been a bit lazy and let your interest lag on the most important things in the world — people and events. Small wonder then, that you feel and sound let down lately. Try picking up the pieces of your interest this way:

Raising Your Score

For one week, make it a point to find out more about the people whose names you listed — what they are doing and why, and something about their personal lives. Watch the newspapers and magazines; consult a book or two.

Then, have another go at the game. Now you should have a half-dozen likely topics to discuss with your favorite personalities, topics right at the tip of your tongue.

GOP Getting Ready For '52

The Republican National Committee held at Washington Friday its first full meeting since the elections of last November. Aside from naming a committee to choose a convention site, the GOP laid a few plans for the Congressional elections of 1952 as well as for the presidential campaign in that year.

Chairman Gabrielson says the GOP will capture "as many as possible" of the 12 Democratic seats in the Senate to be contested in 1952, as well as retain all of the 20 Republican seats at stake. A net gain of two seats is all that is needed to give control of the Senate to the Republican Party two years from now.

One advantage is, from the Republican point of view, that six of the 12 Democratic seats at stake in 1952 are in states where the GOP can win—Maryland, Rhode Island, West Virginia, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming. The remaining six are Connecticut, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

All the Republican senators with seats at stake in 1952 were elected in 1946, the only one of the past 10 election years in which the GOP won control of both branches of Congress. One point of GOP concern is that seven of the 20 states sending a Republican to the Senate in 1946 later elected a Democrat as his colleague — Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New York and Washington. Maryland, however, turned the tables in 1950 and sent Republican John Marshall Butler to the Senate in place of Democrat Millard E. Tydings.

In 1946, Senator, then Governor, Herbert R. O'Conor, who will be up for re-election in 1952, barely defeated Republican D. John Markey. So it would seem that Republican senatorial chances in Maryland are somewhat better than even.

Elsewhere, what thus seems like a possible uphill battle for the Republican Party would become less so if additional Democratic seats in doubtful states had to be contested in 1952. And a Republican tide like that of 1946 and its smaller counterpart in 1950 would make GOP control of the 1953 Senate an easy task.

Influenza

Reports of influenza deaths in Europe cause rising concern about a serious epidemic in the United States. All the health services of the country join in saying there is no indication of it.

The World Health Organization has made a study of influenza and advises that the epidemic centering in England is comparatively mild, having no characteristics of the 1918 plague. So severe was that epidemic that in New York street cleaners were assigned as gravediggers and in most of the big cities men and women died unattended. That epidemic swept over the world.

Health experts say the question of immunization against influenza is not settled. There is no vaccine that will protect with certainty. However, the situation indicates the need for continued controlled study of the effect of influenza vaccines in man. It is expected that some influenza will appear in the United States, but that the disease will be like recent experiences. Since the greatest part of mortality results from bacterial complications in the respiratory tract, it is recommended that for patients who have a severe influenza-like illness, appropriate anti-biotics be used.

Since 1918 such anti-biotics as penicillin, streptomycin, sulfa drugs and others have been discovered. They will reduce to a minimum any influenza wave. Sweeping epidemics such as the world has known may come again. But that will be when civilization itself crumbles and the highly efficient health organizations of today are no more.

Come Again, Henry

Henry Wallace, who hasn't been heard from for some time, has come forward with his own scheme for world peace. The idea isn't new by any means, but just a holdover from the original new deal, in which Mr. Wallace played an important part. He would have the United Nations establish and finance an international public works administration, to build dams, bridges, irrigation projects in the various nations of the world in lieu of military preparedness which would lead only to war.

All nations to benefit under the plan would have to discontinue fifth-column activities, and join in building a police force sufficiently strong to keep down war. He holds that the benefits of this great PWA would outweigh any gains to be made through conflict, and would bring peace for that reason. The Russians are materialists, he insists, and would readily join the plan.

Boiled down the Wallace plan would offer Russia needed construction and other economic advantages if the Stalin crowd will forget war and further aggression. But Moscow is thinking along a different line. It would conquer the world through sheer military strength, and then have enslaved peoples build the things Mr. Wallace is promising. Come again, Henry.

Lower Octane Gasoline

The octane rating of gasoline for passenger cars will be lowered by Government order to the oil companies any day now. The Petroleum Administration for Defense announced on January 12 that it would take this step "soon."

Well, the PAD says that in most inland areas the rating of the "gas" now being sold has already been lowered to points that will be unaffected by the new order. It is chiefly along the Atlantic seaboard and on the Pacific Coast that any change will be necessary.

And even there the driver who uses regular "gas" should notice little difference in performance. The driver who uses premium "gas" may get a little more "ping" in the engine, especially in climbing hills, but should suffer little or no loss in mileage per gallon. However, motors adjusted at the factory to operate only on premium fuel may have to have their sparks retarded.

Until recently petroleum refiners' had been using alkylates to boost the octane rating of "high-test" gasoline. Now the alkylates are to be reserved for military aviation fuel and commercial aviation gasoline is expected to make greater use of tetra-ethyl lead.

Intestinal Obstruction

INTESTINAL obstruction is serious. Surgery usually is required and in spite of the best medical care the mortality rate is between 15 and 20 per cent. But this is a great improvement over the days when I was an intern. There were no wonder drugs and blood transfusions rarely were employed. Furthermore, no attempt was made to overcome the water and mineral loss that follows the vomiting associated with a bowel that is pinched or kinked.

There are many causes of intestinal obstruction. Occasionally food or toys are responsible. There are two cases on record in which a man ate so many grasshoppers that his colon became obstructed. Another was "riding the rails" when he became so hungry he jumped off into an orange grove and gulped 15 to 20 oranges, including the pulp. Impactions are common in certain parts of Europe where large quantities of cherries with the pits are consumed. Other items that have produced blockage are nuts, peaches, mushrooms, bran, apple cores, figs, grapes, beans, and watermelons. Persimmon pulp probably is one of the worst food offenders.

On the other hand, food is one of the rarest causes of intestinal obstruction even tho many individuals swallow huge chunks without proper chewing. Tumors of the wall of the intestine are to blame in more than half the cases. The majority of these lesions are cancerous, which only adds to the severity of the condition. Adhesions from previous infections or operations also are high on the list. These bands of scar tissue usually kink the bowel by pulling in much the same manner as if we tied a rope around an inner tube and tugged with all our might. Adhesions also are capable of pinching off the intestinal passageway slowly, particularly when they encircle the structure. Other origins include infections, strangulated hernias, and intussusception, a disturbance in which the upper part of the bowel telescopes into the lower part. It is most frequent in children and we have never known why it occurs.

Victims of obstruction suffer from bouts of abdominal cramps. As blockage becomes more complete, cramping grows more painful. Distress may be paroxysmal or continuous, depending upon the location of the lesion and the cause of the obstruction. Vomiting coexists, at first reflex in nature. Later it is caused by the fact that the bowel closed and nature has flipped the switch and thrown everything into reverse. Furthermore, the closer the lesion to the stomach, the sooner closure occurs. Constipation also is bound to ensue because material from above has been shut off. As the obstruction continues the abdomen becomes more and more distended and the gurgling and churning may be heard from a distance as the intestine tries its best to overcome the obstruction. Sooner or later the toxic effect is manifested. The face appears anxious, pinched, and somewhat blue; the body is dehydrated; and the skin cold and dry.

The more promptly relief is obtained, the better the outcome. Operation is necessary unless the obstruction is close enough to the rectum to be accessible to the surgeon. Meanwhile all the tricks of the trade are used to overcome the general effects of the toxic and dehydrated condition.

ELBOW BURSITIS

M. C. writes: What is the treatment of tennis elbow?

REPLY

Rest, by remaining on the sidelines and by having the arm bandaged or placed in a sling. If pain continues, the "needling" treatment may prove helpful. In this procedure, the fluid in the involved bursa is withdrawn and an anesthetic is injected into the sac. In some instances, surgery is needed.

FINGER RASH

L. P. writes: Whenever I wear rings the skin beneath them becomes irritated. Does this mean that I lack some vitamins in my diet?

REPLY

No. This is a common occurrence. Among the causes are improper drying of the hands after washing them, friction from tight rings, accumulation of perspiration, soap or lotions under the ring, or a sensitivity to the metals. The allergic reaction is more common when alloys such as nickel are used in the jewelry.

It may in that nervous persons often perspire more than the average individual. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on body odors.

REPLY

Yes, and many do. Much depends upon the nature of the heart disease and the age of the potential mother.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Not Too Happy About Donning Uniform Again; Facing Hostile Crowds Overseas; Knows Job Can Blast Any Presidential Ambitions.

Says DREW PEARSON

(ED. NOTE—The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, who now reports to Congress on the difficult job of rearming Europe.)

WASHINGTON — When General Eisenhower went off to Europe, a lot of people got the impression that he was rather glad to leave Columbia, get into uniform again and return to his old haunts abroad. Actually, this was not the case.

To a few close friends just before he left, Ike confessed that he dreaded going overseas again, knew that he would face hostile crowds, realized how tough it would be to organize rearmament in war-weary Europe.

Ike also knew, though he didn't say so, that getting back into uniform might blast any presidential ambitions he had.

There was nothing phony or theatrical, therefore, about Ike's answer when President Truman called him in Chicago last December and asked him to become chief commander under the North Atlantic Pact. Ike replied that a soldier has to go where he is called, and he meant it.

Report To Congress

Behind Eisenhower's report to Congress this week will be two significant facts which the general public may not at first appreciate.

No. 1 is that the President has partially abdicated to Eisenhower the national leadership in regard to European policy. It will be up to Ike to sell Congress and the nation on sending U. S. troops to Europe at a time when isolationism is growing and when thousands of mothers do not at all relish seeing their sons leave home.

No. 2 is the fact that Eisenhower, though trained as a military man, has now become a political figure.

Furthermore, Eisenhower's political development is bound to accelerate; for his job of welding different nationalities into a smooth-working military machine is much more political than military.

For some time, Ike's critics—and he has some—have harped on his political proclivities. Long ago, they claim, Ike learned that the pen is mightier than the word. And it was Major Eisenhower, they recall, who wrote General MacArthur's farewell message to the Army when Mac retired as Chief of Staff—one of the most appealing documents ever issued by a chief of staff.

Political General

And though they criticize Ike for having been a political general during the invasion of Europe, it must be remembered that one of his jobs was to smooth the ruffled feathers of General Giraud, get the cooperation of the difficult General De Gaulle, tone down the passion for publicity of Field Marshal Montgomery and weld the heterogeneous, politically minded armies of Europe into a homogeneous unit.

One thing that griped some Americans, for instance, was Ike's order that there was to be no criticism of the British during and after the D-Day invasion of Normandy. He also placed a British officer alongside each American officer in key jobs where cooperation was essential. This may have slowed military movements at times but it built Allied harmony—which was all-important.

This is some of the invaluable experience Eisenhower will draw on when it comes to the present peacetime mobilization of Europe.

Ike Hates War

Another quality that will help the North Atlantic Pact commander is the fact that his hatred of war is just as genuine as that of the war-weary Europeans who now dread preparing for another showdown. Probably Ike gets this from his mother, a descendant of a Swiss-German family which fled Europe to escape its wars. Mrs. Eisenhower never relished the fact that her son became a soldier and once, when Sam Goldwyn congratulated her on her son, she promptly replied:

"Which one?"

For Mrs. Eisenhower was just as proud of her other six sons as of the one whose name is a byword around the world.

"War is mankind's most tragic and stupid folly," Eisenhower once told a West Point graduating class. "To seek or advise its deliberate provocation is a black crime against all men. Though you follow the trade of warrior you do so in the spirit of Washington — not of Genghis Khan.

"A a professional soldier you do not inherit a greater share than your citizen brothers of courage, endurance, and fortitude. Neither does your commission confer upon you distinctive right or privilege . . . The arts and sciences, as well as the profession of arms, are bulwarks of society. And the greatest of all is the spirit—the will—for freedom and justice."

These remarks, coming from the man against whom the Communists have been demonstrating in the streets of Rome and Paris, probably would astonish the average European. However, they represent the creed of the man who now faces the difficult task of mobilizing the North Atlantic Pact countries for democracy.

Eisenhower-Go-Round

As a school boy in Abilene, Kans., Eisenhower was called "Ugly Ike." . . . His father was a Democrat, and Ike's first speech was at a Jackson Day dinner. Because he was a Democrat, Ike had a little difficulty getting an appointment to West Point, but finally obtained the endorsement of the leaders of both wings of the Republican Party in Abilene . . . The Eisenhower high school gang used to hang around the office of the Abilene News where they did odd jobs for Editor J. W. Howe and where young Ike read exchange newspapers. According to Howe: "Dwight never complained about working, seeming to take that for granted. In school discussions he was always for the underdog and contended we needed a somewhat better distribution of wealth."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Thinking Behind Controls

WASHINGTON

CONTROLS are always unpleasant, and it is not a bad idea to enter the era of renewed war-time controls with at least one happy thought. Such a thought is provided by the fundamental approach to the problem of economic controls that has been adopted by the remarkable new triumvirate of Charles E. Wilson, Lucius D. Clay and Sidney Weinberg.

In brief, unless there is an all-out war, Defense Mobilizer Wilson and his two junior partners regard the new controls as a strictly temporary expedient. The comparison their planners use tells the story. The new controls are to resemble the rocket or Jato attachments which gain flying speed for many modern airplanes, and are then dropped to the ground when they have done their jobs.

Wilson, Clay and Weinberg have fought all the numerous foot draggers and business-as-usual mumblers in the Administration, because they consider that rapidly imposed controls are vitally needed to speed and facilitate the expansion of American production. But they frankly intend to jettison the controls—always assuming there is no war—when the output of American farms and factories has been adequately increased.

Steel An Illustration

What is more, the year 1953 is named as the time when the national economy ought to begin to operate smoothly at the new level, with enough production to meet both civilian and defense requirements. And thus if Wilson, Clay and Weinberg have calculated correctly, the new controls can safely begin to be removed in hardly more than a year and a half.

The best illustration of how this will work is the case of steel. With steel capacity considerably above 100,000,000 tons annually, the United States still does not have enough steel plants to satisfy both the heavy defense demand and the immensely high current level of normal steel consumption. An increase of steel output of 15,000,000 tons annually is needed to provide enough for all.

If Wilson, Clay and Weinberg had adopted the more normal approach to controls, they would have plumped for a permanent but not very painful cutback in civilian steel consumption to make room for defense requirements. But this would have necessitated permanent, though light controls. Instead, besides setting aside ample steel to meet current defense requirements, they propose over the next year and a half to invest an additional 15,000,000 tons of steel in new plants. This will demand, for the time being, a double cut in civilian consumption. But at the end of the year and a half, when the new plant comes into production and adds 15,000,000 tons annually to our national steel capacity, there will be enough steel for all needs now foreseen. Steel controls can then be abandoned.

There are, of course, innumerable difficulties in the way before even this single, seemingly simple operation can be accomplished successfully. Only a part of the steel investment will go into blast furnaces and rolling mills.

Must Expand Operations

The whole national apparatus for getting iron ore out of the ground, refining it, making steel of it, and moving it about in all its transformations from the mine to the ultimate steel consumer must be concurrently expanded. A national ore reserve must somehow be conserved in the Mesabi range, and thus iron ore production from the new Labrador and Venezuela sources must be expedited. A severe manganese shortage must be overcome. And all these different but related efforts must move forward together and abreast, if there is to be sufficient steel at the end of the process.

Nor is this all, by any means. An expansion in national production proportional to a 15,000,000-ton increase in steel capacity will carry with it a comparable increase in the national income. If the additional income is let loose as spending money, civilian and industrial consumption of all sorts of goods will rise wildly. All present figures for normal civilian requirements will go haywire. And once again, the new economic controls will have to be continued, in order to keep some sort of check on inflation.

In order to avoid this danger, the country must not only submit peaceably to the new controls during the emergency period; stringent credit restrictions and severe tax increases will also be needed to prevent the economy from choking on its own new spending money. In short, the whole business is a sort of test of American political maturity on an immense scale. "Do what is disagreeable now, and get the worst over with," is the advice of doctors Wilson, Weinberg and Clay. It will be childish not to take such advice.

Buying Stocks Should Be Considered Carefully Now

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 28—Have just telephoned an important brokerage house in New York City to ask its opinion on the stock market. The reply was: "We guess the market is finally getting high enough for the public to buy."

Look At The Record

The Dow-Jones Industrial Averages struck a high of 381 in 1929; they fell to 41 in 1932; they rose to 194 in 1937; fell again to 93 in 1942; rose again to 212 in 1946, from which they declined until a few months ago. They are now around 245, the high for 20 years; but this statement applies to only 30 stocks out of over 1,000 stocks. Many good stocks are now selling for less than they did in 1946, or earlier. Many people say: "All stocks have gone up except those which I hold. What is the reason?" The truth is just the reverse of this. Only a very few stocks are selling at their "20-year highs."

All the above causes the wisest investors to be neither bullish nor bearish just now. They believe stocks are good for income, but not for speculation. The stock market is very selective and the war outlook is very uncertain—either way. We are now doing right to prepare actively for World War III; but it may not come for years. Our hurried preparations may be useless.

What Mr. Hoover Believes

Mr. Hoover apparently believes that, unless there is a revolution in Russia, all of Europe—war or no war—may, for a period of years, try communism and that no War III can prevent it. He also thinks that the Russians now have no intention of striking North or South America unless we attack Russia. He believes we should now avoid war and concentrate on strengthening the United States militarily, economically and spiritually until the Europeans unite and show an enthusiasm to fight communism. Under this Hoover policy our markets should hold up.

If we should get into war with Russia and one or more of our cities are bombed, the Stock Exchanges would be closed to prevent financial panic. Everything—securities, commodities, rents, banks and wages—would be frozen. We would be ruled by a dictator and stocks would go down. Those who expect war should not buy stocks—certainly not unless they are very carefully selected by experts. Inflation, however, should help a few stocks.

Stocks vs. Homes

Certainly, anyone who does not own a house and an acre of land in a safe country village, should make such his first investment—war or no war. Many such places—well located, with water, fuel and neighbors—can be purchased today for one-third what it would cost to build them. I'm not advising their purchase for immediate occupancy; but for insurance and security.

Next, keep healthy, have a good bank account and a job which will give you a living. If you are dependent partly on investment income, then buy a very broad list of 30 stocks which have paid dividends for many years and which should give you about 5 per cent. If your local bank is unable to supply you with such a list, the bank can send to me at 270 Washington Street, Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, and I will freely send such a list to the bank for you.

Troublesome Pictures

IT IS NOT OFTEN that I go to movies, but recently I went to see a picture, "The Steel Helmet," under troublesome circumstances. My friend and colleague, Victor Riesel, first denounced this picture as containing distortions and evasions which he suspected of being aimed at presenting the United States and our forces in Korea unfavorably. Many have picked up that line without seeing the picture, which I am sure is an unfair way of doing things. Reading the script and not seeing the picture is not businesslike.

I saw the picture and it is a good presentation of the American character in its numerous complexities. I found the sergeant, a normal, tough, hard-bitten Yank, precisely the kind of stuff that has won our wars. The fact that a Negro and a Nisei are also heroes in no manner upsets me. There are nearly 15,000,000 Negroes in this country and they play an important role in our affairs, and the Negro troops in Korea have done remarkably well.

The Nisei are Americans born of Japanese parents, and a more devoted group of citizens is hard to find. They fought in Italy in World War II; they are now fighting in Korea. A Nisei hero can be substantiated in World War II and in the Korean War.

I write this not to boost a picture, but rather to express myself against labeling everything Communist which a person does not like. As much as I dislike Marxism, there are objectionable things which are not Marxist. A motion picture may be stupid without being Marxist.

To find a Communist implication in "The Steel Helmet" a straining at a gnat. And it serves no purpose. I know of no speech that more fully and decently expresses the American view of the sanctity of a prisoner of war than that delivered by the lieutenant in the Buddhist temple when the sergeant lost his temper and killed the North Korean.

I saw another picture, also as a preview, that did not make me as happy. "The Magnificent Yankee" is pretentious of being a biography of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. It told me nothing about Holme's overweening influence on our jurisprudence, nothing of his fundamental theories.

All I got out of it was that Theodore Roosevelt was angry with him; that Holmes loved Mrs. Holmes, which should not be unusual among married folks; that Holmes had a lot of secretaries all of whom, including Alger Hiss, who is excluded from the picture, made good.

There is a sequence involving Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whom I knew in those years. In the picture, Brandeis lacks that combination of dignity and humility which was his heritage. I cannot imagine why he was dragged in at all if he was not to be made to stand forth as a towering intellect.

Maybe it is tough to do this kind of a picture. Certainly it was tough for me to sit through it.

I have not seen "The Miracle," over which there is so much controversy. I mean to see it, as a news item.

Concerning it, I am in deep trouble. I dislike all forms of censorship and suppression. Yet, I find that the children I know are getting to have the queerest notions of life, most of which they get from motion pictures and radio. Certainly, I should object to a moron selling a child marijuana or cocaine or any other dope. Have I then a right to say that because I believe in freedom of expression, that freedom includes doping the mind and corrupting the character?

This is a problem which faces all parents. Is there nothing but six and murder to life? And is there no love but what the youngsters call "hot" love, by which they apparently mean overt, blatant, unrestrained sexual activity? If love is limited to that, why does the family exist at all?

So this picture "The Miracle" intrigues me, because I know Cardinal Spellman and I know that he would never have appealed to his coreligionists to reject it if he did not feel strongly that the pictures outrages moral law.

Maybe we need not worry about our children, but when I read of the "non-virgin" clubs, I wonder whether this subject is not more important to parents than what Harry Truman says of Robert A. Taft.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Actors Were Too Human

John Crosby

AFTER watching with considerable disquiet a dramatization of "The Chasers," a story by John Collier, on "The Billy Rose Show," I read one of Collier's other stories, "Another American Tragedy," in an attempt to find out just what went wrong on the the television show.

Collier, in case you're not familiar with his work, is a sardonic writer who writes with delicate humor of the grimmest possible subjects. Clifton Fadiman once wrote of him that his "mind is subtle, working only in the unexpected, the wild and the lightly diabolic." "The Chasers" is typical. It is a simple, vaguely medieval tale in modern dress, of a young man hopelessly in love with a girl who doesn't love him back. A contemporary sorcerer contemptuously sells him a love potion for a dollar. It works only too well. Within six months he is back at the sorcerer's looking for some sort of potion that will modify the woman's wild infatuation for him. There is only one, the sorcerer tells him—poison, which he sells him for $1,000.

The essence of this tale is, of course, the divergence in price between (a) acquiring a lovely lovelorn lady, (b) getting rid of her. Somehow this moral—perhaps immoral would be the word—got lost in translation to television. The tone of Mr. Collier's writing, his distinctive gift for wringing humor out of an essentially tragic situation, was altogether buried under excessively literal acting and direction. I don't know that this was anyone's fault. Real live human actors are just a little too real, too live and too human for Mr. Collier's macabre wit. Perhaps an animated cartoon would be the answer to dramatizing Collier if Collier has to be dramatized. As it was, "The Chasers" became just another story with a twist which telegraphed itself a mile ahead, the sort of thing that is a dime a dozen on radio.

I bring this up because there is a good deal of this on television these days. An excellent short story on paper does not necessarily make an excellent short story on television. Some stories are inherently undramatizable; others lend themselves to drama only if done by experts and they don't always get expert care. The problem of distinguishing the dramatizable from the undramatizable has plagued the movie people these many years now, and I expect it'll continue to plague the television people, too.

The Rose show still sets a high standard in production which is by Jed Harris, direction and acting. The stories are all simple one-cylinder-plot affairs, generally with a small cast, highly suited to the intimacy of television. Just what Mr. Rose has to do with them, though, is becoming a bit of a mystery. Originally he was to have contributed the stories from his late column. He apparently has run out of these already and is resorting to other authors.

This dilemma will eventually face a lot of television programs, a matter that was brought to my attention by John McClain, who is also in the miserable profession of column-writing: "How about Pulitzer Prize Playhouse and the Somerset Maugham Theater and the rest of them when they run out of material? First it will be the stories of men who were considered for the Pulitzer Prize; then men who were nearly considered and so forth until we have arrived at stories of men who read Pulitzer Prize stories. Maugham will have to resort to 'stories I almost wrote,' 'stories I read and liked,' 'stories I didn't quite have time to read but are notable.'"

Actually this situation has already come to pass, and television is still in its infancy. The Pulitzer Prize Playhouse has presented stories that never came within shooting distance of a Pulitzer Prize, Mr. Rose has wandered clear off the reservation, and the Arthur Godfrey show is still billed that way and opens with the cast singing "Here is Arthur Godfrey" when, of course, what actually appears on your screen bears a remarkable resemblance to Robert Q. Lewis.

A theater or a movie house would be in grave difficulty with the public and with the authorities if it advertised Ethel Merman on the marquee and then gave the audience Judy Canova. But in broadcasting anything goes.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28 (INS)—Tomorrow morning Elizabeth Taylor goes into Los Angeles Superior Court on the first lap of her interlocutory divorce from Nicky Hilton. Her most important witness will be Mrs. Marshall Thompson — but don't look for fireworks. Liz's "complaint" will be as brief as possible as Nicky is not contesting the suit.

Elizabeth Taylor

With her divorce behind her — Elizabeth will be kept busy at M-G-M in two costume pictures. Late in April she goes to London to co-star with Stewart Granger in "Ivanhoe." Her M-G-M bosses believe it will be a good thing for their overpublicized darling to get away from it all.

Before that, however, Liz will play the charmer who gets Stewart Granger away from Ava Gardner in "Scaramouche"—which takes a bit of doing, you must admit.

Chatter in Hollywood: On Saturday, cute little Columbia Actress Terry Moore and her mother, Mrs. Luella Koford, were sitting on the Hawaiian All-Stars' bench in Honolulu watching Glenn Davis play basketball. Yes, his romance with Terry is that serious.

Glenn long distanced Terry and asked her to fly to Honolulu and bring her mother to chaperone her. Terry and her ma went there to cheer for her hero to win from the Harlem Globetrotters, the Hawaiian All-Stars' opponents.

Don't sell the romance between Terry and Glenn short, because it's the real thing. He's the boy that Liz Taylor was so madly in love with—her first.

One of the least conceited actors in our town is Bing Crosby, and he really has every reason to be pleased with himself, since he is one of the most popular actors in the world.

None of us can any longer have any doubt about that since the fan mail department at Paramount clocked the one millionth letter congratulating him on his 20th anniversary as a singing star.

Many of the letters came from youngsters. One from a little bedridden girl named Jo Ann Hoff, asked for an autographed copy of "White Christmas." Believe me, she received it.

Nicky Hilton, dining with a beautiful blonde at the Thistle Inn, refused to give her name. He told the manager, "If you say I've been here I'll never come again."

Bette Davis' ex-husband, William Grant Sherry, goes to Paris early in May. He'll study art on the G. I. Bill of Rights. Since he has been classified disabled, he won't be called again for service. He gave his best painting to Perc Westmore—a portrait of Emmet Kelly, the clown—because he said Perc had been his best friend.

Gene Tierney has bought an oil well in Texas. Well, if it comes in—oil's well.

Friends of Sally Forrest and Milo Frank are wagering they'll never marry. In Hollywood, however, it's best not to place wagers on the outcome of any romance.

Paul McNamara comes into the Charles Feldman agency with a hatful of ideas.

Is David Selznick in Mexico City to make a movie tie-up there? Ostensibly, he has taken Jennifer Jones there on a vacation, but I hear tell he is talking a deal with some of the Mexican movie biggies.

Marty Melcher will adopt Doris Day's eight-year-old son, Terry, as soon as they are married. The youngster is crazy about him.

Myrna Loy returns to Hollywood to make some TV shorts and to enlist support from our town for UNESCO. Myrna, who has become very social in Washington, is one of the most popular women there.

What, no red hair for Greer Garson! In "The Law And Lady Loverly" she will have to be a brunette, and not only a brunette but a lady with jet black hair.

Paulette Goddard must expect to remain in our town. She has taken a two-year lease on a house on Beverly Glen Blvd.

Jane Winston's novel, "Park Avenue Doctor," comes out in April. Jane, who was married to Michael Gottlieb, was formerly one of our best known actresses.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Coach Father Regis Larkin's St. Michael's basketeers of Frostburg won the first half championship in the Knights of Columbus Youth League yesterday by trimming SS. Peter and Paul in the Mountain City by the score of 60-28.

It was the 7th consecutive win for St. Michael's which has two more first half games on its schedule. The Frostburg team won the league title last season.

Germans Conquer U. S. Bobsledders

L'ALPE D'HUEZ, France, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States' bid for the world two-man bobsled championship fell short today and the crown went to the daring German pair—Andreas Ostler and Lorens Nieberl.

The Germans, giving their country its first post-war world championship, beat the Americans by about three and a half seconds in four runs down the nearly mile-long course of this Alpine winter resort.

Ostler and Nieberl, who took a substantial lead in the first two trips yesterday, held the advantage today with times of one minute 18.04 seconds and 1:15.90. The final run set a course record.

This gave them a total of five minutes 11.94 seconds to beat out the United States tanden of Stanley Benham of Lake Placid, N. Y., and Pat Martin of Massena, N. Y.

The Americans, both veteran international sledders, had runs of 1:17.92 and 1:16.76 for a total of 5:15.33.

The Swiss team of Felix Endrich and Werner Spring finished third by turning in times of 1:17.97 and 1:17.02 for a four-run total of 5:16.48.

Midway in the third period the lead of Coach Bill Keegan's outfit skyrocketed to 17 points at 51-34 but was lowered to eleven at 58-47 as the teams started play in the final heat. Late in the game the Spas' advantage zoomed to 22 points at 77-55 and 79-57.

Cumberland hooped 32 of 77 shots from the field while Beaver Falls connected 29 times in 85 tries. At the charity line, the victors meshed 18 of 26 attempts to the Tommies' 10 out of 20.

Forty personal fouls were called on the teams—23 on the visitors and 17 on the home club.

The game's high individual scorer was Bob Pence who banged in 19 points on nine fielders and one free throw. He was ably supported by Paul Oberhaus who played his best game of the season and scored 16 points, and Ed Mathewson who garnered 14. Lou Bell also heaved in a couple of hair-raising shots for the locals. Dom McComb and Stan Navage were Beaver Falls' top scorers with 17 and 16 points. Dick Peete, negro forward, played a steller floor game for the Tommies who were making their first appearance here. Lineups:

Foxx Would Like To See Somebody Beat Ruth's Mark

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—Old "Double X" who missed Babe Ruth's home run record by only two circuit swats in 1932 said today he thinks it would be good for baseball if somebody breaks the Babe's home run standard.

Old "Double X" is Jimmy Foxx, who hit the headlines again last week when he and Mel Ott of the New York Giants were voted into baseball's Hall of Fame.

"I think it would be a good thing if someone broke Ruth's record now," Foxx said.

"You hear fans talking about Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker and 90 per cent of them never saw those fellows play.

"I think it's always better for the fans if they know the players who make records. Then they have someone to go out and cheer for. You don't work up much enthusiasm over a page in a book."

Foxx, who's only 43 years old now, making him one of the youngest members of the Hall of Fame, is a salesman for a trucking company and lives with his wife and two children in Doylestown, which is not far from Philadelphia.

It was in Philadelphia, as a member of Connie Mack's great Athletics teams that Jimmy gained his fame. He won batting championships in 1933 and 1938, led American Leaguers in home runs in 1932, 1933 and 1939, was on five All Star teams and was the most valuable player in the league in 1932, 1933 and 1938.

It was in 1932 when Foxx hit 58 home runs, two shy of the mark of 60 set by Ruth in 1927.

Erie Stops Blues' Win Streak, 80-75

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 28 — Erie cracked the 10-game winning streak of the Wheeling Blues this afternoon in an All-American Professional Basketball League game here. The score was 80-75. It was Erie's 8th consecutive win on the home floor but the setback failed to pull the West Virginians out of first place.

Erie trailed at the half, 49-36, and pulled to within five points of the Blues at the end of the third quarter, 60-55. Coach Paul Birch's club tied it up at 65-65 and went ahead to stay on three goals by Fred Schwab. The latter, incidentally, led Erie in scoring with 21 points. Lennie Rhodes and Al McCullough had 16 each. Erie plays in Cumberland next Sunday afternoon.

Claire Doran Wins

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP) — Tall, graceful Claire Doran outshot the veteran Polly Riley, 3 and 2, in a tense golf duel today to win the Helen Lee Doherty Amateur Cup, her first major trophy in 10 years of tournament play.

The 27-year-old Cleveland school teacher never trailed through the 34-hole battle with the Fort Worth, Texas, ace and when they hit the last nine hole-lap, both tiring rapidly, Doran had the greatest staying power.

St. Joseph's Quint Beats LaSalle High

Martinsburg School Evens Series, 45-42

St. Joseph's High School squared its season series with LaSalle High School's basketball team by defeating the Explorers yesterday in Martinsburg, W. Va., by the score of 45 to 42.

Coach John Collins' quint dropped a 44-40 decision to Art Slocum's floormen in the opener of the series here.

The West Virginians pulled yesterday's game out of the fire in the final period after trailing 33-31 at the close of the third stanza. St. Joseph's led at the quarter, 11-5, and the score was tied at 19-19 at intermission.

Capt. "Bucky" McDonald who racked up 24 points in the series opener here, also sparked St. Joseph's in yesterday's game. The Martinsburg center garnered 21 markers on eight fielders and 5-7 fouls. Ray Petrucci was the runner-up with 13 points.

Paul Ackerman was LaSalle's best bet. He accounted for 20 points on nine field goals and two free throws.

Marty Mullaney and Don Farrell of LaSalle and McDonald of St. Joseph's were ejected on personal fouls.

Gehrmann Wins 36th, Richards Jumps 15 Feet

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—This is beginning to sound like a broken phonograph record — Don Gehrmann beat Fred Wilt in the mile run again.

This time it was in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden last night. About the best thing that can be said for Wilt's efforts is that he put forth his best and extended Gehrmann to a 4:07.5 effort, Don's best ever. It was Gehrmann's 36th straight mile victory.

The crowd of 14,000 in Madison Square Garden, performing its usual role of supporting the underdog, was for Wilt all the way, but despite its urging Fred couldn't open enough of a gap to fight off the famous Gehrmann finishing kick.

So the spectators contented themselves with cheering to the rafters for Bob Richards, the parson from La Verne, Calif., who likes the rarified air of the upper stratosphere. The demon deacon soared 15 feet 1 inch to become the second man in history to clear 15 feet in the pole vault.

Cornelius Warmerdam, who turned the trick 43 times, is the only other 15-footer. Corny, now retired, also holds the world's mark of 15 feet 8½ inches, so 24-year-old Bob has a long way to go.

Beaulieu's 253 Sets K. Of C. Loop Record

The Grand Knights went into a first place tie with the Recorders in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League by sweeping three games from the Guards yesterday on the Club Recreation alleys.

Recorders scored a 2-1 victory over the Chancellors.

Art Beaulieu of the Recorders hung up a new single game record for the league when he posted a 253. His three game total was 531.

Other high scorers were:

Tom McGeady, Chancellors, 174-443; "Pie' Conley, Grand Knights, 182-488, and "Ike" Law, Guards, 182-479. The standings:

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Grand Knights | 7 | 5 | .583 |
| Recorders | 7 | 5 | .583 |
| Guards | 5 | 7 | .417 |

Steelers Forfeit Three In LaSalle Dux League

The pace-setting Steelers lost three games via the forfeit route to the Eagles in the LaSalle Bowling League yesterday when they were unable to field a team due to sickness and two players participating in a basketball game.

Tommy Kolb led the Eagles with 144-392 while Jack Vocke topped the losers with 179-489.

| | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Steelers | 8 | 4 | .667 |
| Redskins | 7 | 5 | .583 |
| Eagles | 5 | 7 | .417 |

Bears Throttle Long Island, Columbia Remains Unbeaten

California Is Winner, 69-67; Seven In Line For NCAA Cage Tests

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Seven teams—Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Indiana, Columbia, North Carolina State, Arizona and Brigham Young—look like sure-fire bets for the NCAA basketball tournament.

Columbia, however, is the only one that possibly can get there without a defeat.

One of the two remaining spotless records in college basketball was fractured last night when California broke Long Island University's 16-game winning streak, 69-67, at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

This left the Ivy League's Columbia with the only perfect mark among major quintets—12 in a row this year and 21 straight over a two-year period. The Lions don't put this string on the line again until Feb. 6 when they play Harvard.

Now that practically all the cage powers have lost at least once—and, in some case, two or three times—interest has veered from the individual team records to the big question: Who's going to make the tournaments?

Seven Top Contenders

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has decided this year to give stock bids to the champions of ten major conferences and to pick six other teams at random.

Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Columbia, N. C. State, Indiana, Arizona and Brigham Young have taken a whip hand in their respective leagues and can almost start making traveling plans for the sectional NCAA playoffs.

The other three conferences haven't jelled to the point that their champions look certain but certainly inside tracks belong to Kansas State in the Big Seven, Texas in the Southwest and Southern California or Washington State in the Pacific Coast.

Top-ranking Kentucky and third-placed Oklahoma A & M struck the most effective blows during the past week in behalf of tournament berths.

The Wildcats from Lexington, Ky., smashed Vanderbilt, the only other unbeaten team in the Southeastern Conference, 74-49.

Oklahoma's Aggies downed Bradley, their keenest Missouri Valley rival, 49-48, Friday at Peoria, Ill. They whipped strong DePaul last night, 73-57. Unbeaten in the league, the Aggies have return games with Bradley and St. Louis but they look equal to the task.

The Conference Leaders

Here's how the other conferences line up:

Eastern (Ivy)—Columbia with a 5-0 league record is cleanly dominating play. Main threats are Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Southern—N. C. State has a 10-0 league mark, beating Virginia Tech, 114-66, and North Carolina, 71-58, during the week.

Big Ten—Indiana (6-0) only unbeaten member and already winner over Illinois, figured strongest challenger. Beat Minnesota last night, 32-26.

Skyline Six—Brigham Young has an almost insurmountable lead with a 7-2 mark. All others have lost at least four games.

Border—Arizona has won six, lost none in the league and the others not close. Beat San Jose last night, 62-55.

Big Seven—Kansas State is the leader with four victories and no defeats but Kansas is close at 4-1 with a game coming up Feb. 24. The K-Staters beat Colorado last night, 63-42.

Southwest — Texas (4-0) setting the pace but Texas Christian (3-1) and Texas A & M (3-1) ready to step in if the Longhorns falter.

Pacific Coast—Southern California (3-1) and Washington State (4-2) divisional leaders but look out for Washington and UCLA.

In the NCAA tournament eight teams will compete in the western regionals March 21-24. The eastern regionals will be divided into two meets with four teams scrambling at Madison Square Garden March 20, 22, 24, and four at Raleigh, N. C., March 20.

The college nabobs will have plenty of talent from which to pick the six "floater" teams, which can come from conferences as well as independents.

Some of the season's standouts that come readily to mind include St. John's of Brooklyn, Villanova, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Evansville, Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Hamline, St. Bonaventure, Stanford, Oklahoma, Illinois, Wisconsin and Seattle. LIU is not a member and is ineligible.

Faces More Trouble

The defeat of LIU, second ranked nationally, by nine-times-beaten California last night furnished the largest damage to the sport's top ten, as picked weekly in the Associated Press poll.

The Golden Bears, led by Billy Hagler's 17 points, piled up a 38-28 lead early in the second half and hung on. The Blackbirds pulled within a point, 64-63, in the fading minutes but could get no closer.

LIU faces possible further defeats on the return trip home, meeting Arizona tomorrow night, Kansas State Wednesday and St. Louis Saturday.

Other top teams—except fourth-ranked Bradley which lost to the Oklahoma Aggies Friday — came through the week without a scar.

Lew Captures $2,000, Edges Lawson Little

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28 (AP) — Lew Worsham, who hadn't won an important golf title since 1947, the year he was U. S. Open Champion, today captured the $10,000 Phoenix Open title with a 272 for the 72 holes.

The winner calmly sank an eight-foot putt on the final hole for a one-under par 70 today and a single stroke edge over Lawson Little, former amateur and professional champion.

Barely Clings To Lead

The 33-year-old Worsham, started as strong today as yesterday when he set a new competitive course record of 63 for the 6,698-yard, par 35-36—71 Phoenix Country Club course. But he faded after the first eight holes and barely clung to the lead.

On hand to watch the finish was Ben Hogan, the golfer of the year for 1950, who had started his first competition of 1941 here, but was forced out by intestinal flu after leading the field with a 65 in the first round.

Worsham's 63 had given him a two-stroke lead at the start of today's play.

Winner Gets $2,000

Sunny weather and temperatures in the mid 70's helped the 60 survivors of a field of 125 as they played for a $2,000 first prize.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., tied for third with 274, and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., was fifth with 275.

Lloyd Mangrum, troubled by a pulled muscle in his back, sagged from the second place he had yesterday and fired a 73 for a 277 total. With him was Johnny Bulla, who calls Phoenix his home in the winter.

Jimmy Demaret, who sought his third straight Phoenix Open victory, wound up down the list with a 281.

Down the line came Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, Carey Middlecoff, winner of last week's open at Long Beach, and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., the three each had 278.

Tucson Is Next Stop

Ellsworth Vines, great tennis and golf player, making one of his few tournament appearances, wound up at 279 with Ed Furgol, Jimmy Hines and a pair of young Texas professionals, Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas and Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston. Then came Demaret.

Low amateur prize went to Jack Coyle of Springfield, Ill., who fired a 289.

Next stop on the winter tournament will be at Tucson, Ariz., on Thursday for the start of a four-day affair.

To Poll Members

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Southern Conference executive committee decided today to poll its 17 members on the question of allowing freshmen to participate in varsity athletics in view of the war situation.

WINS TOURNEY — Lew Worsham, winner of the National Open in 1947, came back into the golf picture yesterday when he took first place and prize money of $2,000 in the Phoenix Open. He posted a 272 for the 72 holes, nosing out Lawson Little by a single stroke.

Riot Marks Cage Battle In Virginia

Punches Are Thrown At VPI-W. & L. Game

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 28 (AP)—Virginia Tech basketball coach Flake (Red) Laird said today the Southern Conference should act to prevent such incidents as the "riot" which interrupted Tech's game with Washington and Lee at Lexington last night.

"Wallace Wade (conference commissioner) ought to take steps to get school to curb crowds at basketball games," Laird said. "I'm going to make a full report to our authorities."

Laird still was visibly peeved over last night's incident. With 31 seconds left in the game, Chuck Grove, a W & L reserve, raced onto the floor and hit Tech's center Sumner (Tex) Tilson during a timeout period.

People began piling out of the stands. Punches were thrown. Laird said one of his players, forward Gene Jones, had been "stomped and knocked senseless."

Laird and W & L Coach Scott Hamilton agreed tempers had been edgy before the fight. Minutes before, Laird had protested to the officials that Tilson twice had been deliberately fouled by W & L's Jay Handlan. He wanted to know why the officials — Winston Milan of Lynchburg, Va., and Walter Schuman of Waynesboro, Va.—had not awarded Tilson two shots each time.

Laird was roundly booed. Presently, Tilson elbowed Handlan. Handlan fell to the floor. W & L took time out. Grove, Handlan's roommate, hit Tilson.

"Everytime I saw somebody in a red uniform being attacked by two people," Laird said, "I pulled one of the two off. I wanted to make it a fair fight.

"You can't protest a basketball game. But when we returned to the floor, I told the official scorer we were finishing under protest."

Laird said he didn't believe the incident would endanger relations between the two schools.

"I don't think the game officials could have prevented the riot. I do think that somebody from Washington and Lee should have spoken to the crowd early in the game. We're used to howling mobs.

"We're used to being called hayseeds . . . but a bunch of red-blooded boys is bound to react to being called the names we were called.

"Everything seemed to happen at once. Grove hit Tilson and some of our kids jumped Grove. But I don't hold Grove responsible . . . He was 'agitated' by a Washington and Lee football player . . ."

Hamilton agreed there had been "agitators" in the crowd. He described the incident as "one of those unfortunate things."

Washington and Lee won the game, 61-58.

Piedmont Will Visit Bruce, Potomac State, Howard To Hit Road

Fort Hill High School's undefeated basketball team will be shooting for its 12th victory of the season tonight when it meets Ridgeley High's Blackhawks in the opening game of their annual series on the Fort Hill court at 8 o'clock.

Bob Pence and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's Sentinels have whipped Davis, Hagerstown, Moorefield, Alumni, Martinsburg, LaSalle, Central, Bruce, Beall, Barton and Allegany in that order since the season opened and they're favored to beat Coach Ralph Poling's quint tonight. In marking up 11 wins, Fort Hill has piled up 580 points for an average of 52.7 while holding the opposition to 402, an average of 36.4.

Hartman Has 23.8 Mark

Sparked by Carl "Wink" Hartman who has accounted for 43.8 percent of his team's 576 points, Ridgeley goes into tonight's game with 7-4 record. Hartman has scored 262 points for an average of 23.8. In games with other Cumberland teams, Ridgeley lost to AHS 56-49 and beat LaSalle 50-41.

Jack Rice, Fort Hill player, who was injured in the LaSalle game is coming along nicely and may get to play before the season closes. The cast has been removed from Rice's wrist but he'll have to take things easy for awhile.

Piedmont At Bruce

Piedmont and Bruce, Tri-Towns rivals, are slated to clash tonight at 8 o'clock on the Westernport court. Piedmont has a 4-8 record while Bruce has three wins and eight losses.

Potomac State invades Ohio tonight to play Steubenville College while Howard High of Piedmont tests Kelly Miller's quint at Clarksburg, W. Va.

Rules Clarified By Cage Officials

Rules were clarified and interpreted for the benefit of the coaches at a meeting of the Cumberland area branch of the Eastern West Virginia and Western Maryland Basketball Officials' Association held yesterday at the Central YMCA.

Coaches in attendance were John Paugh, Moorefield; William "Huck" Miers, Piedmont; John Shelton, Keyser; "Woody" Woodson, Bruce, and John J. Cavanaugh, Fort Hill.

Officials present were William "Bee" Orndorff, William P. Hahn, Lou Baker, Raymond Sindy and John Halterman, Moorefield; Jim Hosack, John Angelletta; James Shumate and Eck Miers, Keyser; Clifton Van Roby, Larry Patterson, of Westernport; John McVicker, Ralph Twigg, Robert Herboldsheimer, "Chuck" Wilt of Accident; Bob Farney and Eddie Diehl.

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ida B. Twigg, who passed away 4 years ago, January 29, 1947.

Mother of mine, our God has called
Your spirit out of Night,
To take you from Life's darkness to
The Everlasting Light.
And weeping at your mortal grave,
Your child shall still rejoice,
Knowing you have but answered:
"Here!"
Who heard His Heavenly Voice.

Leonard Family Lost Everything In Fire

Mrs. Harry Leonard, whose Baltimore Pike residence and personal possessions were destroyed by fire January 19, said last week that the family had no insurance on their furniture. Newspaper accounts of the fire stated the furniture was insured.

Mrs. Leonard, whose husband was injured in the fire, said the newspaper statement has made it difficult for the family to obtain assistance from local relief agencies, friends and neighbors, and they are having difficulty getting furnishings for a new home.

She further explained that she and her husband did have fire insurance on their furniture, but the policy had been permitted to lapse when her husband was ill and unable to work last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are now residing temporarily at 219 Park Street. She is working as a nurses aide at Allegany Hospital and he has employment at the Baltmiore and Ohio Railroad as a yard fireman.

The first historical society in the United States was formed by Massachusetts.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Jean E. Grimes vs. James J. Grimes, No. 22,016 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the Plaintiff from the Defendant, A VINCULO MATRIMONII. The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married on 27th day of March 1945, in Winchester, Virginia, and the defendant deserted your oratrix on the 10th day of June 1947, and that the desertion was deliberate and that the abandonment has continued and uninterrupted since that date and is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of any reconciliation and that the defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and that his last known address was Roswell, New Mexico.

It is thereupon ordered upon this 6th day of January 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of February 1951, give notice to the said non resident defendant, the object of this suit, warning him to appear in this court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of February 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should the "boss" talk to employees?

Answer: Yes, say the business psychologists, pointing out the fact that one major source of industrial dissatisfaction is the worker's sense of being treated like a machine rather than a human being. But the wise employer will want to be personally acquainted with his workers for his own sake as well, since production even in the best organized business depends on morale and a business head cannot maintain morale among his workers if he does not understand their feelings about their work and the people they work for

May a man "mother" his wife?

Answer: Psychologically, yes. A baby boy's first impression of a powerful and important person is the mother upon whom as the provider of both food and care his life depends. Much as he loves her, he is still painfully conscious of the helplessness which his dependence upon her involves, and as he gets older, he unconsciously resolves to make up for this by reversing the situation and himself becoming the provider for his wife and later for his children. Feeling that he now has the power and importance which his mother once had unconsciously helps to make a normal man enjoy being the breadwinner.

Is mental rehabilitation the psychiatrists' job?

Answer: No, writes Dr. Temple Burling, in the American Journal of Orthopsychiatry. To restore a mentally-ill patient to his fullest usefulness to the community requires the cooperation of all those who have been associated with his cure. This means not only the psychiatrists but the members of the hospital staff, the social workers and the members of the patient's family. For this reason, it is especially important that the mental hospital shall become more fully part of the community to which its real function is to restore temporarily disabled men and women.

Courses On 30-Hour Week

Courses at the Allegany Trade School all are operated on a 30-hour week. They extend for as short a period as 44 weeks, for bricklaying, to 132 weeks for the machine shop course.

Shannon issued a reminder to young men of the area yesterday that there are or soon will be vacancies in practically all courses conducted by the school. Those interested are advised to call at the school.

Under present law, the deadline for commencing training under the GI Bill is July 25, 1951.

Students at Allegany Trade School sometimes show public spirit by cooperating on charity jobs. For instance, when the hurricane-like wind last Sunday blew the roof off a house of Mrs. Elizabeth Klitsch, 513 Furnace Street, student carpenters, bricklayers and electricians pitched in and put the roof back on the house, Shannon said.

It was described as resembling two great thunderclaps.

Hundreds of witnesses saw a tremendous white flash in the sky, followed closely by another flash, orange in color and not as bright.

The blast presumably took place well within the huge testing range, which is about 40 miles from Las Vegas.

Two previous tests had taken place, one on Wednesday night and another early Saturday. Those two seemed to be build-ups for the Sunday punch.

It aroused nearly everybody around here.

YOU KNOW IT WILL WORK

YOU HAVE such an exact count of an opponent's hand sometimes that you know a certain play is sure to work. That applies to the type of throw-in whereby success depends on his inability to return the only suit which could prevent your ruffing in one hand while discarding a loser from the other. Such a procedure is not available very frequently, but when it is the successful result gives you a lot of satisfaction.

South wound up extremely glad his partner had made the final bid of 5-Hearts instead of doubling the 4-Spades sacrifice effort, which could have been beaten only four tricks if the side scored two trump tricks, two tricks each in the minors and a diamond ruff. That would have been worth 700 points, whereas the doubled 5-Hearts had a true value of about 150 more.

West led the diamond 3 to the A, whereupon South counted up. On East's bidding of diamonds before spades, he located nine cards in those suits. The heart A-Q would surely be in East's hand for the double. That left only two clubs. So he saw that, after two club rounds, East could be compelled to return a spade or diamond after those suits were eliminated from both of South's holdings.

Preparing for this, South on the second trick led to the club A, discarded the spade 5 on the diamond K, finessed the spade Q successfully, stripped spades with the A, led to the club K, eliminated the final diamond by ruffing the 8 with the heart 3, and was ready for the killer.

The heart J was led and allowed to go through to the Q. East was helpless. He could score the heart A, but then had nothing left but spades and diamonds. He chose the spade K, which South ruffed in dummy while discarding his last club, the 6. This of course left only hearts in the South hand.

Williams And Pep In Bouts This Week

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams and Willie Pep, the former featherweight king, engage in tuneup fights this week in preparation for soon due title contests.

Williams, who probably will defend his crown against Art Aragon in March, faces Vic Cardell, a fast-rising young welterweight from Hartford, in a non-title ten in Detroit Wednesday night. This bout will be broadcast and telecast by C.B.S.

Pep, who meets featherweight champion Sandy Saddler Feb. 23 in the fourth bout of a sizzling series, takes on Tommy Baker in a ten at Hartford Tuesday night. It will be Willie's first outing since he dislocated his left shoulder and lost to Saddler in Yankee Stadium last September.

The Friday night radio-TV show features two punching middleweights, Harold Green of Brooklyn, and Ernie (The Rock) Durando of Bayonne, N. J., in the main ten at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. The bout will be broadcast by A.B.C. and telecast by N.B.C.

Rau Revises His Plan For Conference

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 28 (AP) — India's Sir Benegal N. Rau spent today putting the finishing touches to a new version of his plan for a "peace conference" with Communist China.

The Indians feel such a conference holds the only hope for peace in Korea and the Far East.

A spokesman said this week's draft would include a paragraph stating clearly that the first order of business at the proposed conference—at which the United States, Russia, Communist China, France, Britain, India and Egypt would be represented—should be to arrange a Korean cease-fire.

This is in line with a suggestion made Friday by Canada's Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson in an attempt to find a compromise between the Indian view and the American demand to brand Red China an aggressor.

Circle Reports On Project

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP) — President Truman today joined in paying tribute to Lauritz Melchior, the Wagnerian tenor, on the 25th anniversary of his operatic debut in this country.

West Allies Shift Lines Of Supply

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Western Allies have decided their main supply ports of Hamburg and Bremen are too close to the Russians for safety.

Therefore, a new supply line through France is being created to feed the growing forces that will make up Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic pact bastion against aggression from the east.

U. S. authorities disclosed the change in strategy today. The move was decided upon at a conference held in Fontainbleau, attended by military experts of the U. S., Britain, France and the Benelux countries.

Since the war, the British army of the Rhine occupying Northwest Germany has supplied itself through the port of Hamburg. The U. S. occupation troops have depended on the port of Bremen.

The new plan calls for the British to be fed on overland routes from Antwerp and the Americans by rail and road from the French port of Bordeaux.

Tanker Breaks; Crewmen Saved

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — The Panamaniam tanker Janko broke in two in heavy seas off the Spanish coast today but all aboard were rescued, Radio Marine Corp. here reported.

The scene of the wreck was off Cape Finisterre light house, at the northwest corner of the Iberian Peninsula, in the Atlantic Ocean.

The report did not say how many men were aboard the 9,720-ton tanker. An earlier message said 23 had been saved by two of at least four other vessels standing by.

The U. S. Coast Guard in New York, on the basis of messages relayed by British radio stations, said the first distress call went out about 11:30 p. m. (EST) Saturday.

The Coast Guard said messages received this morning reported that 11 men had been removed from the Janko's stern part.

Others who had leaped overboard from the fore section were being picked up from the sea by lifeboats, the Coast Guard said.

Scholars Condemn Oust-Acheson Moves

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Republican moves to oust Secretary of State Dean Acheson were termed a "disturbing danger" in a statement released today by 875 American social scientists.

The scholars, from 77 colleges and institutions in 30 states, urged "firm support" of Acheson "in spite of the position recently taken by the Republican majority in Congress."

The statement was released on behalf of the other signers by an informal committee composed of Harry D. Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College; Allen Nevins, history professor at Columbia University; Dean Paul Appleby of Syracuse University, and Dean Edward S. Mason of Harvard University.

The strike has been scheduled for 4 a. m. Thursday by the AFL Amalgamated Association of Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, Division 1300.

Tavern Robbed, Juvenile Court Room Ransacked

Thief Cuts Holes In Doors To Enter

A bold robber, thought to be the one who has broken into a number of clubs in this city in recent weeks, robbed a local tavern and the Juvenile Court offices over the weekend.

An undetermined sum of money was secured by the man at Carolan's Tavern, 245 North Centre Street.

A complete ransacking of the court rooms at the Union Street county building failed to yield any monetary loot.

Police said the pattern of both entries was the same as that used in a number of recent robberies and theorized that the same thief was responsible for both of the forced entries discovered yesterday morning.

Police said the man cut a hole in the rear door of the tavern and escaped with an undetermined sum of money.

Authorities said last night they do not know the exact amount of loot at present.

The bold entry of the Juvenile Court rooms was discovered yesterday morning by a janitor. Police said entry was gained by cutting a hole in the front door of the courtroom suite.

Although the office was completely ransacked, there was no immediate evidence that anything was taken, police observed.

Police are still on the track of the man who broke into the American Legion Home, the 40 and 8 Club and the Moose Home in recent weeks.

Salvation Army Aids 716 Area Families In '50

Show Record Year In Relief Work

The Salvation Army, operating from the Citadel on North Mechanic Street, and the Outpost on Virginia Avenue, provided emergency relief and other assistance to 716 area families in 1950, according to the annual report just completed by Major Elmer Wall.

Of the total families aided, there were 3,156 persons assisted, including 1,762 children and 1,394 adults, the report shows.

The breakdown on types of assistance follows: Family grocery orders filled, 852; grocery orders filled at office, 381; used garments distributed, 7,673; second hand shoes distributed, 779 pairs; articles of furniture provided, 154; families given rental assistance, three; persons getting medical aid, 12; fuel orders, seven; new garments and new shoes, 65 to 14 families.

The Army also certified several hundred needy families for surplus food commodity distribution.

Transients Are Aided

A total of 1,243 transient cases were provided with meals and 817 with lodging during the year.

The total amount of cash spent for relief for family and transient cases was $10,361.16 and the value of clothing, other food, shoes, and furniture distributed is conservatively calculated at $10,000.

At Christmas, the Army spent over $3,000 for Christmas baskets and Christmas relief. Over 3,000 toys were distributed to over 850 children and 487 families were assisted at Christmas including 2,296 individuals.

Cites Service Clubs

Major Wall mentions Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Christmas Committee for his efforts toward the success of the Salvation Army's Yuletide program, and thanks the service clubs for their kettle drive.

During the year, the Salvation Army conducted 292 character building meetings with an attendance of over 4,000. In recreational classes held, 3,500 boys and girls attended 76 meetings.

Average attendance at Sunday School was 184 and the number of religious meetings held totaled 434, including both places. Open air meetings numbered 160.

Nearly 1,000 hours were spent in visiting hospitals, jails and other institutions to assist the unfortunate and the ill.

Salvation Army Board Meets Today

The Salvation Army Advisory Board will meet today at 12:15 p.m. in the Green Room at Central YMCA for its first meeting in 1951.

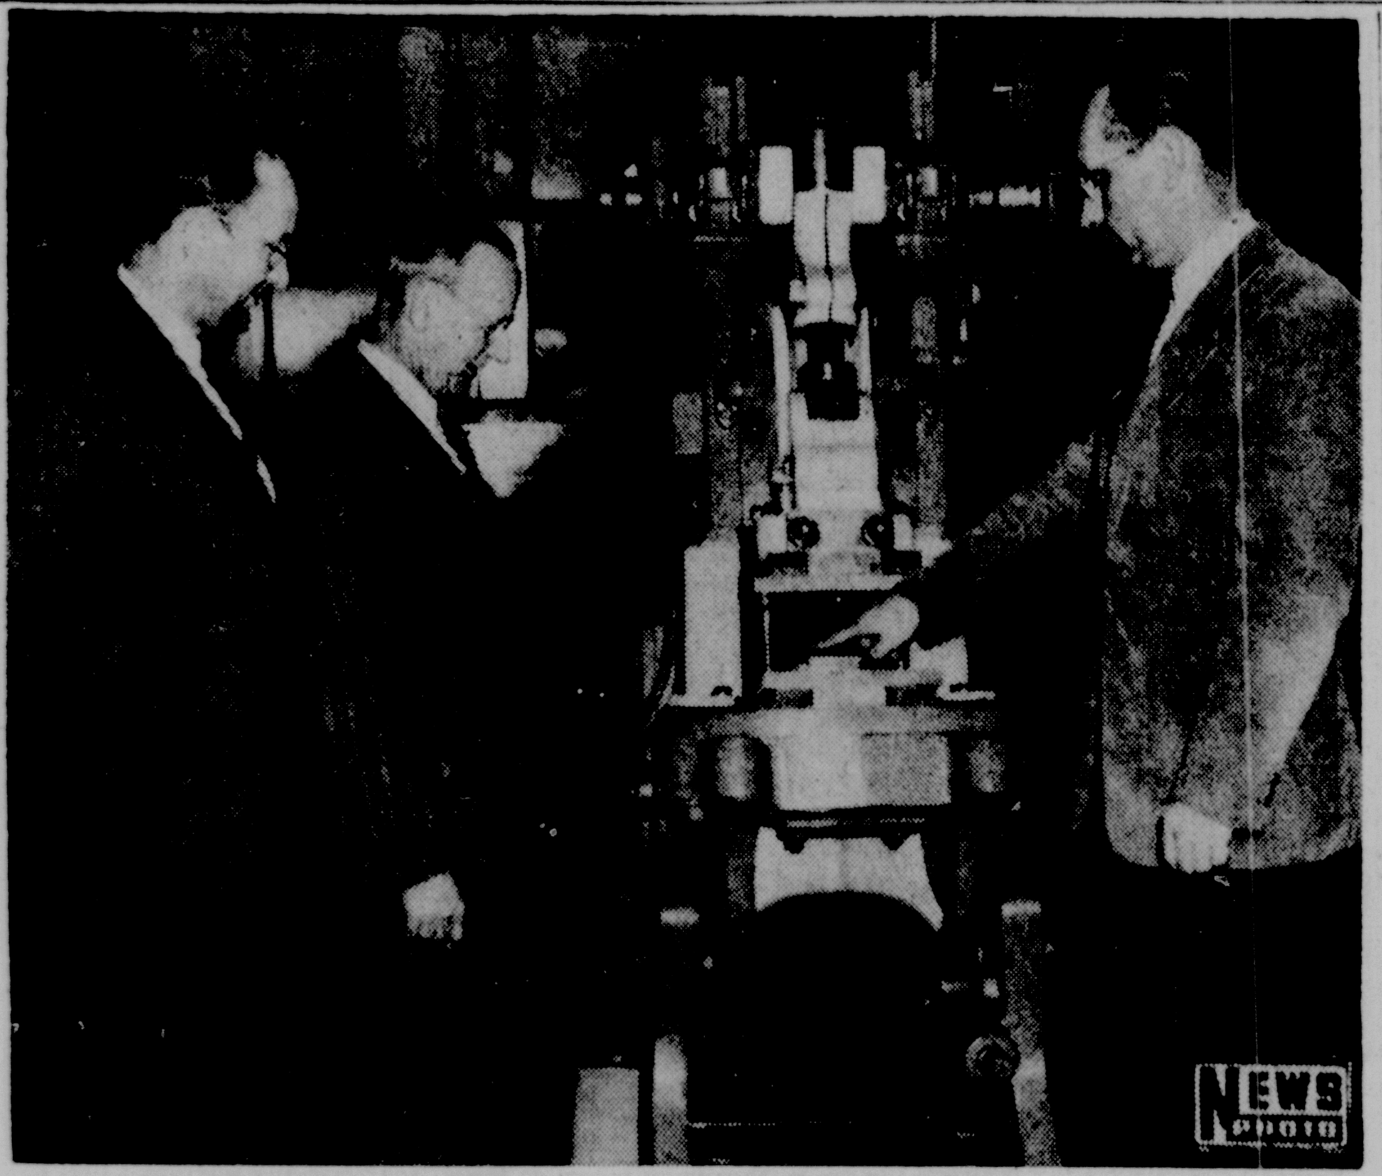
Bowmans Addition Fire Loss Last Year Was Only $3,650

Fire losses in Bowmans Addition last year totaled $3,650 and 22 alarms were sounded, according to Fire Chief Leo C. Emerick, of Bowmans Addition Volunteer Fire Company.

Chief Emerick explains that there were 10 grass fires, six in dwellings, two automobile fires, one in a bull dozer, one false alarm and two calls to assist other communities.

A total of 206 men responded to the 22 calls with an average of nine men per run.

The record is one of the best in the community and Chief Emerick says inspections of property and education of residents to eliminate fire hazards will help prevent greater fire loss. The quick response of members of the company in answering alarms has also been a contributing factor toward keeping losses low, he commented.



School Directors Will Change

These men figure in changes which will become effective February 1 at the Allegany Trade School, Paca Street. They are shown looking at a punch press in the GI training school, where some 80 young men are enrolled. At the left is Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education in the Allegany County schools. He announced the changes. Beside Lonnholm is A. A. Hubler who will take over February 1 as acting director of the school. At the right is Thomas F. Shannon, director of the school since the spring of 1947, who has resigned, effective next Thursday to take a position with a Baltimore consulting engineering firm.

Celanese Union To Open Run-Off Election Today

Aldridge-Snyder Seek Presidency

A run-off election to name top officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will open today at the Celanese plant and at the union hall.

Candidates are Playford Aldridge and Earl L. Snyder, for president; John M. Fatkin and William E. Meagher, vice president; Melvin Harris and John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer and business manager, and Charles F. Davis and John L. Estes, recording secretary.

Candidates for four Executive Board posts are Ishmiel Adams, William J. Atkinson, Robert Baker, Lillian Burch, Lindley Dye, Richard Jenkins, John G. Kreitzburg and Ira McBride.

Other candidates were elected last week as some 2,266 of the some 4,500 eligible voters took part in the election, one of the most hotly contested in a number of years.

The run-off voting will take place today, Tuesday and Wednesday on the same schedule as was used last week and will be under the auspices of the Honest Ballot Association.

A run-off vote is usually necessary in Celanese union elections since a candidate must secure 51 per cent of the votes cast to be elected.

The unusually large number of strong contenders for the top posts made a run-off almost a certainty.

The election was also unusual in that the local banned the use of slates.

Shannon Resigns Position At Allegany Trade School

A change in directors of the Allegany Trade School will take place Thursday, according to Julius D. Lonnholm, supervisor of industrial education in the Allegany county school system.

Thomas F. Shannon, 429 North Centre Street, a Cumberland native, who has directed the GI training school since the spring of 1947, is leaving February 1 to take a new position with the Machine and Tool Design Company, a Baltimore consulting engineering firm. His first job with that concern will be with the Lockheed Aircraft Company in Burbank, Calif.

A. A. Hubler, who has been mathematics and related information instructor at the Allegany Trade School, will take over as acting director next Thursday, Lonnholm announced yesterday.

Three Schools Involved

The center of the Allegany Trade School is the one-story building at the corner of Paca Street and Walnut Place, just behind West Side Fire Station. There auto mechanics, machine shop and machine and tool design are taught to some 80 students, all young World War II veterans whose education is being paid for by the Veterans Administration.

However, schools in three other Cumberland buildings also come under the direction of the same man. One of these is located in the Footer Building on South Mechanic Street, where basic auto mechanics, carpentry and bricklaying are taught to a total of 80 students.

Then, in the old Maryland Avenue School building, radio and electronics and electricity are taught to another 40 students. Finally the Allegany Trade School direction also extends to the evening cabinet making course which 25 Negro adults are taking at Carver High School on Frederick Street.

So, actually, the total student body operating under the Allegany Trade School direction includes some 225 young men.

Allegany Trade School was started in 1946 when it was realized that no private school was available for the training of veterans here under the GI Bill of Rights. So the school was organized by the Allegany County Board of Education in March, 1946, in the Paca Street building, erected in the mid-1930's by the National Youth Administration. Paul Alexander was the first director.

All of the students are sponsored

Street Cleaning Job Slated When Weather Breaks

Sweeper Schedule Will Be Announced

The City Street Department will begin its biggest street cleaning job in years as soon as the weather breaks.

Frequent cinderings and the mud resulting from construction projects within the city will necessitate a great deal of work on the part of street department work crews.

The job is neither practical nor possible as long as winter weather conditions exist, officials said.

The task will be a big one since the hundreds of truckloads of cinders scattered on snowy and icy streets must be removed.

Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent, said such heavy dirt, some of it now imbedded in ice, will have to be swept and shoveled to the curbs, where crews can load it into trucks.

Included in the debris of winter is an unusually heavy amount of mud scattered on the streets from construction jobs, such as the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

Coal trucks, Corrigan said, have also been adding to the condition as mud which froze to the vehicles at the mines dropped off in the city, where temperatures are generally higher.

Only after the heavy deposits of dirt and cinders are removed from the streets can the motorized street sweepers operate, he said.

The sweepers, he added, cannot be operated in freezing weather, since water used in the machine would mix with the dust from the streets to form a freezing mixture.

To Follow Schedule

When the danger of ice and snow allows the removal of the winter's accumulation of dirt, a regular schedule will be worked out for the operation of motor sweepers.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of Streets and Public Property, said the Cumberland Police Department will be asked to cooperate in the sweeping program.

The public will be kept informed of the schedule for the street sweeper, she said, so that cars can be kept off the streets on which the sweeper is to operate.

Man Hurt Near City With Blackjack

City police yesterday investigated the injury of a man who was reported blackjacked near here early yesterday morning.

Lt. James E. Van, called to Memorial Hospital about 4 a. m. yesterday, found a man identified as William Shumaker, 322 Henderson Avenue, suffering from a laceration on the head he said was inflicted by a blackjack.

The man, Lt. Van said, would not reveal how he was injured and declined to name the place, except to say the injury occurred out of the city limits.

The injured man was released after the cut was sutured.

Both State Police and the Sheriff's Office said they had no report of the incident.

Weather

Although the temperature stayed well above freezing yesterday in this area the weather bureau predicts a cold front sweeping down from Canada. Today's forecast calls for cloudy and colder with rain or snow. Yesterday's high at Constitution Park station was 36 and the low 34. There was .54 inches of rainfall during the twenty four hour period.

Miners Seek Discharge Of State Police

Illegal Arrest Is Charged In Probe

BULLETIN

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Col. Carey Jarman, State Police superintendent, said tonight he had no specific information on the assertion by three Western Maryland coal miners they were held for 36 hours by State Police without warrants.

Clarence Lippell, Cumberland attorney, said yesterday he had written Jarman and Governor McKeldin about the matter and asked them to discharge the three troopers.

McKeldin said at Annapolis tonight he had not heard of the case but "if it is brought to my attention, I shall ask for an immediate report from Col. Jarman."

Three Allegany County coal miners over the weekend called for the immediate discharge of area members of the Maryland State Police who, they said, illegally took into custody and detained them in connection with a probe of an explosion at a Garrett County strip mine.

Clarence Lippel, local attorney representing the men, released copies of letters to Col. Carey Jarman superintendent of the State Police; Russell S. Davis, commissioner of State Employment and Registration; Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, and Hall Hammond, attorney general.

The three men, Alex DeVault, 33, of Nikep; Lester "Pete" Lee, 36, of Nikep and Samuel Vinci, of Moscow, declared they were taken into custody on the morning of January 18 and two of them were released the next night about 9 o'clock. A writ of habeas corpus had been obtained by Lippel at 8:35 p. m. after it had been learned where the men were, according to the attorney. DeVault was released earlier in the evening.

Sign Statements

The three men said they had been questioned concerning the explosion at the Gaither strip mine operation above Barton in Garrett County. A large piece of machinery was blown up by what police said was a dynamite charge.

All three men signed statements in Lippel's office Saturday afternoon giving in detail the account of their detention and subsequent questioning.

Say Lie Detector Used

The men said that a device, reportedly a lie detector, was used on them.

The three men also said that they were taken to the Garrett county jail in Oakland after being picked up and charge that the State Police had no warrants for their arrest.

The officers listed by the men are Sgt. John J. Cassidy, Trooper First Class Milton G. Hart and Trooper First Class Timothy M. Gilmore.

Charges "Police State"

Lippel said he has been aroused by the action of the State Police and alleges that "police state" and "Gestapo-like" methods were used.

DeVault said that Officer Cassidy and another man came to his home at 7 a. m. on January 18 when his family was asleep, wakened all of them by pounding on the door and, after announcing they were State Police, forced him to get dressed.

Then, DeVault charged, without warrant of any kind, they forced him to leave his home, and took him to Garrett county, so that he could not be found and his family and friends could not come to his aid.

Lee said Officer Hart and another man came to his home the same morning and made his wife awaken him and in her presence and without any warrant, made him leave his home. Lee said they did not inform either he or his wife where he was being taken. He also was taken to the county jail at Oakland.

Vinci said he was stopped in front of his home at 7 a. m. the same morning by Officer Gilmore and another officer of the State Police. He also alleges that no warrant for his arrest was presented and that he was forced to get into an auto and was taken to the Oakland jail.

Held In Custody

All three men said a man by the name of Chapman, whom they were told was the state's attorney of Garrett county, and another state policeman, whose name they did not know, kept them in the Oakland jail without permitting them to communicate with anyone on the outside. The men said they were in custody about 36 hours. (W.

Sellers Praises Scouting; Warns Of Communist Clubs

"Appreciation of the responsibilities of American citizenship should come first — even before training in the arts and sciences," said George W. Sellers yesterday morning at the Knights of Columbus father and son communion breakfast in St. Patrick's Social Center.

"The peace, prosperity, and security of our country depend primarily upon the training of our youth," continued Sellers, Cumberland District Chairman of the Boy Scouts and member of Potomac Council Executive Board.

He reviewed for his audience the long history of scouting in this country from its inception more than 40 years ago to its two-and-a-half million membership today.

He pointed out how the boy's training as a scout goes hand in hand with sound citizenship and explained the Scout Council's plans for 95 per cent membership in summer camp this year.

Sellers concluded with the admonition to American fathers and sons to beware of many youth organizations masquerading as "American youth movements" when, in reality, they are Communist dominated groups. He suggested that youth investigate any organizations carefully before joining.

Store Building Under Construction

One of the many buildings now under construction in this city is the above, which will provide space for three modern stores on the site of the North Centre Street explosion of 1941. The ultra modern construction project will provide facilities for three new stores complete with mezzanine floors. Facades will be of California redwood and all will have visual fronts and Roman brick lobbies. The project is slated to be completed by April 15. They will adjoin three other modern buildings which were completed last year on ground left vacant after the disastrous blast.
